

Woody Moore

My name is Woody Moore and I am an advocate in Louisville Kentucky. I currently work as a Peer Support Specialist for Wellspring in Louisville Kentucky. I was originally appointed to the PAIMI Council in August 2013 to fill a term that had been vacated by another Council member. I enjoyed the work that the PAIMI Council did so much that I was reappointed to the Council in June 2015. One of my main reasons for joining the PAIMI Council was to help advocate for and to speak for those that felt that they had no voice. I have a passion for helping those with mental illness that are homeless and take part in the peer support group that helps to meet the needs of those that are most vulnerable and homeless. As a consumer and a person that was homeless at one point in my life I know the daily struggles of this population and the need for services for them. In May 2015 I was awarded the Billy Cox/Victoria Scott Self-Advocacy Award from Protection & Advocacy.
