

Journey From Afar

1. From the Hopeless to the Hopeful
2. From the Destructive to the Constructive
3. From Anxiety to Joy
4. From Conflicts to Peace
5. From Heaven to Earth
6. From the End to the Beginning

Living Nativity

Sat. Dec. 21st at 7 & 8 p.m.

Christmas Cantata

Dec. 22, at 11 a.m.

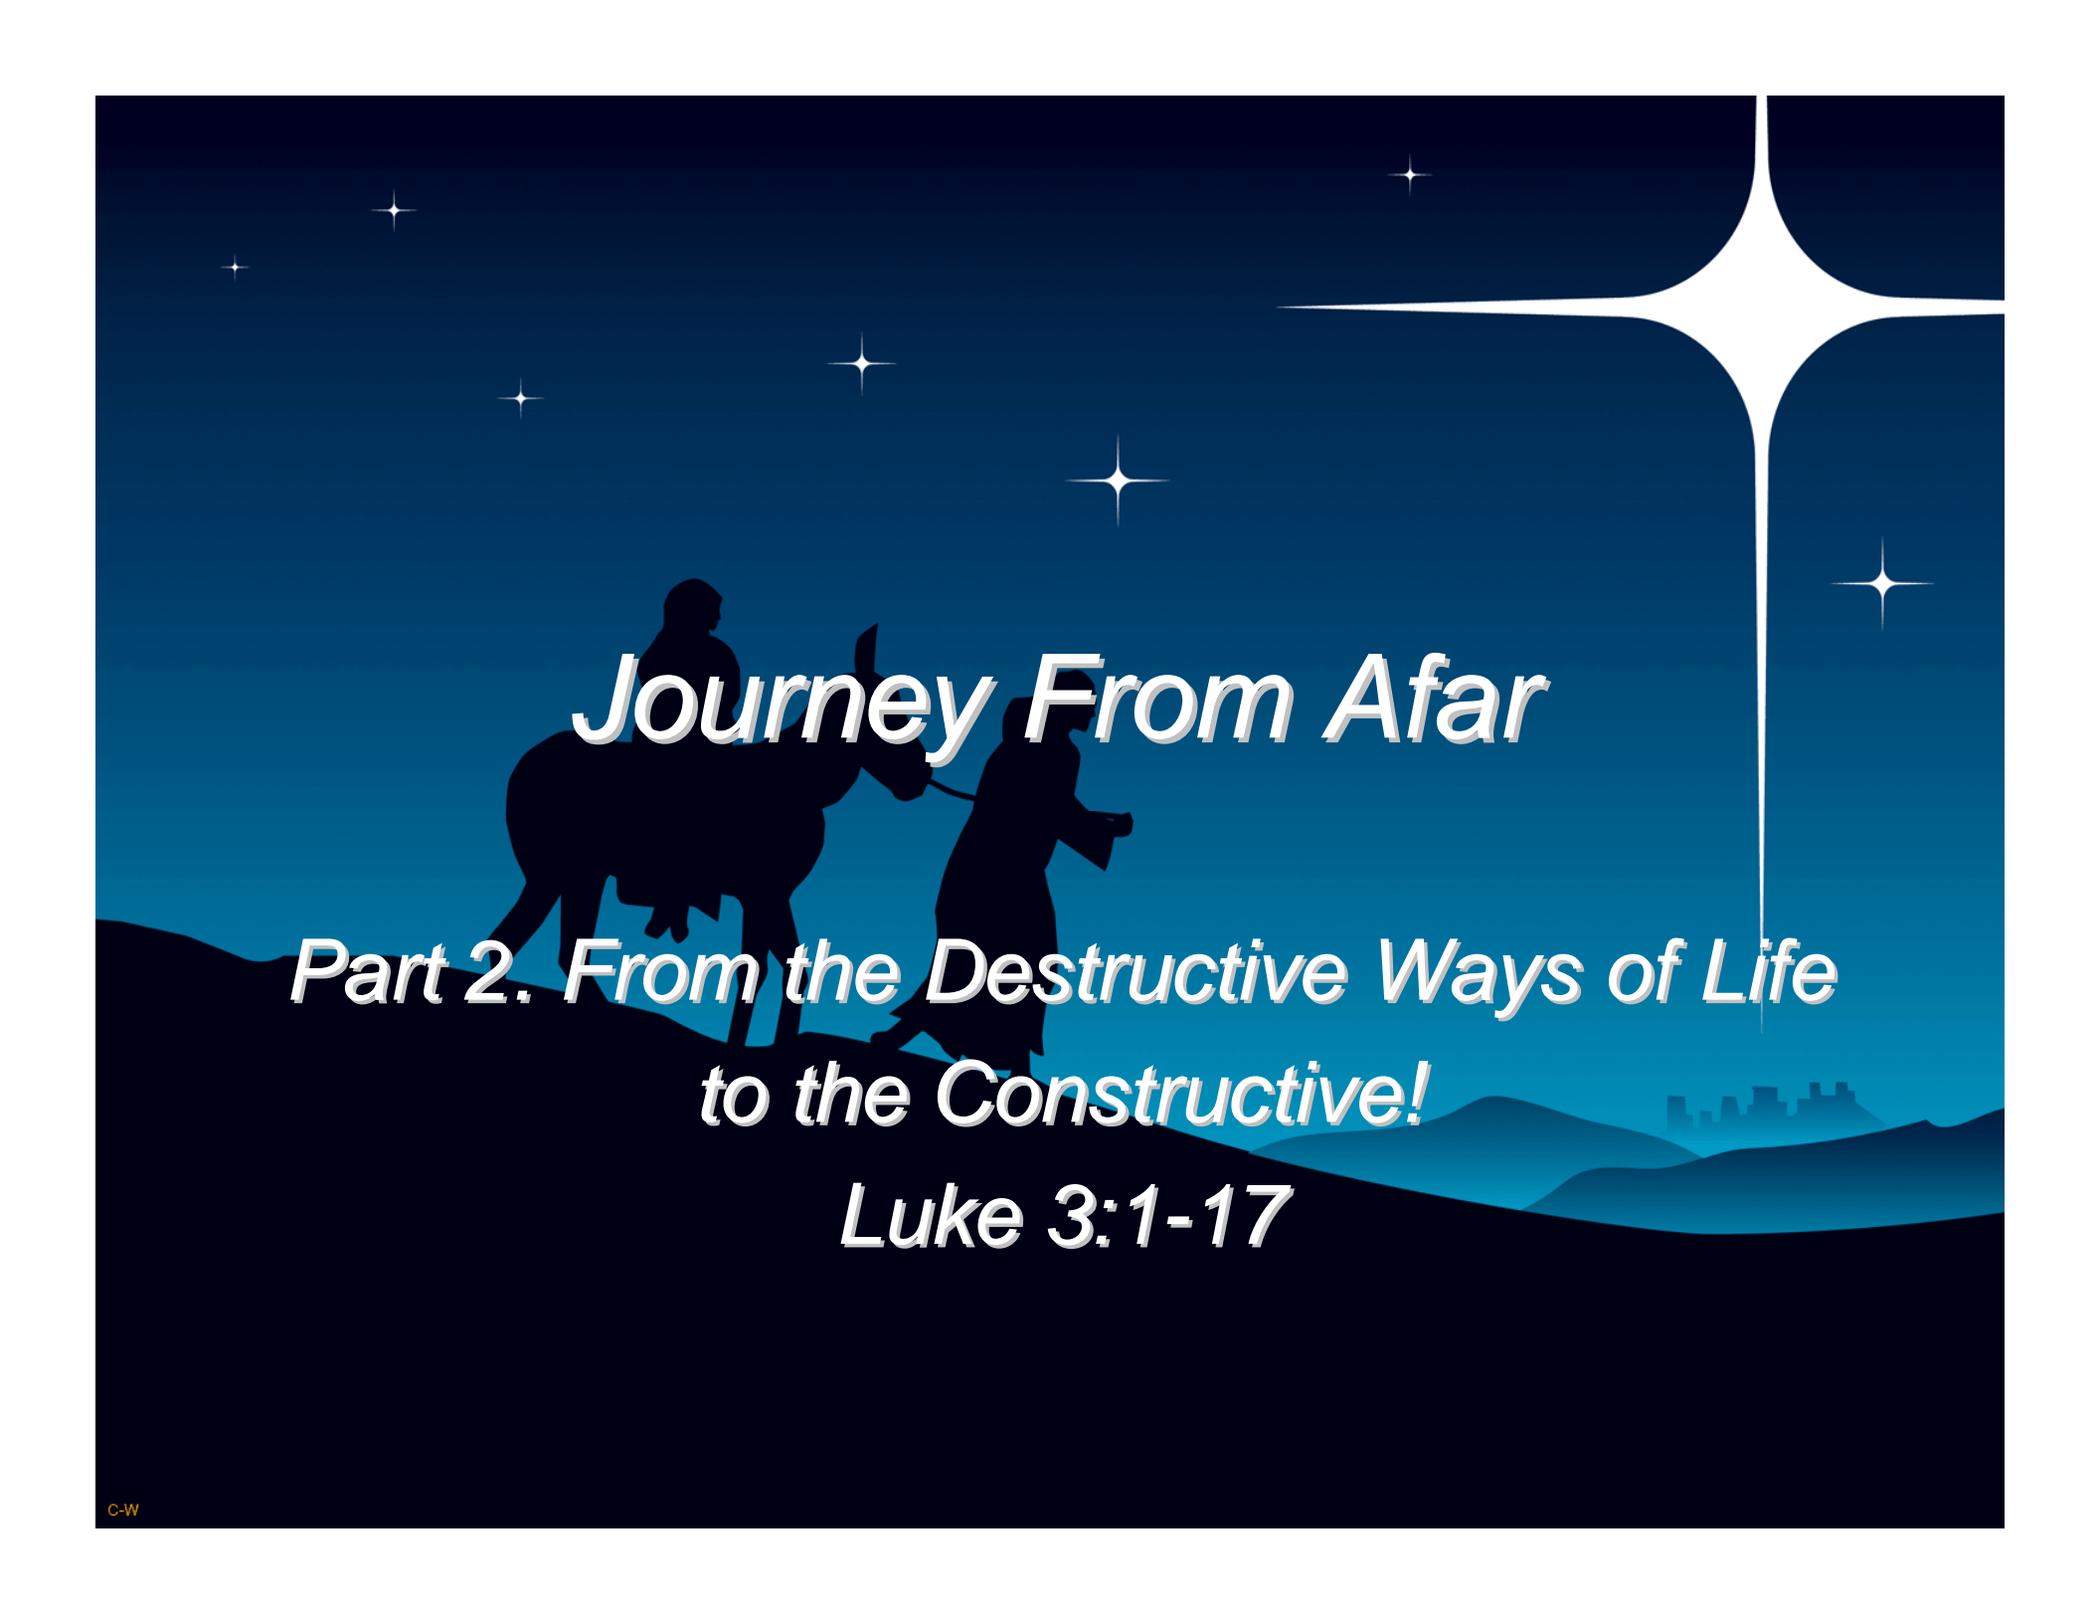

Christmas Eve Candlelight Service

Dec. 24, at 10 p.m.

Advent and Christmas at Lanham United Methodist Church

5512 Whitfield Chapel Road, Lanham, MD 20706

(301) 577-1500

Journey From Afar

Part 2. From the Destructive Ways of Life to the Constructive!

Luke 3:1-17

John the Baptist Preaching
- Giovanni Battista Tiepolo

From the Destructive to the Constructive

1. God wants the people living under the power of sins to set out a journey from the destructive ways of life.

From the Destructive to the Constructive

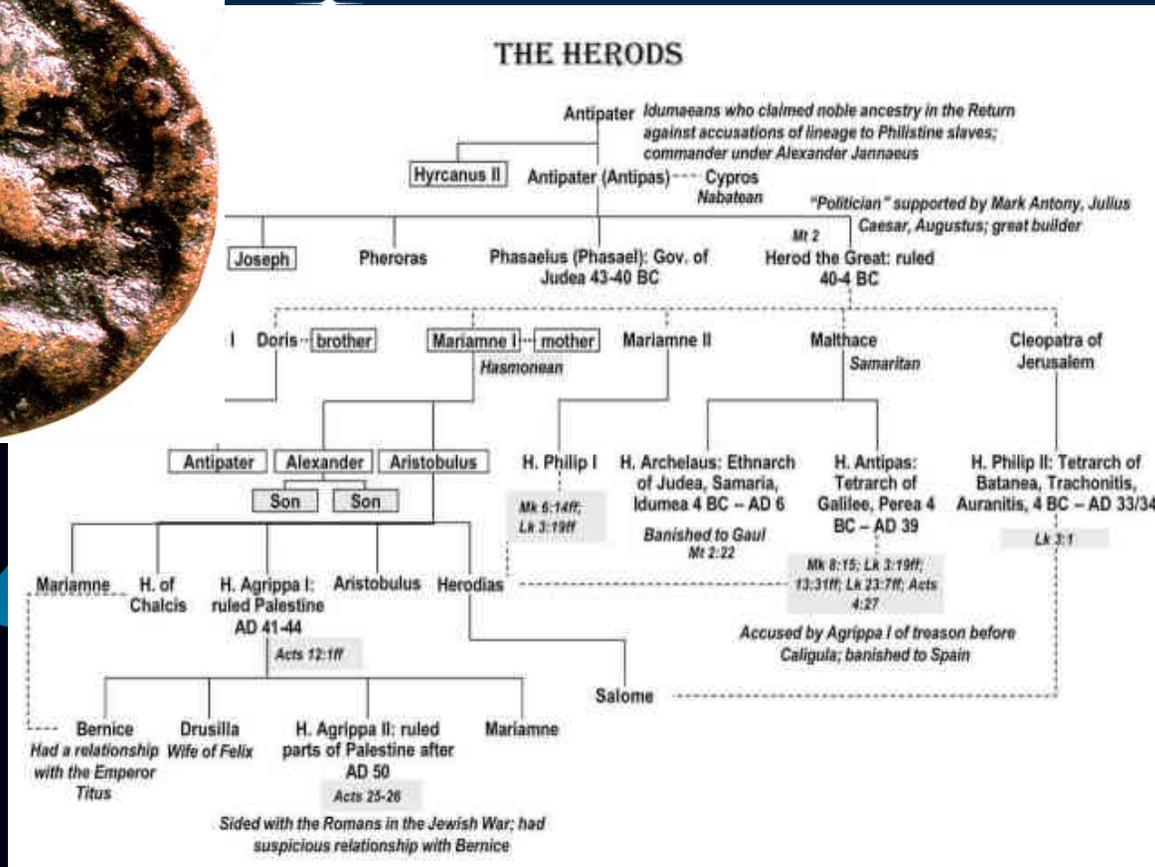

From the Destructive to the Constructive

- Tiberius (Tiberius Caesar Divi Augusti filius Augustus)
- Born 16 November 42 BC
– Died 16 March 37 AD
- Roman Emperor from 14 AD to 37 AD.
- John Baptist Began His Ministry in the 15th year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar

From the Destructive to the Constructive

Herod Antipas

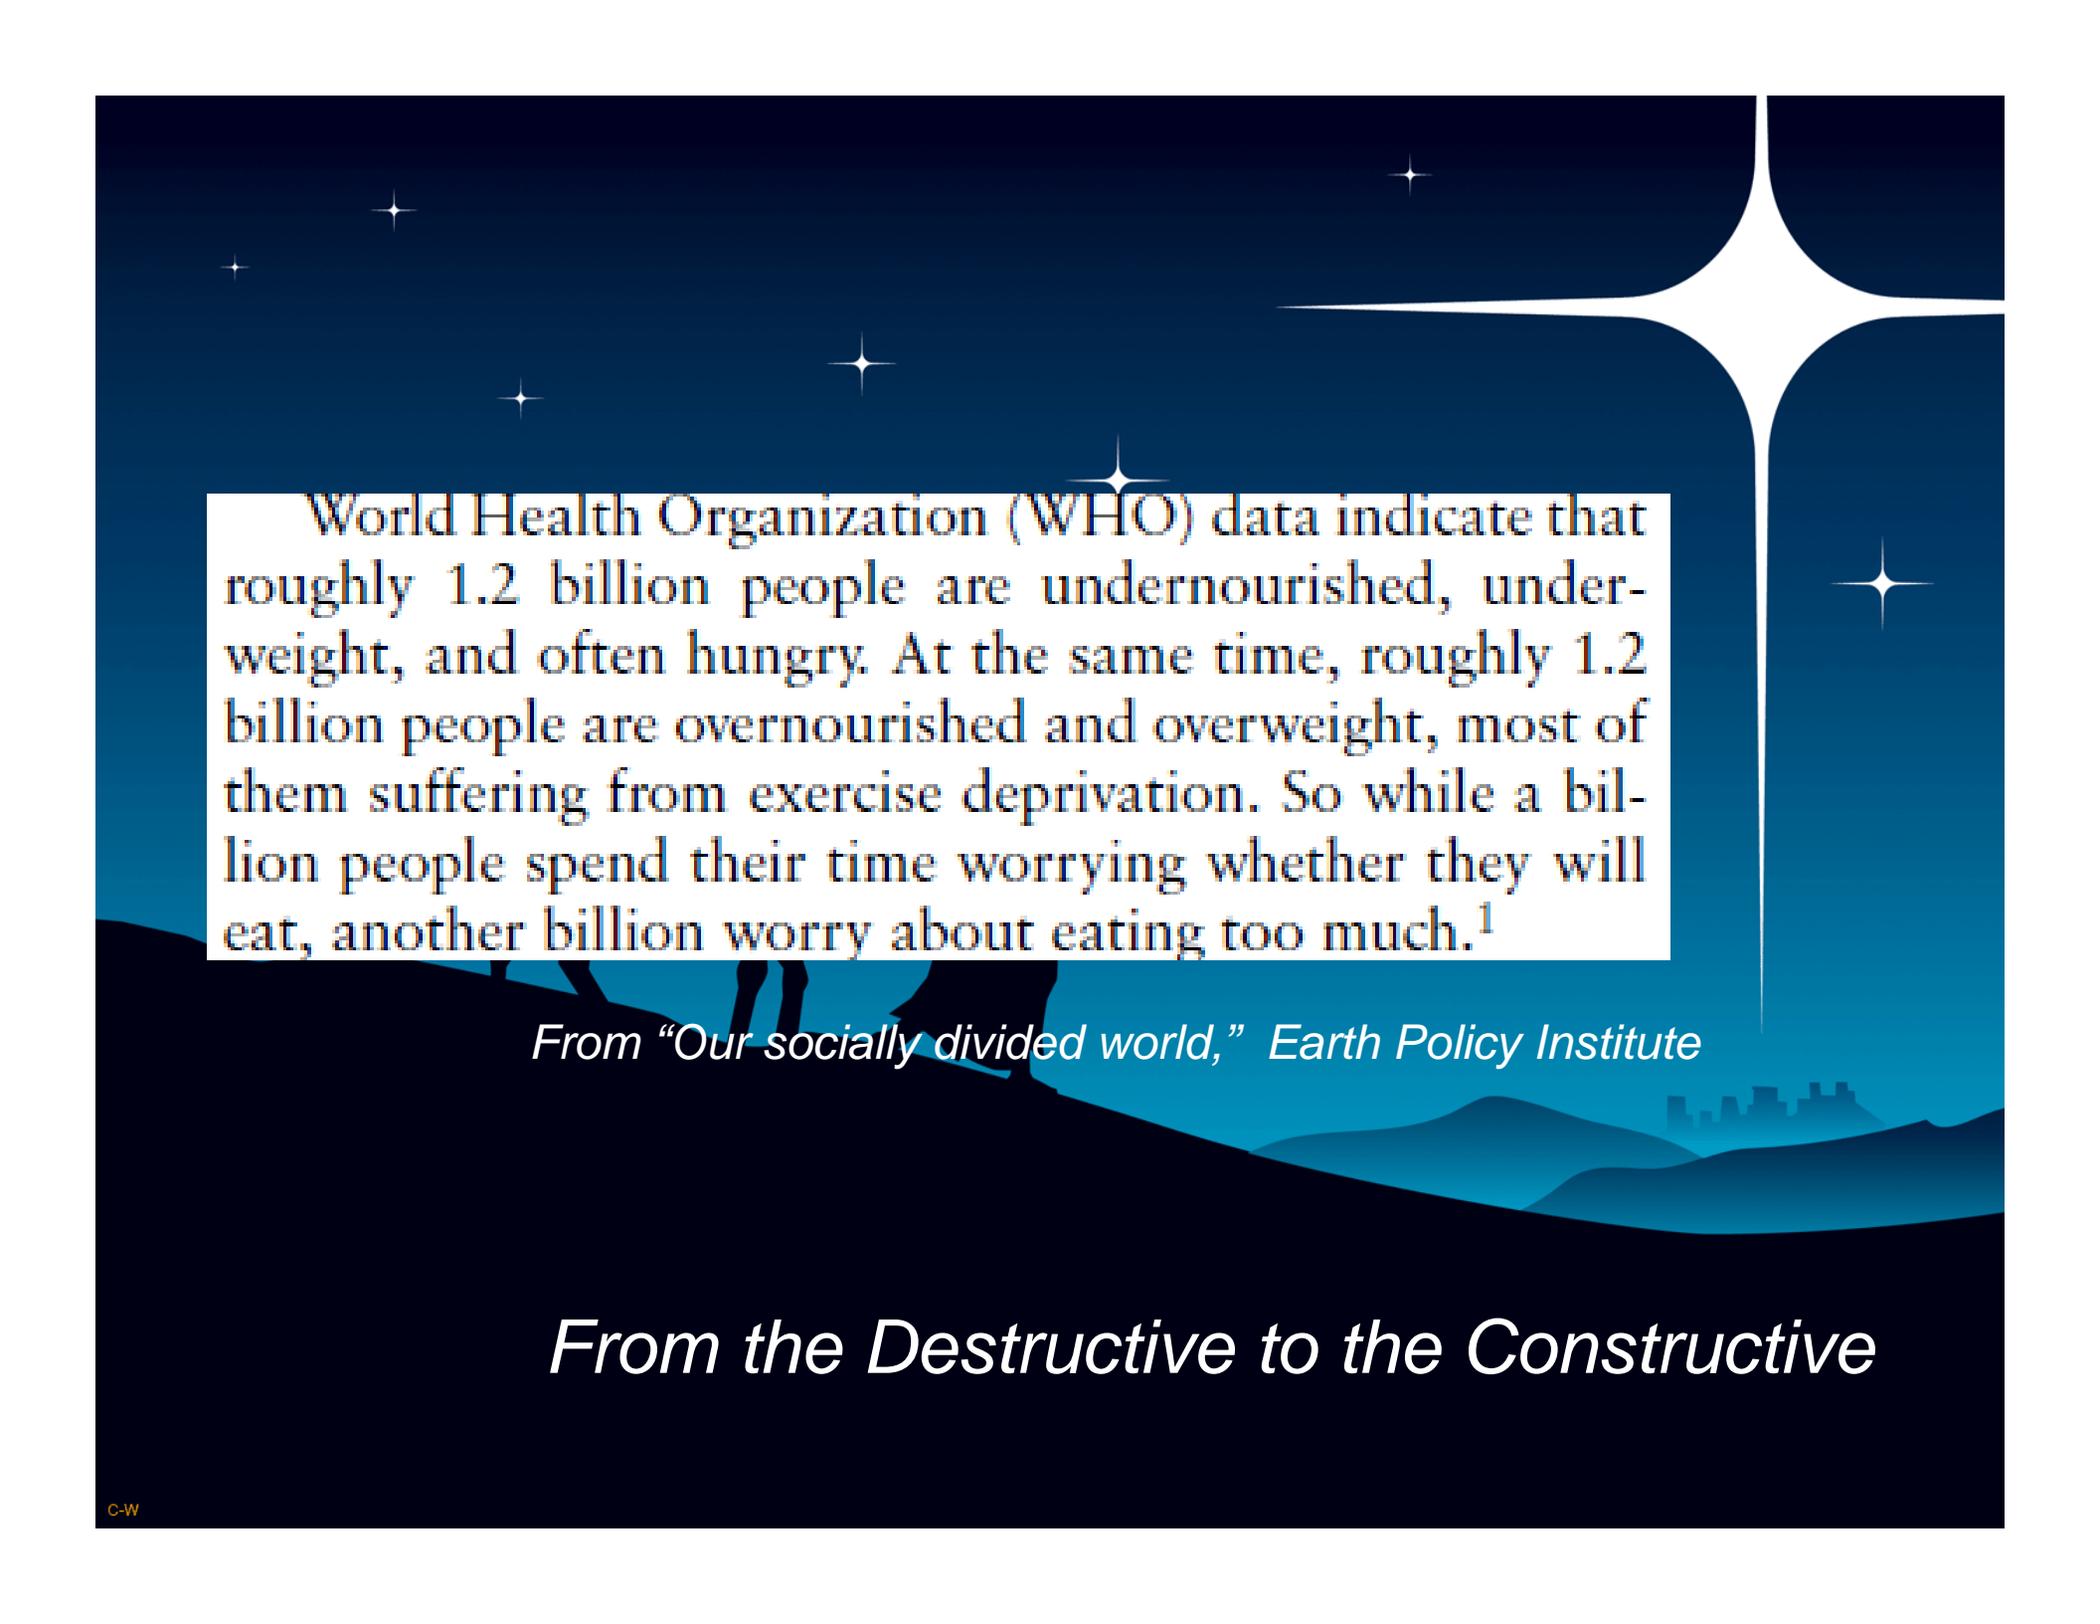

From the Destructive to the Constructive

Jesus is questioned
by the chief priest Annas.

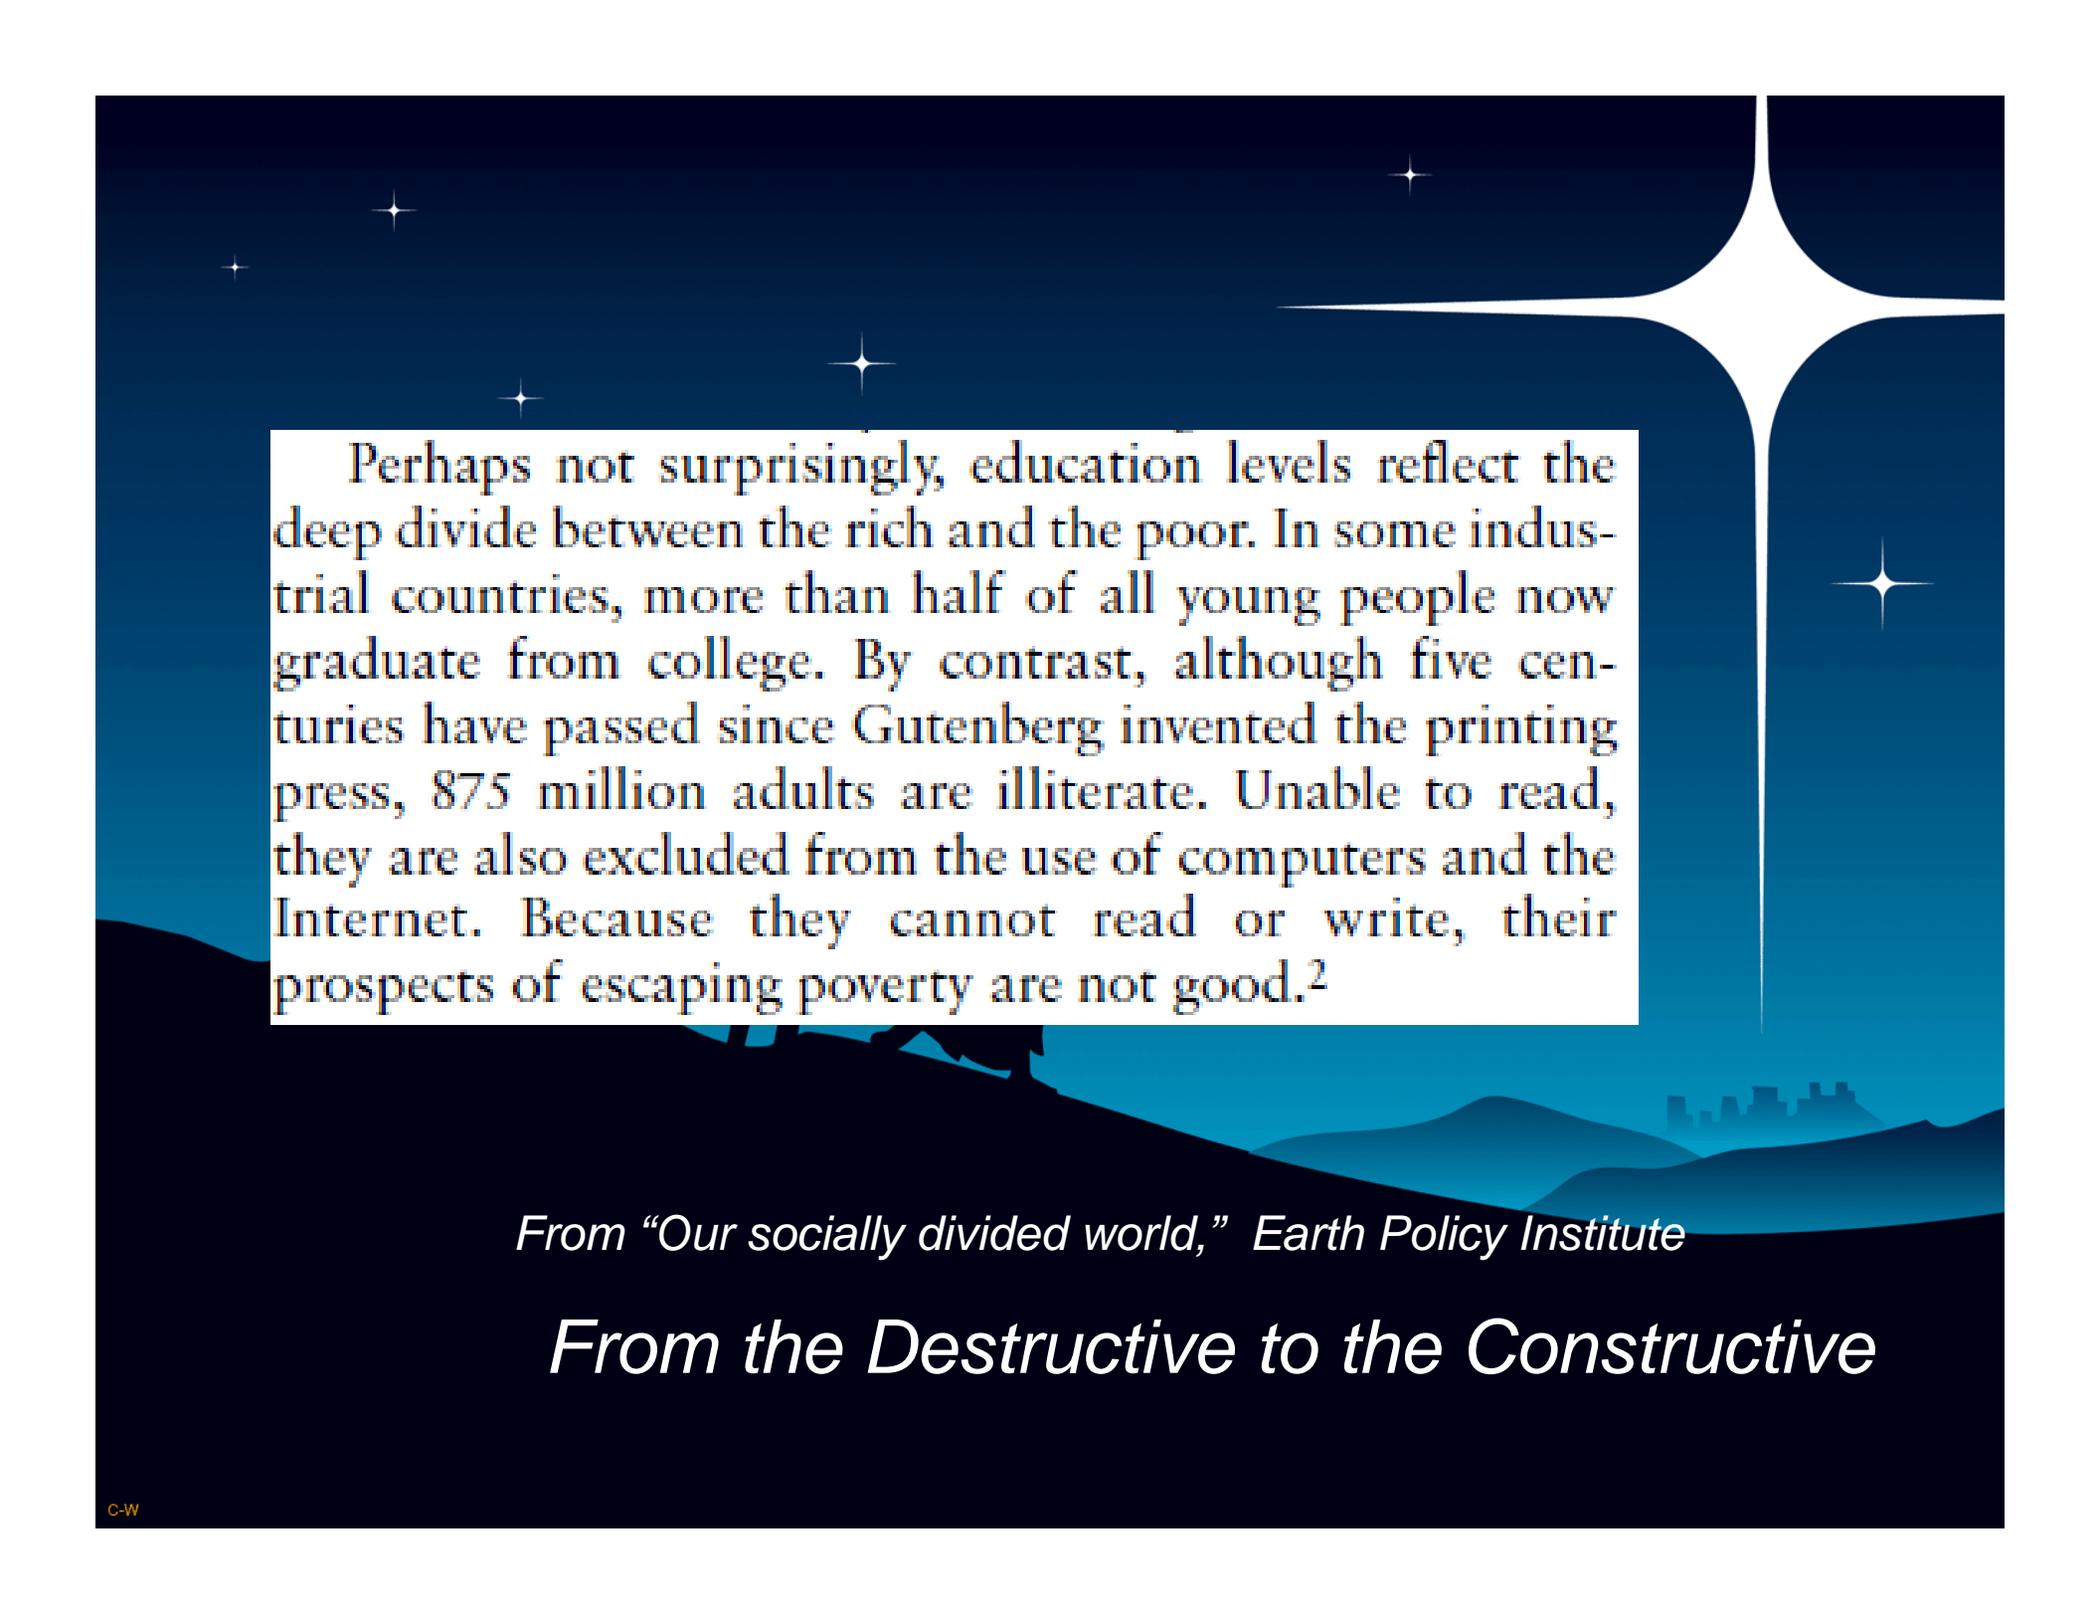

From the Destructive to the Constructive

World Health Organization (WHO) data indicate that roughly 1.2 billion people are undernourished, underweight, and often hungry. At the same time, roughly 1.2 billion people are overnourished and overweight, most of them suffering from exercise deprivation. So while a billion people spend their time worrying whether they will eat, another billion worry about eating too much.¹

From "Our socially divided world," Earth Policy Institute

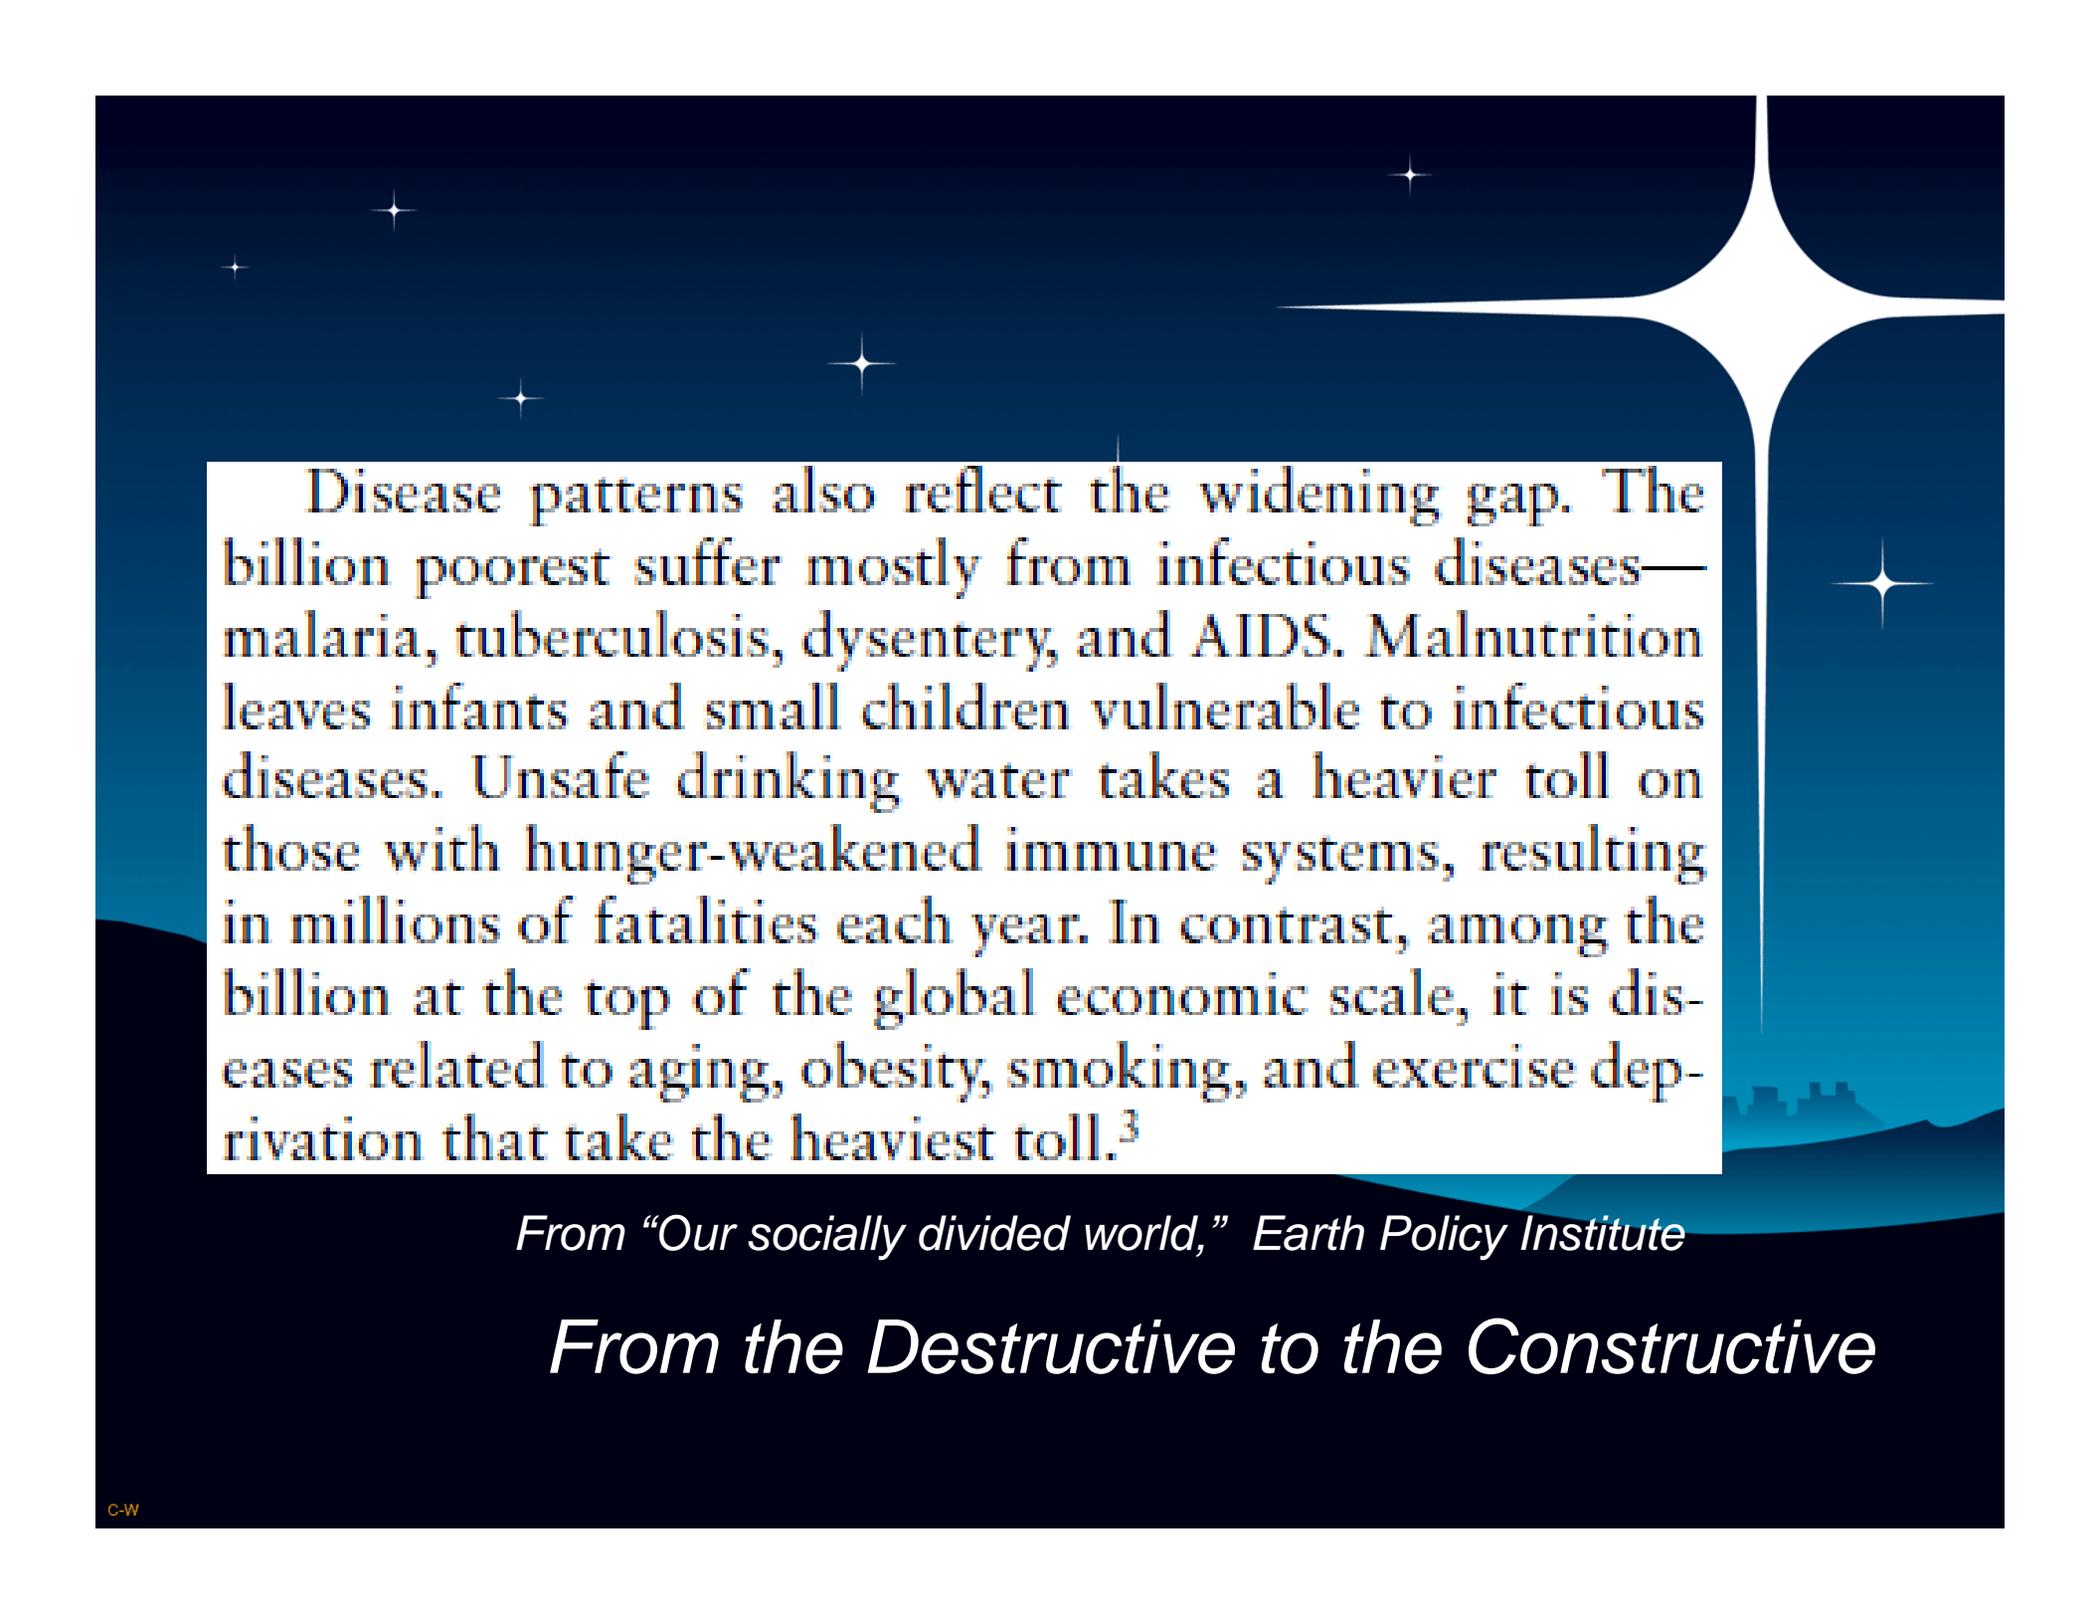

From the Destructive to the Constructive

The background is a dark blue gradient. At the top, there are several white four-pointed stars of varying sizes. On the right side, there is a white graphic element consisting of a vertical line and a large, rounded, white shape that resembles a stylized letter 'C' or a partial frame. At the bottom, there is a dark blue silhouette of a city skyline with several buildings of different heights.

Perhaps not surprisingly, education levels reflect the deep divide between the rich and the poor. In some industrial countries, more than half of all young people now graduate from college. By contrast, although five centuries have passed since Gutenberg invented the printing press, 875 million adults are illiterate. Unable to read, they are also excluded from the use of computers and the Internet. Because they cannot read or write, their prospects of escaping poverty are not good.²

From "Our socially divided world," Earth Policy Institute

From the Destructive to the Constructive

Disease patterns also reflect the widening gap. The billion poorest suffer mostly from infectious diseases—malaria, tuberculosis, dysentery, and AIDS. Malnutrition leaves infants and small children vulnerable to infectious diseases. Unsafe drinking water takes a heavier toll on those with hunger-weakened immune systems, resulting in millions of fatalities each year. In contrast, among the billion at the top of the global economic scale, it is diseases related to aging, obesity, smoking, and exercise deprivation that take the heaviest toll.³

From “Our socially divided world,” Earth Policy Institute

From the Destructive to the Constructive

After World War II, life expectancy climbed rapidly throughout the world with advances in public health, vaccines, antibiotics, and food production. But as the twentieth century drew to an end, life expectancy was no longer rising everywhere. The HIV epidemic sharply reduced it in sub-Saharan Africa. Without AIDS, sub-Saharan Africa's 700 million people could expect to live to the age of 62, but in fact their life expectancy has dropped to 47 years. And millions of infants born with the virus are likely to die by the age of 5.⁵

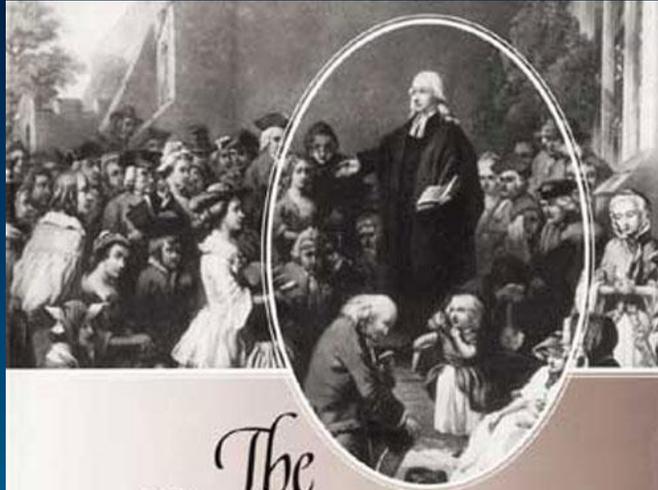

From "Our socially divided world," Earth Policy Institute

From the Destructive to the Constructive

2. Through the act of repentance the people begin a journey to make their lives blessed and constructive.

From the Destructive to the Constructive

*The
Scripture
Way of
Salvation*

The Heart of John Wesley's Theology

Kenneth J. Collins

From the Destructive to the Constructive

*The
Scripture
Way of
Salvation*

The Heart of John Wesley's Theology

Kenneth J. Collins

It begins with the act of forgiveness.

From the Destructive to the Constructive

From the Destructive to the Constructive

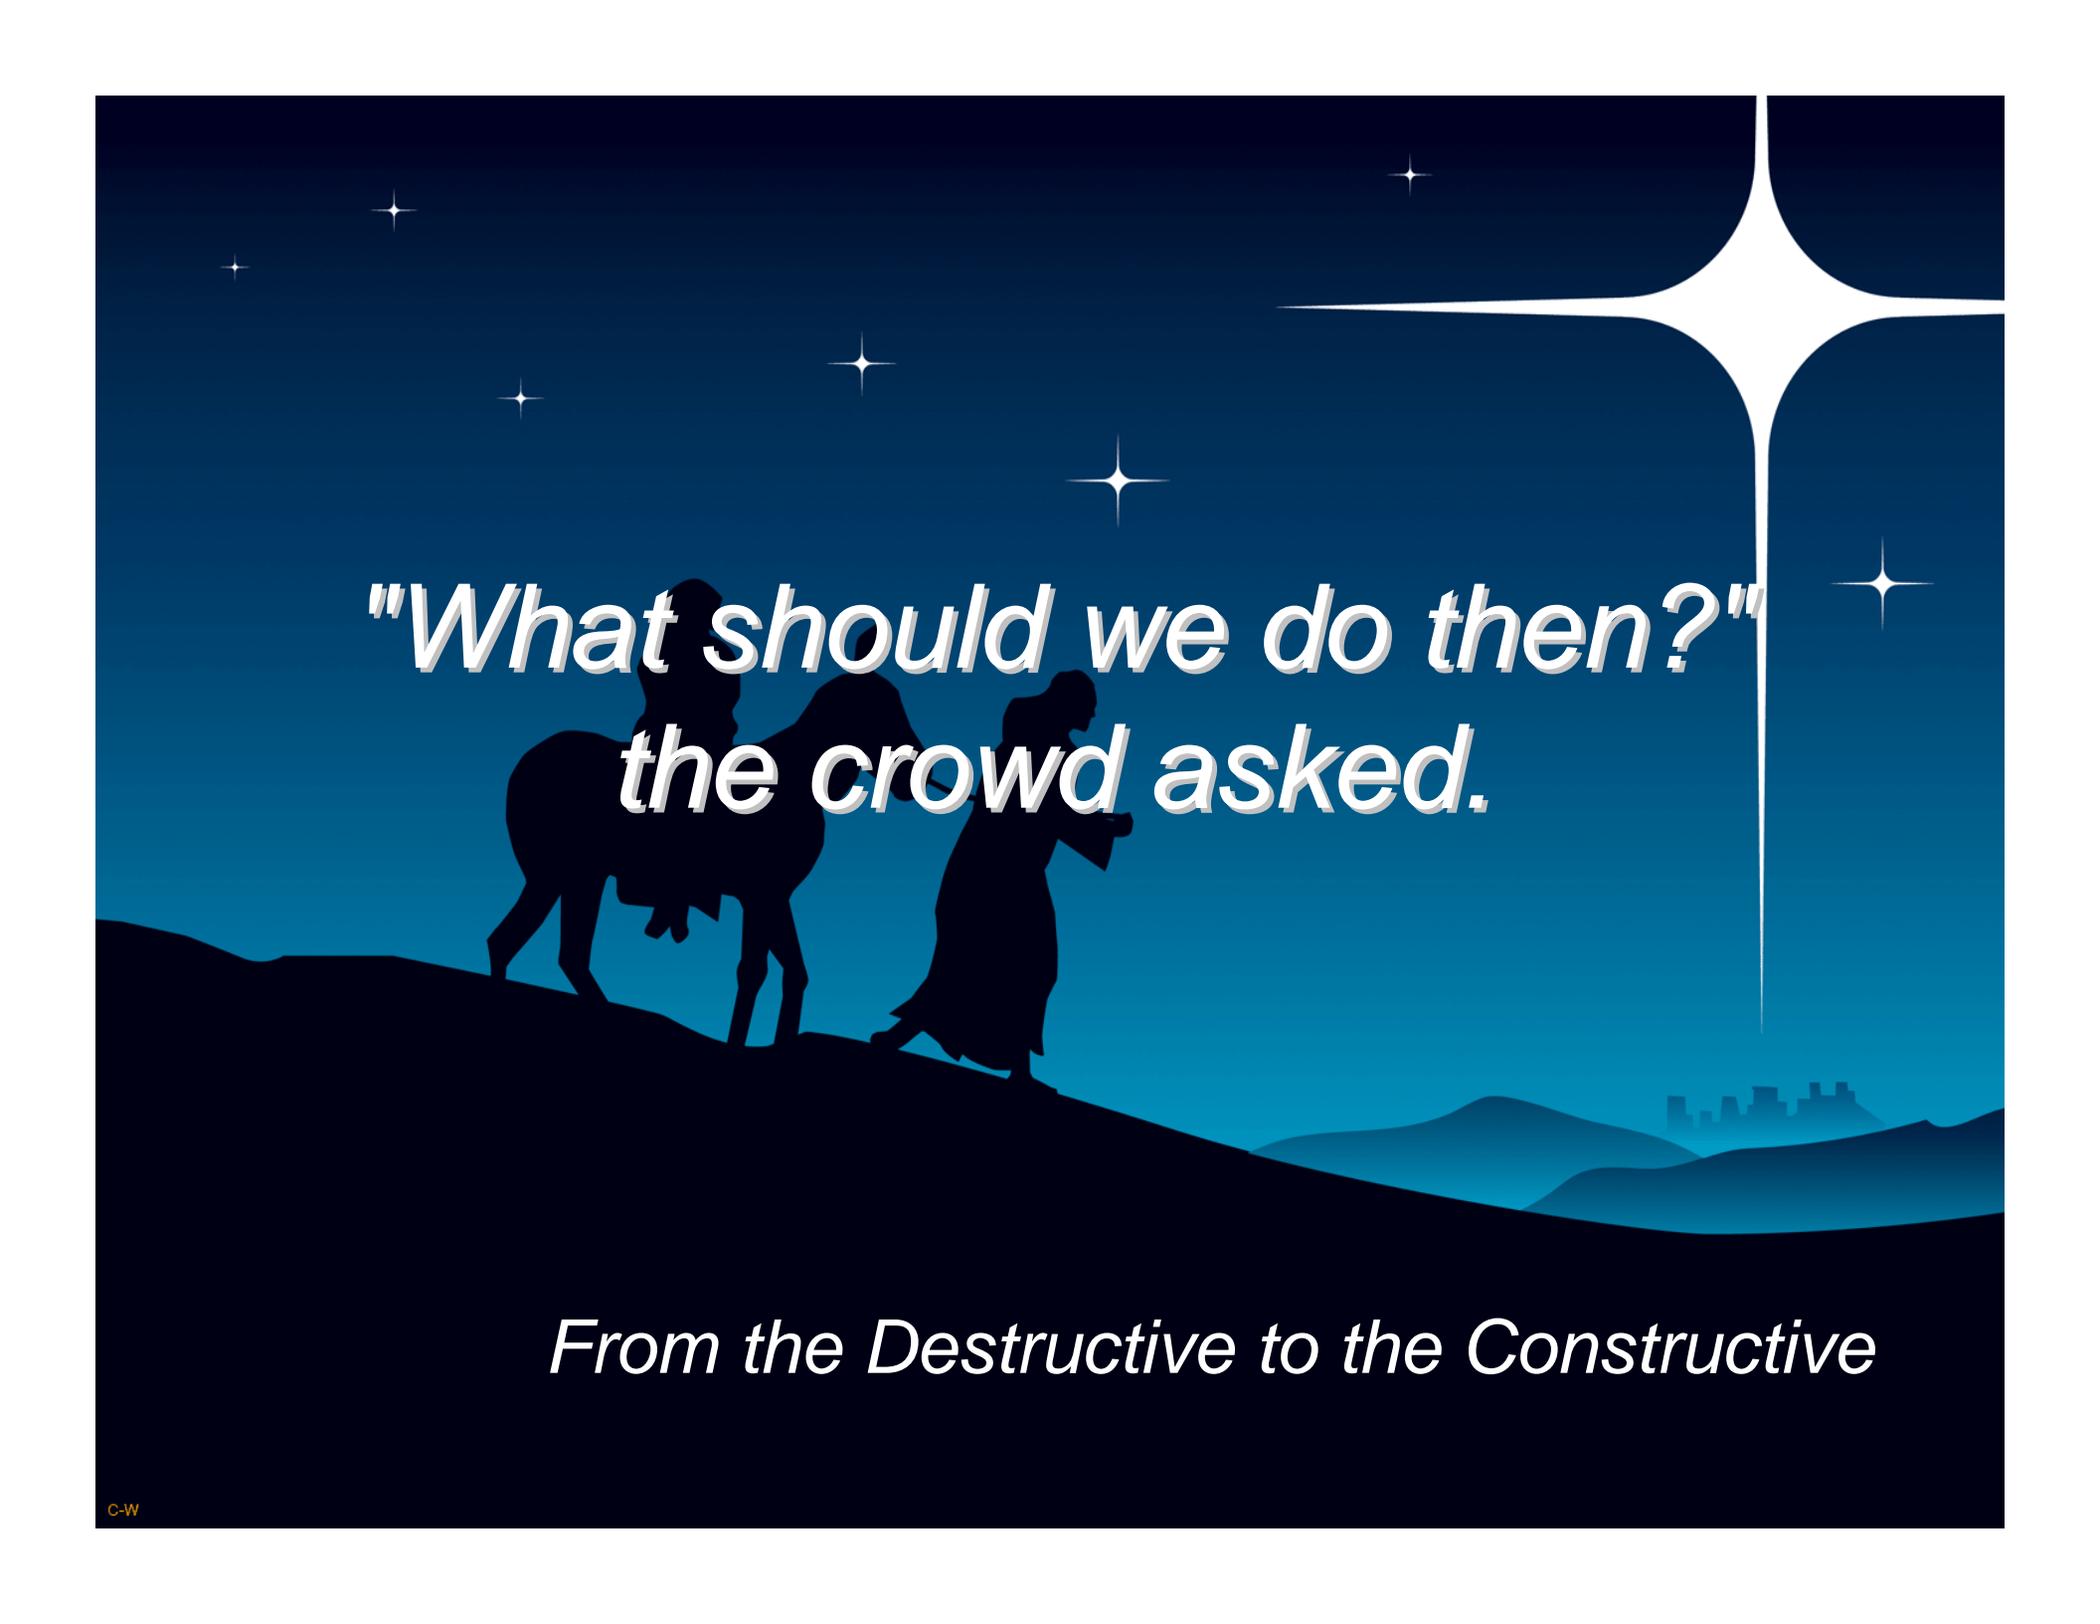

From the Destructive to the Constructive

3. What is required of the people of God in the journey? (vv. 10-14)

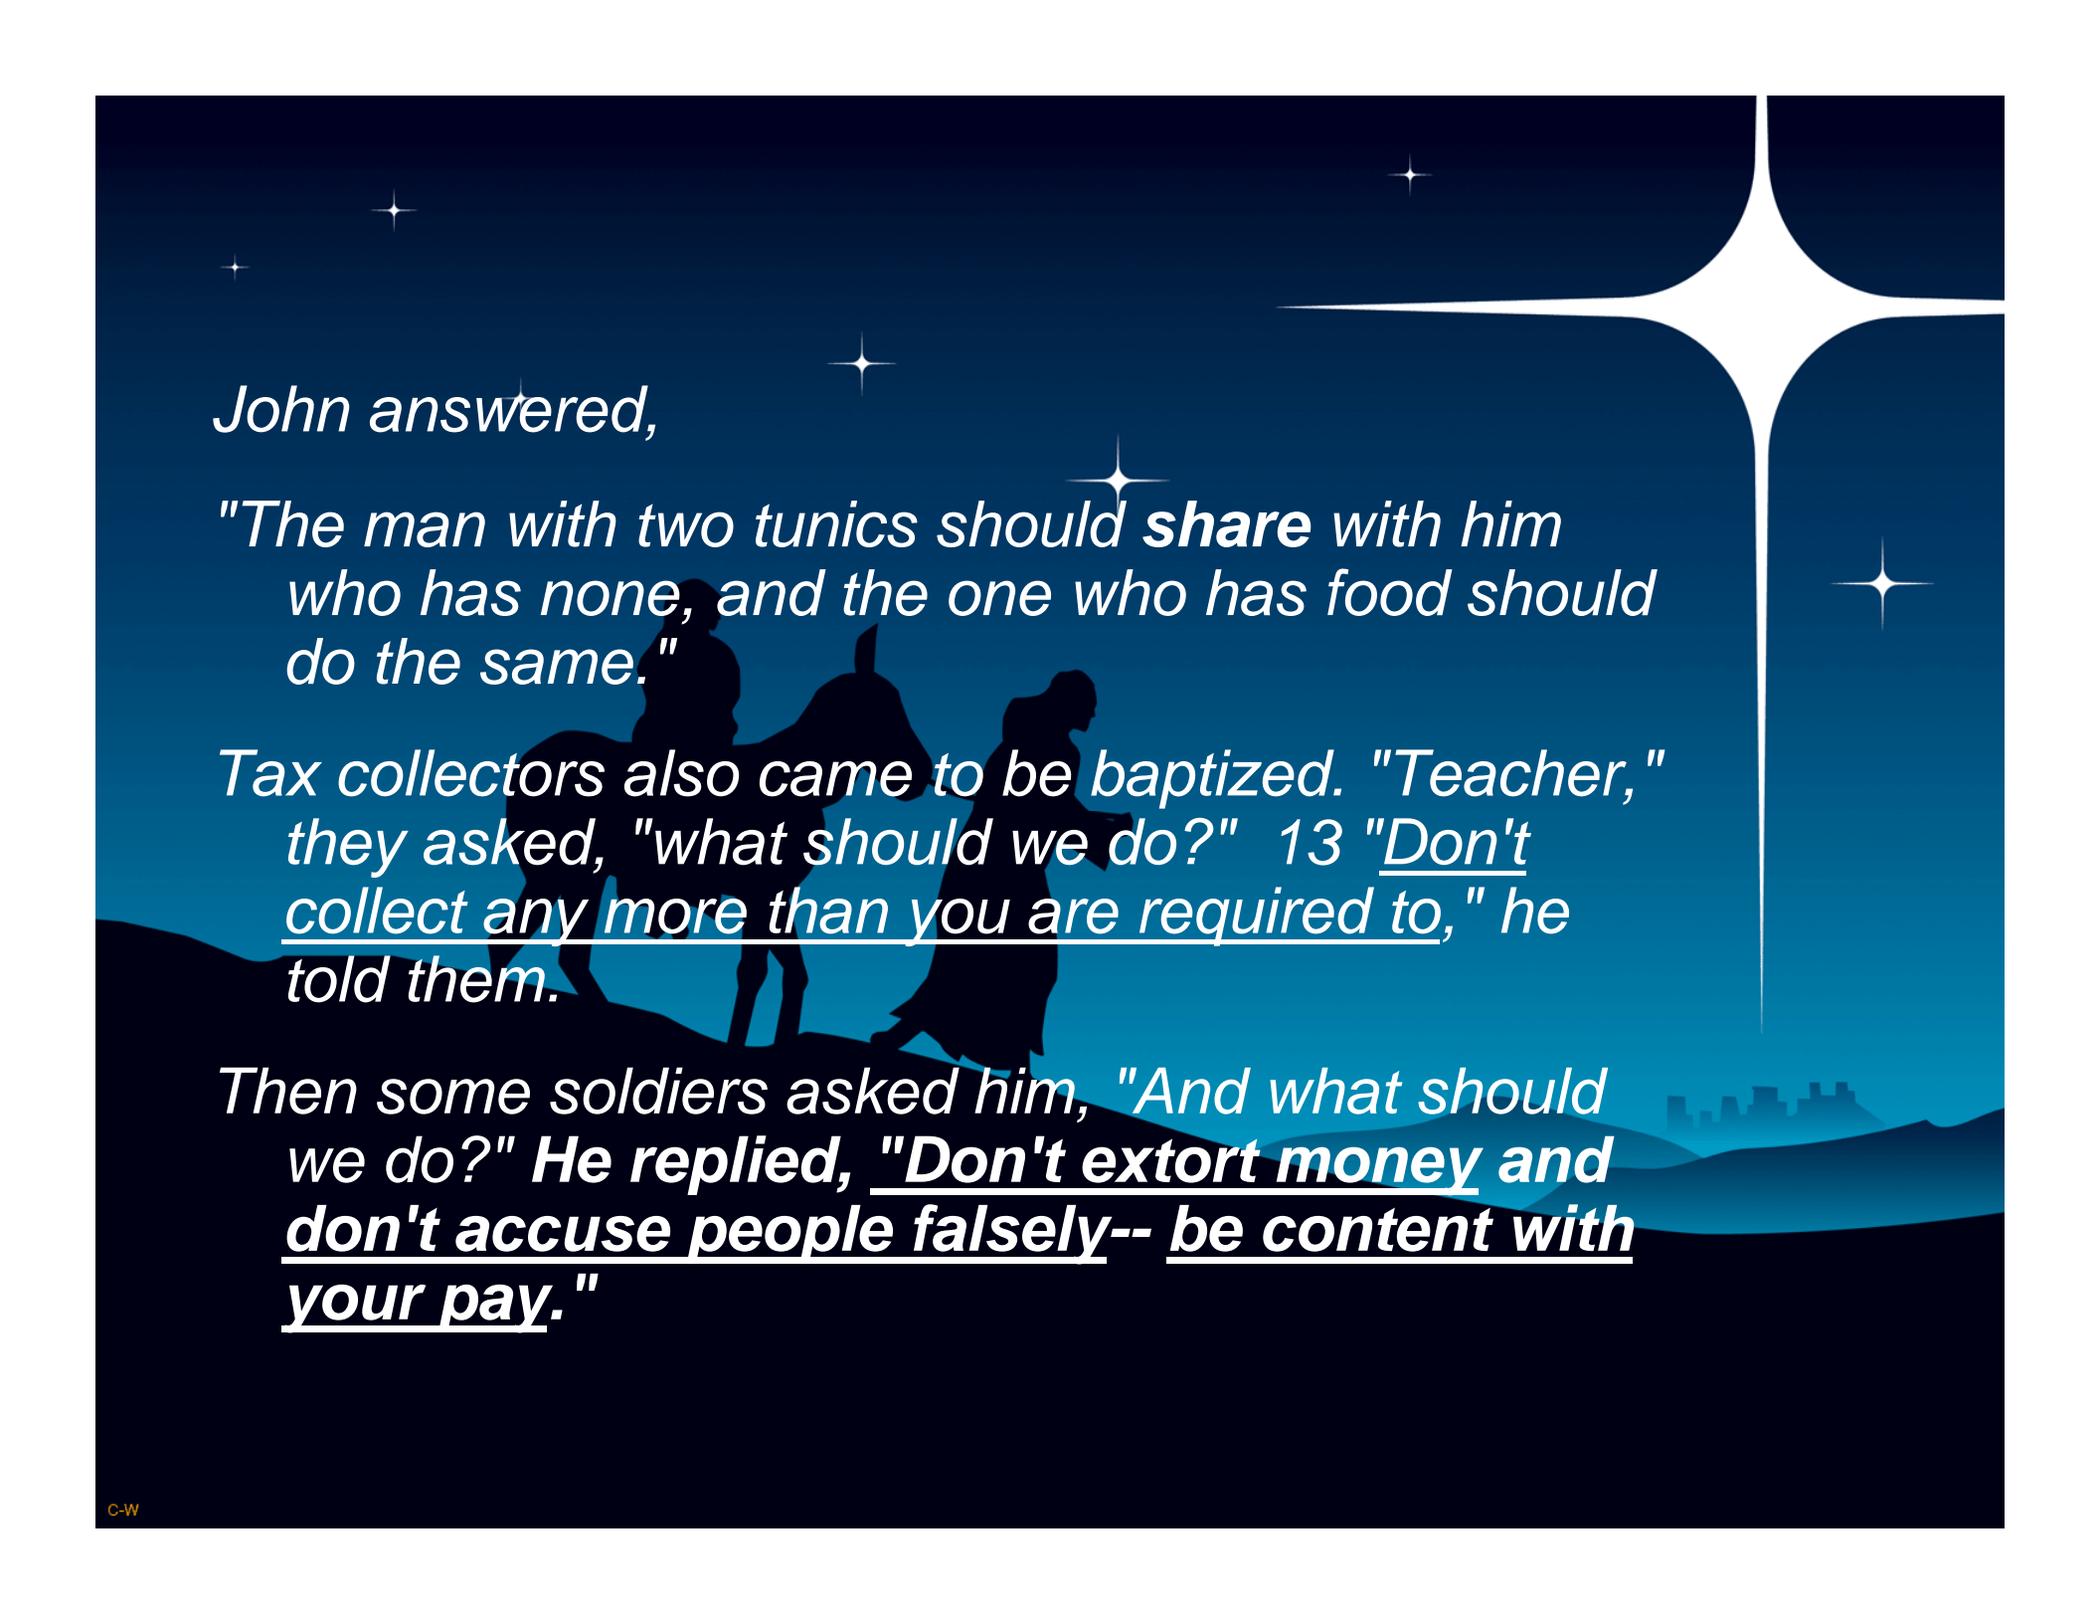

- “To act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God! (Micah 6:8).
- Our Journey toward “The Manger”

From the Destructive to the Constructive

*"What should we do then?"
the crowd asked.*

From the Destructive to the Constructive

John answered,

"The man with two tunics should share with him who has none, and the one who has food should do the same."

Tax collectors also came to be baptized. "Teacher," they asked, "what should we do?" 13 "Don't collect any more than you are required to," he told them.

Then some soldiers asked him, "And what should we do?" He replied, "Don't extort money and don't accuse people falsely-- be content with your pay."

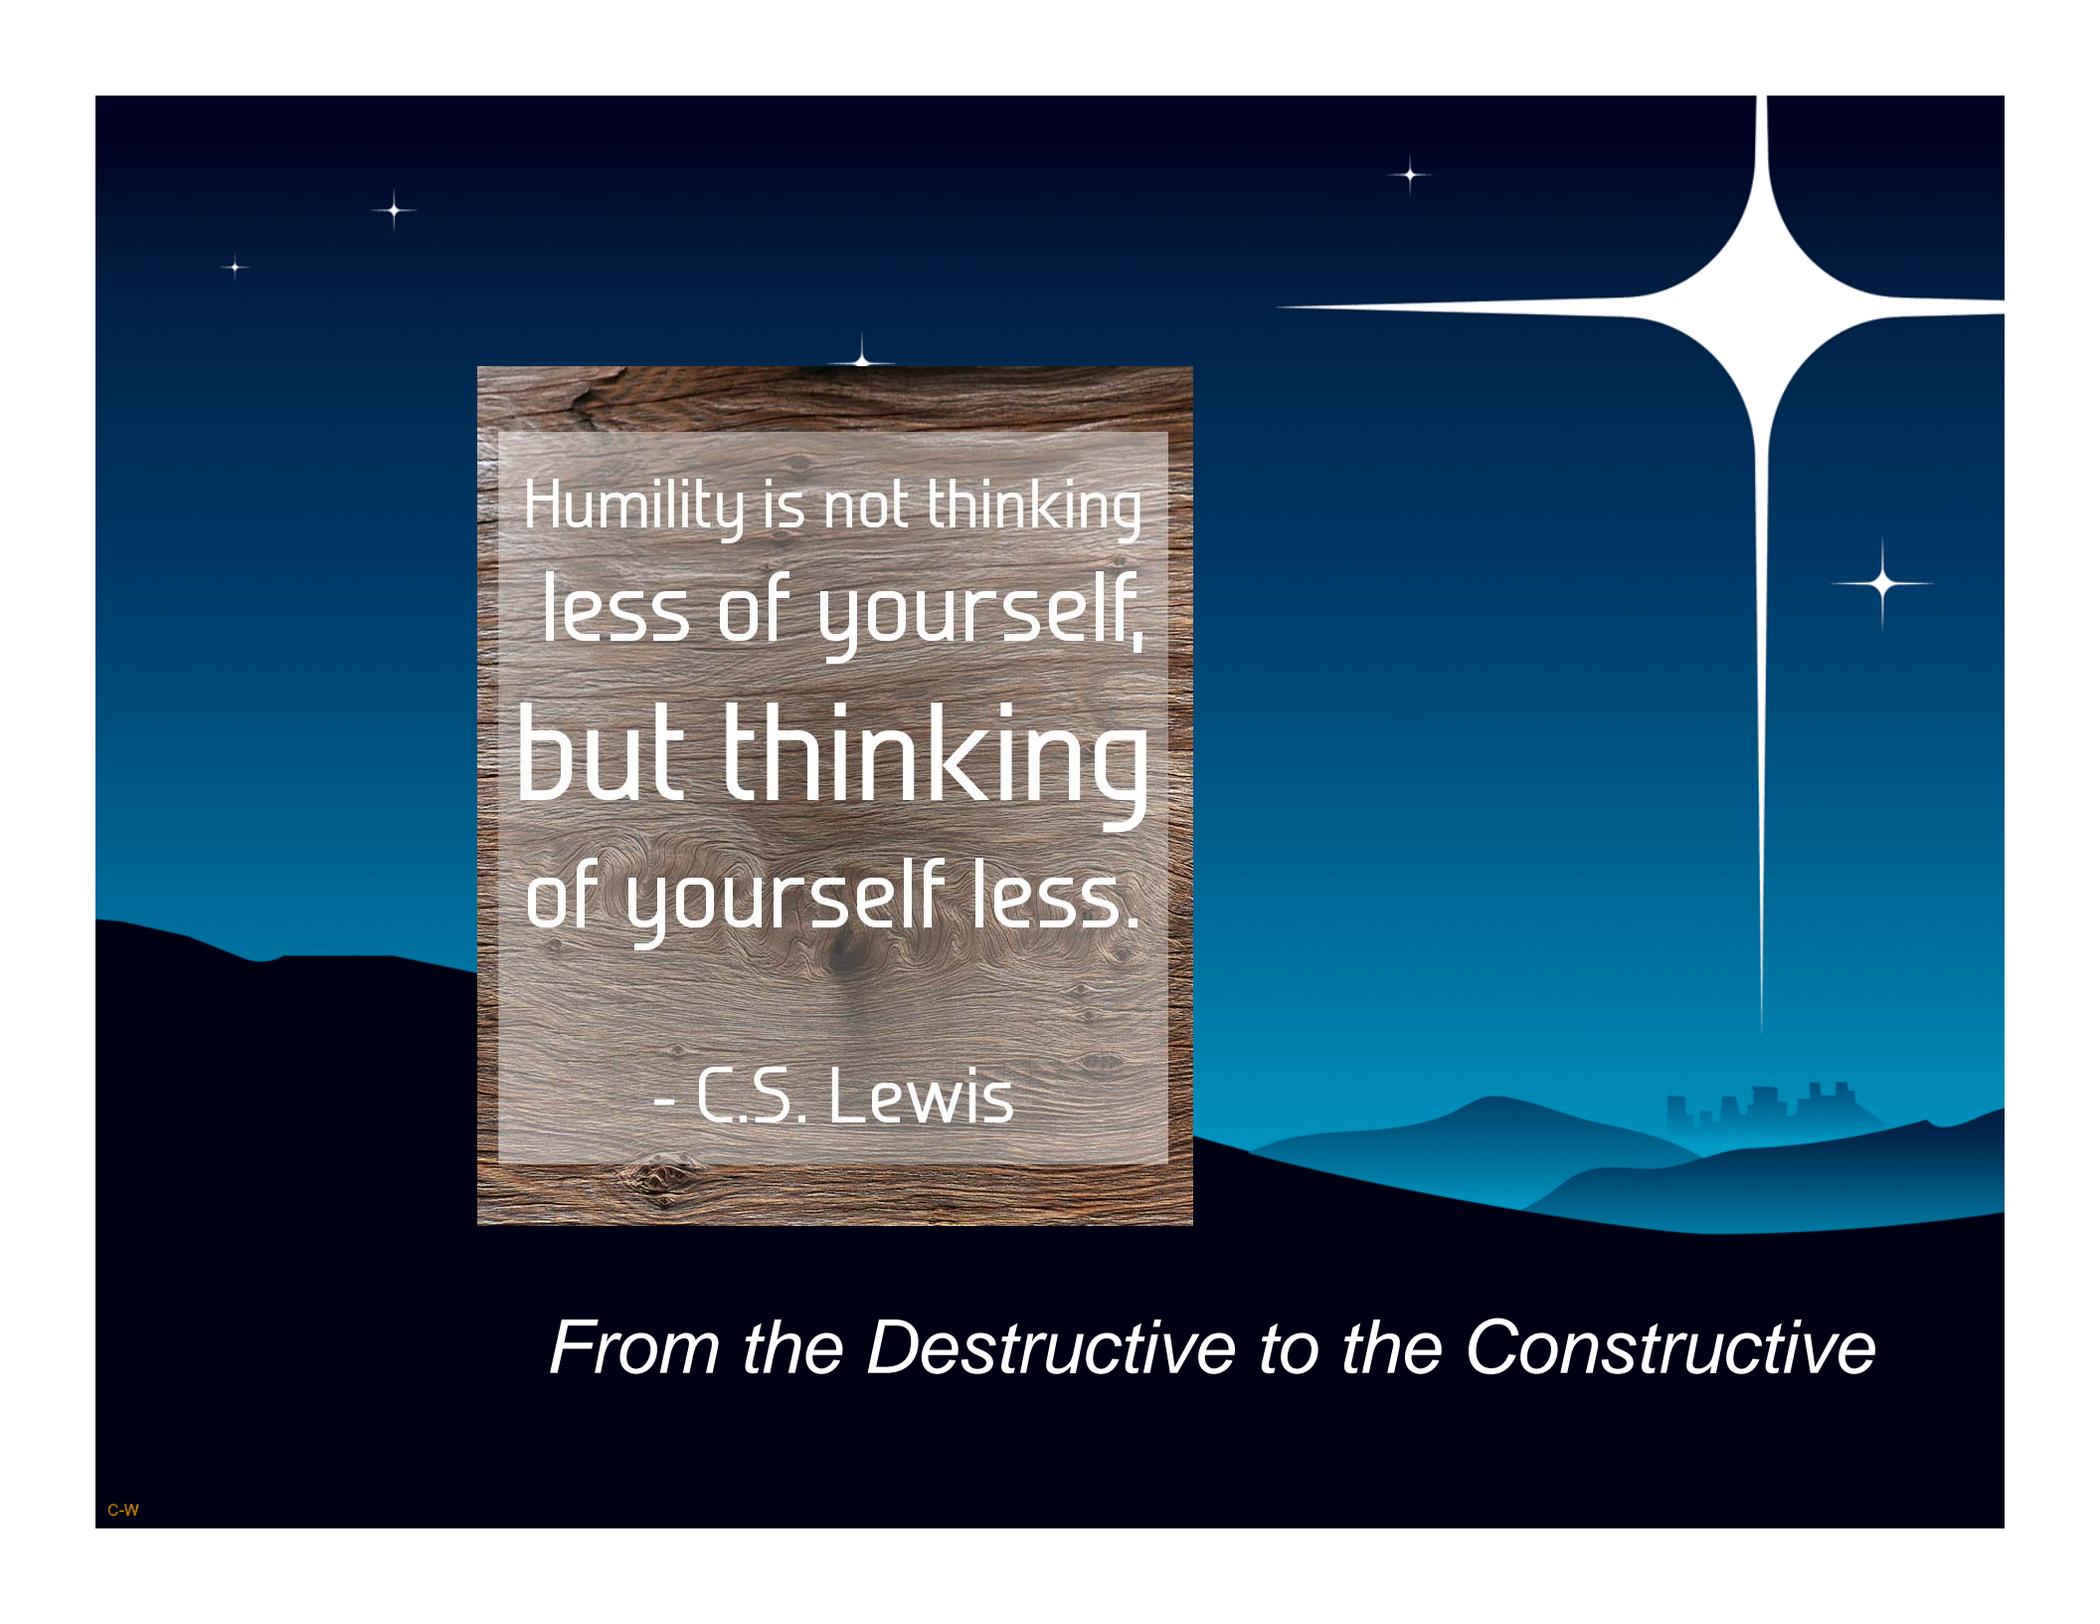

3. What is required of the people of God in the journey? (vv. 10-14)

- Our Journey toward “The Manger”

From the Destructive to the Constructive

From the Destructive to the Constructive

The background is a dark blue night sky with several white stars. In the lower portion, there are silhouettes of rolling hills and a city skyline. A central wooden sign with a light-colored wood grain texture contains the text. The text is in a white, sans-serif font, with the main quote in a larger size than the attribution.

Humility is not thinking
less of yourself,
but thinking
of yourself less.

- C.S. Lewis

From the Destructive to the Constructive

From the Destructive to the Constructive

4. The purpose of journey is for all mankind to see God's salvation.

From the Destructive to the Constructive