

Greetings from Sietar India!

May 23rd: Learning event in Bangalore! Its time to reconnect and re-energize!

Title of the event: Professionalism and ethics: Delivering value for client engagements

As interculturalists we need to manage varied cultural dynamics in engaging with stakeholders and clients, whichever sectors we may serve (academic, corporate, non-profit, and so on).

This learning event aims to examine scenarios we may deal with in bringing ethics and professionalism to our work, and share mutual insights through discussion on how we can best engage with our clients and develop professionally in the field. The workshop will be interactive and include scenarios that participants will work on individually and in groups.

Presenter: Brian Schroeder

Brian Schroeder heads the Nexus Consulting Group, which advises organisations human capital strategies, focusing on enabling people to work across cultures and languages within a global business environment. He previously built and headed Microsoft's culture and communication group that developed talent serving Microsoft customers and partners in the high-level technical support space. Brian regularly speaks on globalization, education, business communication, collaboration, diversity and inclusion, and intercultural effectiveness.
