

GO, HERRING, GO

A Goodwife's Advice to Her Young

RICHARD L. FLOYD

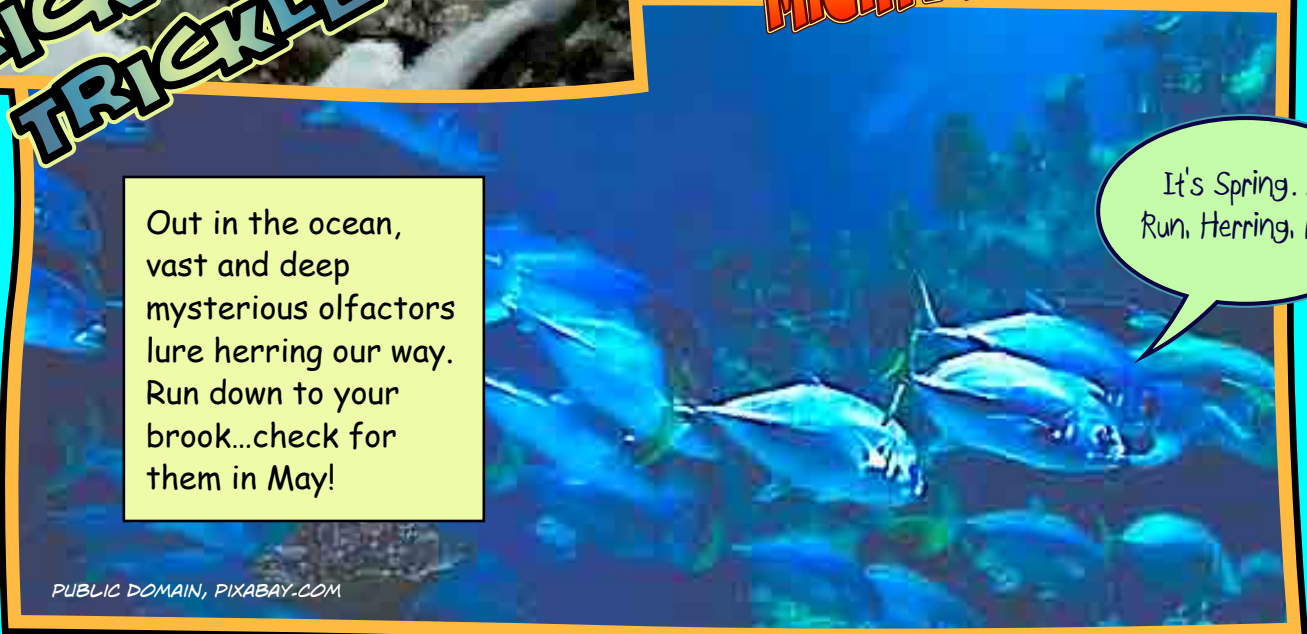

As Winter's blanket gets tattered, and snow melts away, ground water swells, and brooks pulse to the bay.

TRICKLE TRICKLE

SUPER HEROES

MIGHTY RIVER HERRING

Out in the ocean, vast and deep mysterious olfactors lure herring our way. Run down to your brook...check for them in May!

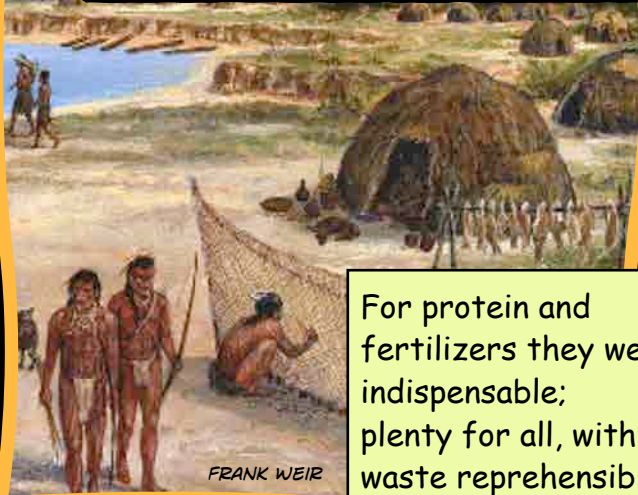

It's Spring...
Run, Herring, run!

PUBLIC DOMAIN, PIXABAY.COM

An environmental education guide for families, by Lee pulis, Herring ponds Watershed Association and Watershed Action Alliance of Southeastern Massachusetts

In days of our past, their numbers were great.
Native Americans taught us to use, not abuse them.

For protein and fertilizers they were indispensable; plenty for all, with waste reprehensible.

Bringing nutrients from the ocean, fixed in their flesh, a key sea-to-land resource, self-delivered to brookside settlements so blessed... without the expense of ship, sweat, or horse.

After Winter's long grip on the land and its waters, the herring's return buoyed our forefathers.

Ahh, the sweet smell of home!

SPROING

Alewife's then and still bring: a rush of enthusiasm to celebrate Spring!

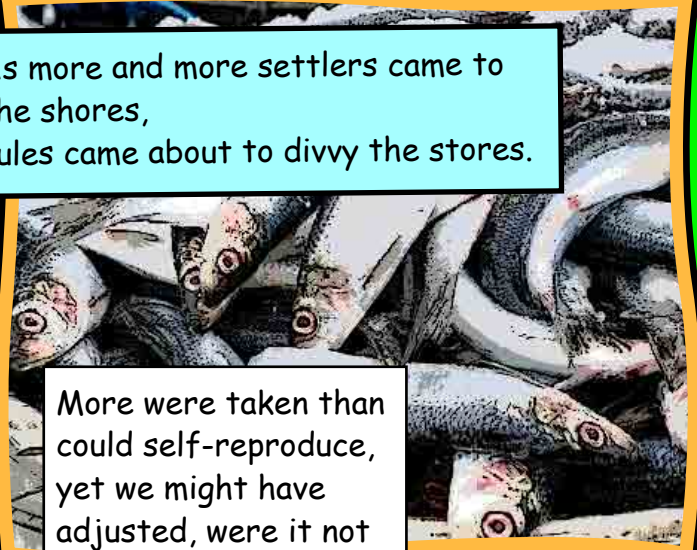

JEAN POTUCHEK

YOWZAA

Not only Man feasted on the migrants; Birds, fish, reptiles, and mammals, all need protein for their reproductive cycles.

As more and more settlers came to the shores, rules came about to divvy the stores.

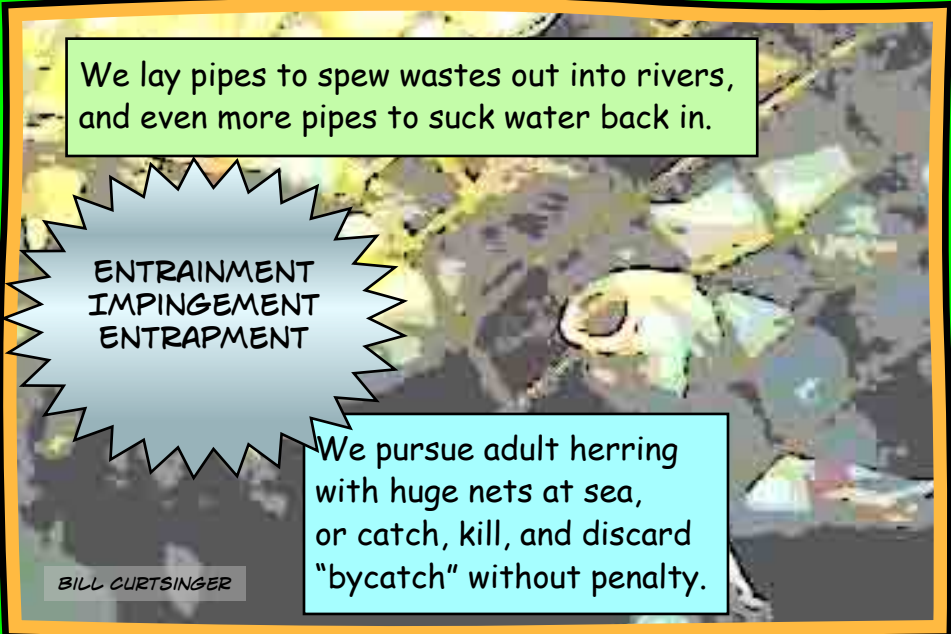

More were taken than could self-reproduce, yet we might have adjusted, were it not for all else.

JOHN PATRIQUIN

DAVID DIAZ

We dammed rivers for power, forgetting about fish. We filled bogs with sand, favoring our cranberry side dish.

We lay pipes to spew wastes out into rivers, and even more pipes to suck water back in.

ENTRAINMENT
IMPINGEMENT ENTRAPMENT

BILL CURTSINGER

We pursue adult herring with huge nets at sea, or catch, kill, and discard "bycatch" without penalty.

So do what we can and do what we must, don't let this resource be our generation's bust!

Go down to the rivers and cheer on survivors. They're doing their part, now let's do ours!

ROBERT F. BUKATY, AP

Help assess and restore.

Support watershed and town efforts - volunteering is fun.

PLYMOUTH STATE UNIV, NH

SWISH
SWISH

IPSWICH RIVER.ORG

Sample the water, count fish in their runs. Learn about fisheries... you will be stunned.

KAPOW

FRANK MAND, PLYMOUTHWICKEDLOCAL.COM

Get vocal with legislators, raise awareness and funds.

Herring run resources:
held in common by all,
But we have to take action
to prevent permanent fall.

JACOB BOETTER, FLICKE

Commit to action, celebrate the runs,
Set a goal and announce it,
Then get out and have fun!

PLIMOTH PLANTATION

Remediate for resilience and sustainability
once more.
Stop polluters, plunderers, and poachers...at home and offshore.

HOW MANY FISH IN A MOLECULARLY
DISTILLED AND PURIFIED
FISH OIL CAPSULE?

JOIN YOUR LOCAL WATERSHED ASSOCIATION

World Fish Migration Day is May 21st, 2016
<http://www.worldfishmigrationday.com/>