

Ruchi Patel, M.D.

Education

(Medical)

Xavier University School of Medicine, Aruba
Doctor of Medicine (M.D.), Honors

(Residency)

Family Medicine
Chief Administrative Resident (2015-2016)
Memorial University Medical Center
Savannah, GA

(Undergraduate)

Bowie State University
Bowie, MD
Bachelor of Science in Biology/Minor: Chemistry

(Research)

Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, MD
Research in Multi-Drug Resistant bacterial infection in healthcare setting (2012-2013)

Professional Societies

American Academy of Family Physicians
Society of Teachers of Family Medicine
Georgia Academy of Family Physicians

Research and Presentations

Implementing interprofessional learning into an academic patient-centered medical home using Peer Instruction

Poster Presentation for 48th STFM Annual Spring Conference, Orlando FL, April 25-29, 2015

Antimicrobial and antibiofilm potential of biosurfactants isolated from lactobacilli against multi-drug-resistant pathogens

Research Article published in BioMed Central-2014

Experience, motivations and barriers that family practice clinic patients faces when losing weight

Clinical research conducted during residency
Poster presentation GAFFP, Atlanta, GA 2015

Inhibition of Multi Drug Resistant Pathogens by Lactobacilli Biosurfactants

Poster Presentation for American Society of Microbiology 2013, Denver, CO, May 12-19, 2013

Honors and Special Projects

Chief Administrative Resident
Magna Cum Laude graduate