A Note from Rick: Mixed markets at TLA this week. Let's start with the bad news and end things on a positive note. The calf market was terrible! This really shows how volatile this market is following last weeks sale. Things have been very unstable in this market for awhile now and it's definitely not getting any better. We had a light run of feeder and dairy cattle and the market was steady. Slaughter cattle were slightly higher and slaughter cows were definitely higher, wow! The cow market was very good! This market has been slowly and steadily gaining strength for the last couple of months and I look for this to continue. The big numbers of cows on the market are not there like they were 6-12 months ago and meat prices are still good. The catalog deadline for the Fall Draft Horse sale is August 15th and that's right around the corner. The Friesian, Pony, and Morgan sales are all booked and we've got a great line-up of horses in all of these sales this fall. We're definitely gearing up for a busy couple of months, can't wait to see you at TLA!
