

WYOMING ARCHAEOLOGY AWARENESS MONTH

2020 WYOMING ARCHAEOLOGY WEAR

The 2020 Wyoming archaeology wear design features elements from two rock art panels at a site situated in the southeastern Bighorn Mountains. The t-shirt imagery has an array of colorful and unique figures not commonly found elsewhere in Wyoming rock art. Some of the elements that make this panel so unusual are the application technique of the colors, the body style of the figures, the use of green paint, the large red and green bear-human combination figure, the mask imagery in the middle, and a bear portrayed with a long tail. The hat and bag feature a petroglyph of a bear claw with a lizard inside of it.
