

Puzzle Repair Service

If you have puzzles that you have been unable to play with, display, or re-sell at auction, due to them being damaged or broken, Rick Jenkins is now accepting wooden puzzle repair jobs. (This is a service independent of the Stickman Puzzlebox Co.)

Rick Jenkins is long time apprentice with the Stickman Puzzlebox Co, and has mastered techniques for repairing all sorts of wooden puzzles, (of most any type - by any designer, even some assumed to be beyond repair.) He shows great patience, attention to detail, and in most cases, Rick's quality repairs are so seamless that the original flaw can no longer be noticed.

Most every puzzle collection has that familiar drawer containing broken or damaged puzzles, just waiting to come back to life. Geometric and burr puzzle parts become unglued, corners get damaged, fits become loose, scratches occur, yosegi flakes off, and wood becomes warped or cracked with age. Internal mechanics of puzzleboxes at times jam up, and sometimes a puzzle is just in need of a quality refinish. Rick has the skill, talent and patience to fix them all.

For a quote on repairing a particular puzzle, please send pictures of the broken puzzle, along with a short description of the required repair to richard.jenkins1983@gmail.com . Rick will reply promptly with an estimate and details of the particular approach required for repairing it. Some repairs are straight forward, but others may require modifying the appearance somewhat to balance out his recommended modifications.
