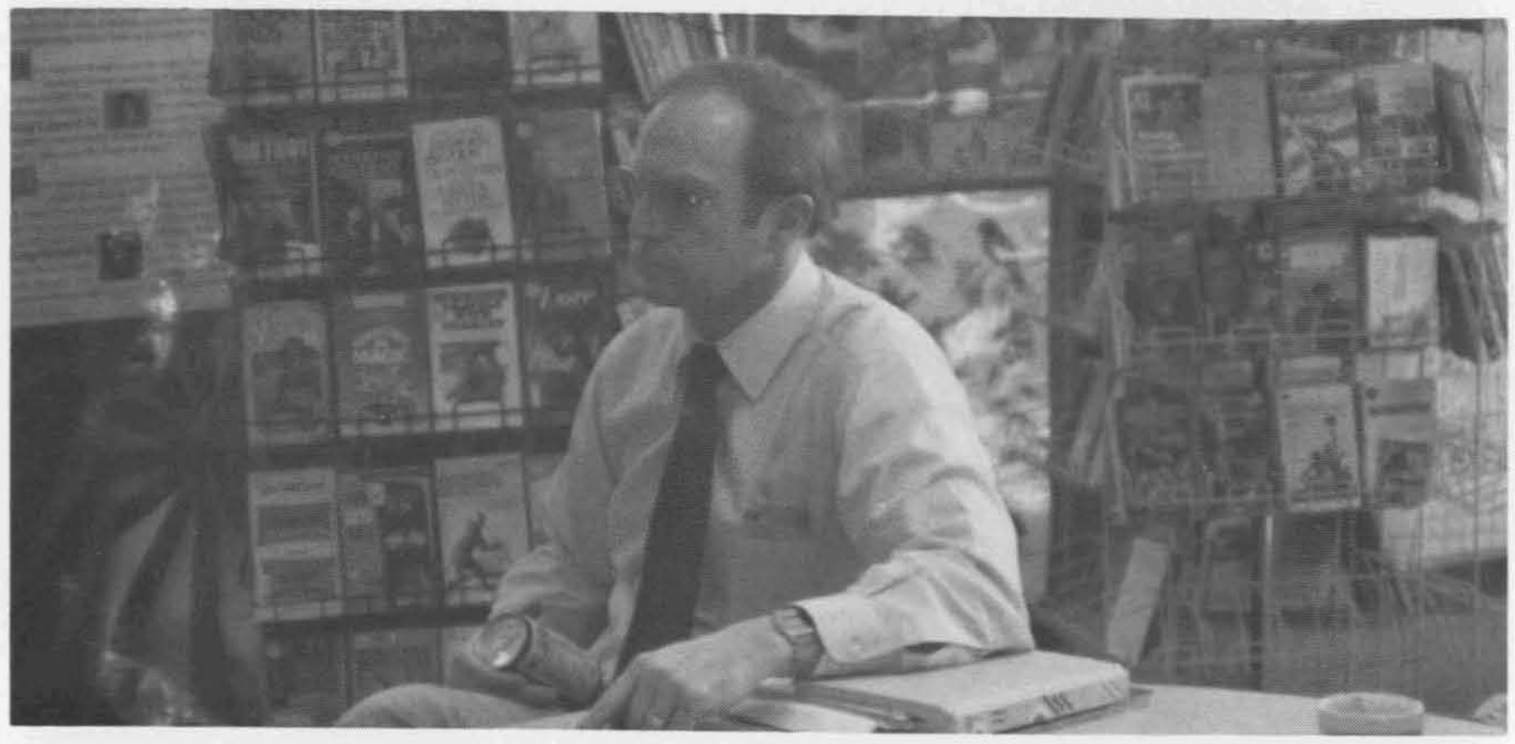
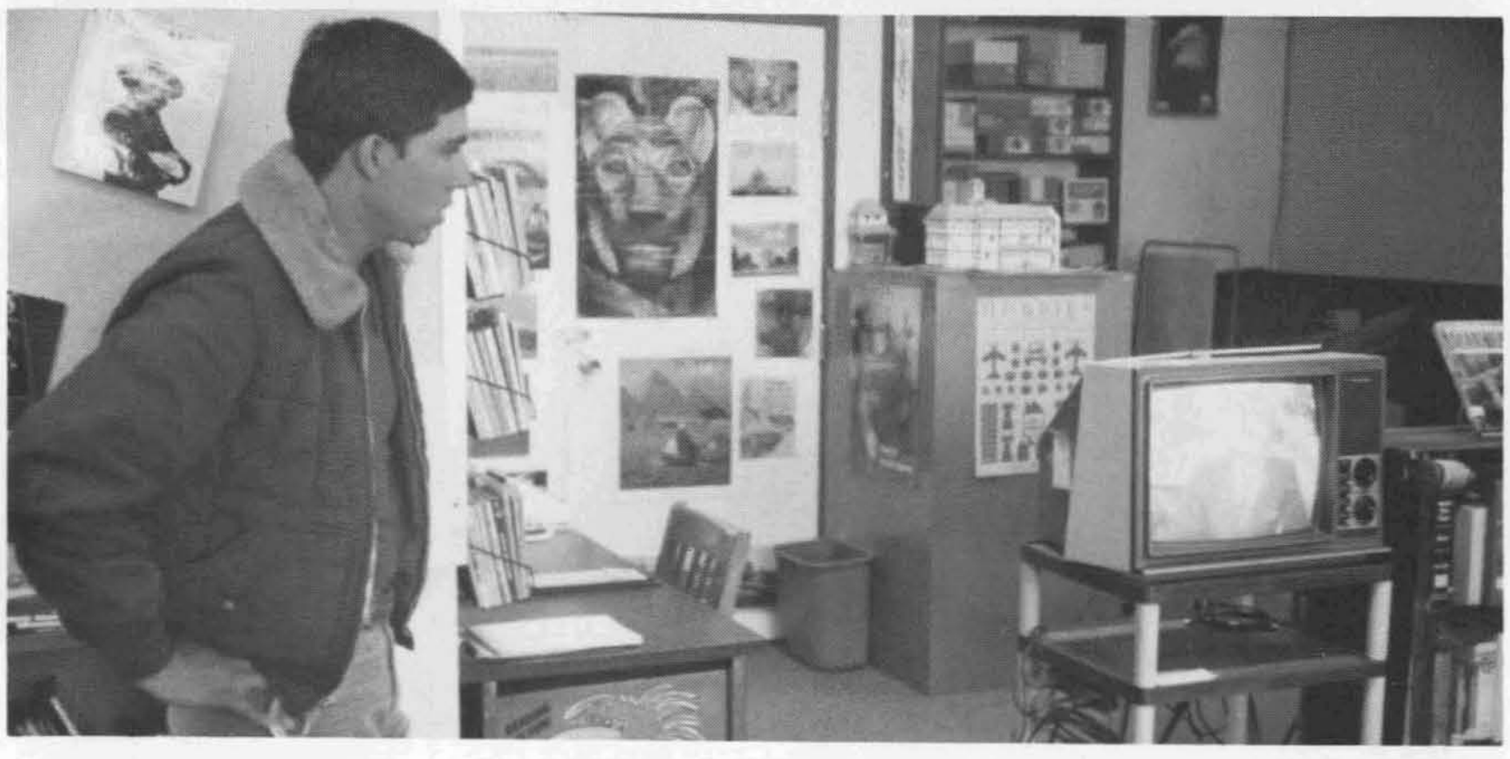
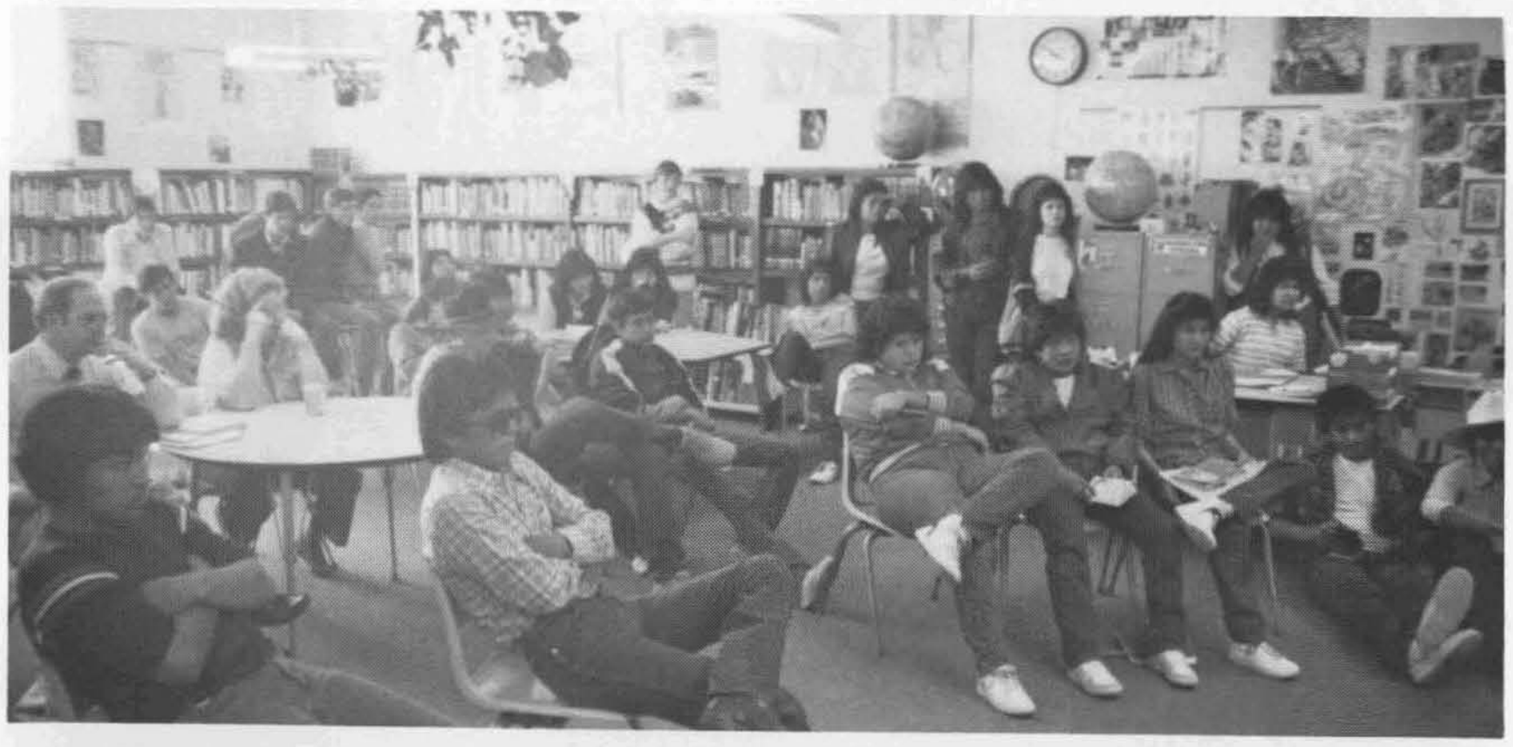
"Say What?"





On January 28, 1986 the Senior class felt a pang in their hearts. Mr. Myers came into the room looking quite depressed and asked for silence. He then gave them the terrible news that the space shuttle blew up, taking the lives of seven astronaunts; including Christa McAuliffe, the first private citizen and school teacher to go to space.



The Senior class decided from Mr. Myers suggestion, to write sympathy letters to Concord, N.H.; the students were more than happy to do this. They all hope that the letters will give the students and faculty there some type of comfort.
