CHRISTMAS MISCHIEF

BY THE WILLOW'S RESIDENTS

“A fun game of hide and seek turns into a disaster in Grandma and Grandpa’s basement! Grandma is still trying to get all of the decorations up for the holiday and she only has a week left before Santa comes. Grandma has been busy baking cookies, the entire house smells of Christmas! The grandkids, Jimmy, Donald, and Sally run around in the basement and knock over the Christmas tree! Oh No! Then they come up with the idea to blame it on the animals. Two cats, Tink and Friskie, and the dog, Trouble. The animals can’t tell grandma and grandpa what really happened and the kids won’t get into trouble. When grandma comes back into the room and finds the tree knocked over and the innocent pets sitting near it, she becomes angry but she is a forgiving grandma so she just begins the cleanup process. The grandkids feel so guilty for not being honest and telling grandma what really happened that they start to help grandma clean up the mess without being asked and grandma gets suspicious. Grandma now suspects the grandkids did this but says nothing; she wants them to tell the truth. Grandma deems that NO ONE can have any Christmas cookies until she finds out the truth! Suddenly little Jimmy blames Sally and Donald blames Sally! It looks like it was Sally who made the mess; two against one! Sally apologizes and grandma rewards the kids for their honesty and everyone gets a Christmas cookie after the mess is all cleaned up.”
