

Rodney Brown serves as a Executive Director and one of the Business advisor of New Covenant Community Development Corporation (NCCDC). NCCDC is a business development center where we offer classes and one on advising for start up and existing businesses. He is also a Co-Founder and serves as a member of the Executive Committee of North Lawndale Community Coordinating Council (NLCCC) and Chair of the Economic Development Committee.

Rodney served as a Co-Director of the Continuing Education and Professional Development (CEPD) division of the Joseph Business School since for almost 10 years. Together with the support of a very committed, faithful and talented staff, they have developed a very effective program of courses and workshops. The program was designed to meet the needs of adult students seeking to improve themselves using education as a tool to make a difference in their lives.

Rodney has more than 30 years of experience in business and has served on the boards of non-profit organizations in many roles including the Board Chair of two organizations. Most recently, he has served as the Board Chair of Childserv. In this capacity, he also developed a model program designed to help young adults get into college. He still serves as Board development Chair and a member of the Finance and Executive committee. His background includes finance, commercial credit and collections, sales, management and procurement. He has extensive global experience, having worked and traveled in China, Korea, Japan, Mexico and Canada. His most recent corporate experience includes more than 20 years in procurement where his last position was Director of Global Procurement for a multi-billion dollar company. He has been recognized for his strategic accomplishments in supplier management and building supply chain relationships.

His educational background includes Bachelors in Business Administration (major in Finance), and a Masters in Business Administration.
