

News Release August 9, 2016

FarStar S.A.C. Consulting recently sent Stephen Cherlet to attend the Certified Supply Chain Transformation Architect (CSCTA) Certificate course held over two weeks in June and July in Detroit, Michigan.

This is an executive-level course intended for participants who already have significant work experience in the supply chain arena but who want to learn a methodology to deliver rapid results from a proven improvement methodology.

The Certified Supply Chain Transformation Architect course run by www.MetaOps.com (a FarStar business partner) under the leadership of Ron Crabtree with Paul Bohr as the primary instructor. Ron is a well-known contributor to the APICS organization and writes the monthly "Lean Culture" segment of the magazine.

This is a great course for anyone looking to learn and understand an end-to-end methodology for improvement. It is well worth the investment. The next course runs October-November, 2016 in San Diego, California.
