Concert on Shepherd Hill

Cool evening temperatures are setting up for a great evening on Shepherd Hill. Steve Waldrip and Potter's Clay will perform on Shepherd Hill Opry stage, Saturday, September 17th @ 6 p.m. Come join us for a good old-fashioned evening of music, food and family fellowship. We will be having a potluck meal. So bring your favorite dish if you like, or just come with lawn chair or blanket and enjoy delicious dishes prepared by some of the best southern cooks in these parts!

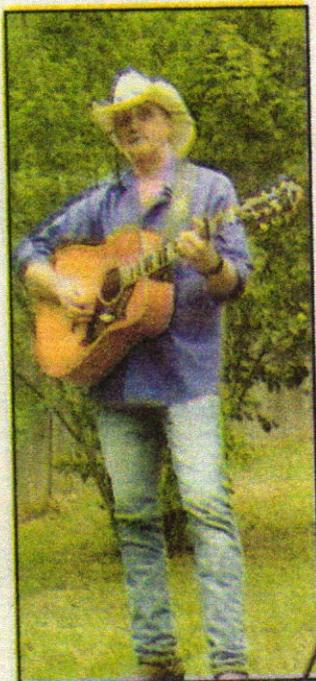

Steve's love of music runs as deep as the mighty Mississippi. Steve once lived every man's dream; he had all the women, money, drugs, and whiskey that any man could want in his past life working as a General Manager in the adult entertainment industry. Until one day after his attempted murder...

Steve found his life hanging in the balance - bruised and beaten horribly, he plotted revenge against his assailant's.

Steve will tell his amazing story as he also entertains us with his songs in a beautiful, laid back, southern drawl.

From Hawkinsville, Georgia, The Potter's Clay returns to Shepherd Hill Opry stage for another evening of music under the stars.

Clayton Holmes (Lead Vocals, Guitar), Freddie Stringer from the Coasters

Steve Waldrip

Band and JOJA band (Drums, Guitar, and Vocals), Brian Thomas (Keyboard) and Mike Anderson (Bass)

Count on Fiberglass Mill

View of the new mill building.

Plans for the new mill building are well advanced. The building will be a multi-story structure with a complex facade of windows and structural elements. The mill is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The new mill will provide a significant increase in production capacity and will be a major asset for the company.

Interior view of the mill building.

The interior of the mill building is a vast, open space with a high ceiling and structural beams. The space is well-lit and appears to be a large-scale industrial facility.
