

Aspenglow GSPs - Puppy Questionnaire

We are very happy that you have selected a German Shorthaired Pointer puppy as your next companion, this breed requires a good deal of exercise (daily walks, runs in open fields, trails, parks, anywhere where the dog can exercise freely under your supervision). Being a hunting dog it is very smart, quick, and needs stimulation so that it does not become bored, a bored dog can become destructive, a chewer, and nobody wants that. As breeders we see that in the same litter there will be some puppies that are more active than others and their activity and interests will show at a very early stage. We watch them constantly so that we can get an idea of their personalities and are able to guide you in your selection of a puppy.
