Canvass May 17 For Dorval Civic Library

The Dorval Civic Library will held a door-to-door canvass between the hours of 7 and 8 P.M. on May 17th. The purpose of this campaign is to raise $2,000 for the purchase of urgently-needed new books and materials.

"We are trying, and will continue to try, to give Dorval citizens the best service our resources will permit. Our entire staff consists of volunteer workers, who give their time freely. The City has done its part this year in giving us spacious new quarters, and in completely furnishing two new reading rooms. We know that we can depend on the public to show their appreciation by making our appeal a success," said Mr. J.G. Dolan, Chairman of the Library Board, in announcing the campaign.

The Dorval Civic Library, located at 40 Martine Avenue, is under the direction of Mrs. M.B. Lachance. There are now about twelve thousand volumes in circulation.

Urban renewal and subsidized housing.

Progressive action undertaken by the Government in the field of urban renewal and subsidized housing has resulted in a continual upgrading of the standards of accommodation for all Canadians. As well, it has provided many Canadians with attractive homes which had previously been beyond fondest dreams.

The Government has stepped up activity in the field of urban renewal and subsidized housing projects. Urban development studies have taken place in 28 cities across Canada. These studies have resulted in slum clearance and subsidized housing projects.

Trans-Canada Highway.

One of the prime objectives of the Progressive Conservative Government has been to press ahead with construction and finish work on the Trans Canada Highway.

In 1960, the Government amended the Trans Canada Highway Act providing an additional $50 million and extending the Act to December 31, 1963.

In October, 1960, Public Works Minister David Walker signed an agreement with the Province of Quebec through which, for the first time, Quebec will share under the Trans Canada Highway Act. Quebec has planned an ambitious 400 mile program and the federal Government may be called upon to provide $100 million.

As a result of this vigorous action, it is now possible to drive over the entire length of the 4,877 mile route with the exception of one 90-mile gap in the Rocky Mountains. Even this section, involving very difficult construction, is under contract.

The Trans Canada Highway has been described as the longest national highway in the world. Its construction is important to the basic development of Canada, and in the age of automotive transportation, it has an important effect on Canada's "sense of nationhood". It has been disturbing that, for years, Canadian motorists travelling across Canada have, for the most part, driven to the United States border by the shortest route and travelled through the U.S. before re-entering Canada at the point of destination.

Public works of national importance

The Progressive Conservative Government has pressed forward with an ambitious program of public works whose usefulness to the development of Canada is unprecedented.

At St. John's Newfoundland, a $13 million harbour improvement, with completely modernized facilities, is taking place and when it is completed the capacity of that historic port will be doubled.

All along the St. Lawrence and throughout the Great Lakes system, existing harbour facilities are being improved to make the St. Lawrence waterway a great avenue of Canadian commerce capable of carrying the largest ocean-going ships.

At the Lakehead a $7.5 million harbour improvement program will make the great Ports of Port Arthur and Fort William open to ocean ship-

A richly ornamented jewelled-lever quality Swiss watch, by Movado, complements this newest all-Canadian creation, a René Original, for summer evening wear. This unusual gown, daringly scalloped at the peplum and narrow, short hemline, is of white imported French cotton guipure lace.

The gracefully simple 17 jewel watch, of 14 carat gold, is linked with a gold bracelet, on each side of which are five sparkling diamonds. Out of sight, under the unbreakable sapphire crystal, is a movement which Swiss watchmakers have made world-famous for accuracy and reliability.

ACTION BY DORVAL POLICE during an attempted robbery in Dorval recently led to the arrest of three young men, one of them from Dorval. Portefance, Captain Gortepy, Lieut.-Detective McDougall examine articles to a value of $2,000 which belong to local residents, and are tagged with owner's names during legal procedures.

IN FOCUS

By K. M.

THE CENSUS TAKING: Some people ask, "Why take a census every year in Dorval? What is its purpose?" For the answers to all the questions about the census, the man to see is Mr. G. Lefebvre who has worked for the city 10 years, and is with the Treasury Department. When asked what his title was he laughed, and said it was an unpopular one - "Tax Collector." Actually Mr. Lefebvre is a pleasant young man, married, with two small children, and a resident of Dorval who believes that the best of public relations should be maintained at City Hall, and who sets a good example himself, in this respect.

The city census asks only the obvious questions about numbers, religion, language, occupation, and ages of children. It serves first of all to supply statistics for the city from which are compiled various breakdowns. For example one may obtain the percentage of English and French speaking people in Dorval, and separate figures on adults and children. The census figures keep accurate the electoral lists, supply jury lists, figures for school boards, names for water tax lists, and organizational help for charity drives; the information may sometimes serve, in an emergency to locate a father at his place of work.

Small details such as who has paid a dog licence, and who has not, are traced by the census. One year when the census showed 600 dogs, and the dog licence lists stood at 300, letters were sent out to dog owners!

Mrs. Ted Fraser who works in the Treasury Department is in charge of obtaining the census takers—25 in number this year, all ladies—and she does the work of compiling and organizing statistics. She is the one who is getting the phone calls regarding the unexpected difficulties census takers run up against—and there are some in spite of the simplicity of the forms.

One aspect of the census which Mr. Lefebvre was careful to point out, was: information is kept in confidential files and is given out only to the R.C.M.P. Other requests for information, for example by insurance companies, must be submitted in writing, and receive careful scrutiny.

AUTAIR HELICOPTER SERVICES LTD., DORVAL: A helicopter of Autair Services landed on the school grounds at the Montreal Association of the Blind. Mr. Bob Genno was on hand to help the children "see" the helicopter. When questioned about the reactions of the blind children, Mr. Genno reported that the students were well up on their knowledge of airplanes and very fascinated with the helicopter. Some of the children who could see a very little spent a long time in the cockpit giving the instrument panel a close look, and all of the children showed a tremendous interest in the "Whirlybird." Autair some time ago entertained a group of blind adults and took them on a flight. "We started these projects for the blind quite by accident," Mr. Genno said, "and have become involved because it is such a rewarding experience. So much that we absorb and take for granted in a glance is an exciting experience for them."

FAIRY TALE ENDING: Mr. Jimmie Darou, paraplegic, celebrating his 25th anniversary at his Montreal West Texaco Station last week, entertained students from the School for Crippled Children, and turned over receipts from two days' sales to his favorite cause—The School For Crippled Children. To top off this exciting week, a ticket he had bought for the dinner, and $1000 Draw by the Westward Rotary Club, which took place in Lachine last Friday at Canadian Allis Chalmers, was drawn by the President before a crowd of 300 people. Jimmie had said that if he won, that money would also go to the School. So he was able to write this week a cheque for a total of $1214, one of the first contributions to the new school project which will be the McKay Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children—"A truly fairy tale ending," Jimmie said, "part of a lucky pattern, and a glow I could not buy with a million dollars!"

SPORTS: The Dorval Tennis Club is proud of the fact that it was the first club on the Lakeshore to get its courts in use this season with the first day of tennis a busy one, last weekend. Mr. Tom Finley announces that work has begun on the new courts, and the club is receiving new members this year because of the prospect of enlarged facilities..... Also getting an early start, The D.R.A. Golf Course will be opening up on the weekend of May 5, Mr. Keith MacLean, Director, and Chairman of the Golf Course, has announced.

Important news regarding the D.R.A. was released after last Monday's Director's Meeting. Mr. Gordon Kerr is the new President of The Dorval Recreation Association; Mr. Keith MacLean is 1st Vice-President; Mrs. Grant Townsend is 2nd Vice-President; Mr. Pat Keenan is Treasurer; Mrs. May Ferguson is Secretary.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS: Special guests at the meeting of The Joint Planning Committee of Architects and Engineers this week were Aldermen Bruce Goodfellow, Eugene Raymond, Art Samson, Wm. Milson, with the new members of Council getting an introduction to the work accomplished by this group....Dori Thomson, Dorval artist, has been busy with her exhibition with the Canadian Women's Club Exhibit in New York City....Grade one children from Joubert School and from St. Louis Marie had a full schedule last Saturday when they were Confirmed, and made their First Communion on the same day at Presentation Church..... The proceeds from the Spring Dance, El Paso, May 5, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Lachine General Hospital will go toward furnishing rooms in the new wing.....The Square Dance and Buffet Supper at St. Veronica's sponsored by the P.T.A. reported surpassing the expectations of those who look forward to this well organized annual event. Mrs. E. Amos and Mrs. R. Groul were social and refreshment conveners.$1,928.00 was raised in Dorval in the door to door canvass of the Canadian Cancer Society.

Refugee Family Happy In Canada

Almost a year has passed since the day Franjo Bebar and his family left the crowded squalor of an Italian Refugee camp to fly to Canada and take possession of a small apartment in Lachine. Readers of this paper may remember reports of the preparations made for their arrival by the Refugee Committee of the Lakeshore Unitarian Church and the pictures of the Bebars shyly exploring the luxuries of their new Canadian home. These readers may have wondered since how things are working out for this Yugoslavian family, the first refugees sponsored by an organization in the Montreal area.

Throughout the past months, the Bebars have co-operated whole-heartedly with the Committee's efforts to make them self-reliant and self-sufficient. Franjo has worked at a variety of jobs and, when illness put him in the hospital briefly, his wife, Ivanka, was able to earn some money mending clothes for a Lachine dry-cleaning firm. Franjo now has a steady position and last month, for the first time, paid all the family expenses without recourse to the fund built up for him through contributions from members of the church.

The children, 10-year-old Vinko and 7-year-old Antonia, have bravely weathered the many problems involved in starting to school among strangers who speak a foreign language and are not inclined to be overly friendly to someone who looks or talks "different." Vinko, old enough to be on the defensive, immediately found himself involved in a series of fights, one of which went far enough to cause him the loss of a tooth. The situation is better now that he is able to understand English. He is proving himself an intelligent student and is well on the way to achieving his ambition to skip from Grade 2 and Grade 4, where he will be among pupils of his own age level. Mrs. J.B. Reid, wife of Sixty-six bottles of plasma were needed for treatment of this 7-year-old haemophilic, Jean-Maurice Michaud, who was admitted to the Montreal Children's Hospital suffering from a brain hemorrhage. Red Cross officials made a special appeal to the public for him by press and radio, to which 700 persons responded. This is just one of the cases in Quebec hospitals requiring blood in large quantities.

Lake St Louis Anglers News

by J. Tessier

THESE ARE THE DAYS when you are itching to get out of the long underwear, into your fishing gear and out on the water. These are the days, too, when a lot of my friends stop me on the street and say: "Pete, I've got a chance to buy a used outboard motor mighty cheap. How can I tell if I'm getting a good motor, or a beat-up junker?"

You can't tell much about a kicker by looking at it, because a new paint job can cover a multitude of sins. If the parts are badly rusted, or if there are a lot of dents and patches under the paint, you know the motor has had hard use. If the cover and sides are banged up, you can assume that it has been dumped around or rammed, so look elsewhere.

Here are five simple tests to make when buying a used outboard:

1. Remove the spark plug and rotate the flywheel. It should turn easily and smoothly; if it drags at any point, shy away.

Then put your thumb firmly over the spark plug hole and spin the flywheel. If the pressure pops your thumb off the hole, the compression is O.K.

2. With spark plug out, hold the tip of the ignition wire about 1/4 inch from the cylinder metal. Spin the flywheel. If you get a crackling blue spark, you're O.K.; if you get a weak spark or none at all, the magneto or ignition system is snafu.

3. Grab the sides of the flywheel and try to wobble it sideways. If there is excessive play, either sideways or up and down, it's safe to conclude that the crankcase compression is defective. You'll have hard starting and loss of power, and a costly repair job before long.

4. Check the cooling system, preferably during actual running conditions. A good flow of discharge water shows that the system is O.K. If you can't get the motor into the water, remove the water connections and blow through the fittings.

There should be no resistance to your puffing.

5. Check the lower unit carefully. Forget about bad propellers; they can be replaced. Check play in the gears by moving the propeller back and forth; there should be a little play, but not much. Grease leaks in the lower unit mean trouble. Move the shaft up and down to see how much wear has developed. If it is very loose, stay away from this motor; you won't be able to retain enough grease in the box to keep the motor running safely. Then take out the lower grease plug to see what comes out. If you find any water, back away from this motor. Chances are its gears and bearings have been rusted or pitted.

POLLUTION - The worst poacher of all.

A pollutant harms fish either indirectly or directly. Indirect damage occurs largely through the destruction of the habitat. Starvation may result from the killing of plankton and bottom organisms by chemical or physical agencies. Fouling material settle out and cover the spawning grounds, besides caking down the bottom foods.

The sudden discharge of boiling water or heavy salts or other chemicals may kill instantly. Some substances, even in small quantities, are directly toxic to fishes.

Municipal sewage can cause a critical decrease in dissolved oxygen, a possible increase in acidity or alkalinity, a critical increase in ammonia and a bottom pollution blanket. It may also have a critical toxic action on fish.

Without a doubt pollution is the No. 1 enemy of every sports loving resident of our Lake St. Louis. It probably kills more fish than are caught by legal angling and if this slaughter could be easily seen it would make the evil work of the most hardened poachers seem like mere child's play.

TENNIS NEWS

On Wednesday night last week at the residence of Mr. Tom Finlay the Dorval Tennis Club began another drive in its continuing campaign to bring better tennis to Dorval. Several of the better players of the club met at Mr. Finlay's home to take instruction in the proper techniques of stroke making from Mr. Ken Hill, the Vice President of the club and recognized by the Lawn Tennis Association as a qualified coach.

It is one of the attractions of the club that the senior members provide weekly classes for juniors. Consistency in the coaching techniques of the seniors is of major importance in the development of the juniors game; hence the meeting at Mr. Finlay's house.

Mr. Hill instructed the members present in the correct way to grip the racket, how to prepare oneself to make a shot, how to actually make the shot, both forehand and backhand, and, finally, demonstrated the proper follow through to be used after the ball has been hit. Further classes for seniors will be held before the season gets under way (officially on 27th May) in this drive to ensure that juniors who join the Dorval Tennis Club will learn tennis the correct way.

Tennis got off to a wonderful start on Sunday when the news quickly spread that the courts were open for the first time this season. If you want to join or would like more information call Mr. Finlay ME 1-8116, Mr. Ken Hill OX 7-0352 or Mr. S. Stubbs ME 1-8727.

"IT HAPPENS EVERY YEAR" FOSSILS CLUB 30TH ANNUAL REVUE

Presented at West Hill High School Auditorium, April 25 to 29th, 1961, under the direction of Gordon Poirier, produced by Gerry Kirwan, with musical direction by Art Morrow, and with the following Principals:

- Grandpere.....Gerry Kirwan
- Grandmere.....John McCaughey
- Pierre.....John More
- Madelaine.....Terry David
- Whip and Snap.....Ross Nicholson, Rex Batten
- Penelope.....Jos Watson
- Bill Henkendorf.....Tex Dawson
- Way.....Charles Cook
- Gaubiac.....Robin Townsend

For two and an half hours principals and glee club, orchestra and dancers of "It Happens Every Year" kept their first night audiences rolling in the aisles. Strung together on a story which is their wackiest to date, the Fossils Club Revue was appropriately named "It Happens Every Year". Messrs. Watson, Dawson, Kirwan and More have been dishing out the same spicely lyrics (with variations) with the same catchy tunes (with new arrangements) for several seasons. Its "the mixture as before", to be expected and enjoyed by the same audience. The choruses of two-hundred-pound hairy chested Amazons "dance" their way through ponderous figures, hot breathless, grotesque, to the infinite enjoyment of the male section of the audience. Meanwhile the distaff side find much to amuse them in the prancing, mincing antics of Penelope and Madelaine (Terry Davis).

The story line of "It Happens Every Year" concerns the deed to a certain piece of property known as Carpentier's Pasture, which is to be the dowry of Madelaine Desjardins from her grandpere. Sure enough Carpentier's Pasture occupies the site of Place Ville Marie, and there's skulduggery aplenty when Whip and Snap, the big American contractors in their brightly coloured vests and with their executive Bill Heckendorf (Tex Dawson) discover that they don't own the land they're building on. The city fathers, the visiting police from France and England, who in this show are lost, and don't even know where the police station is, come in for the usual Fossil's treatment, which is as incisive as it is funny.

This is a show which is professionally paced. If you have never seen the Fossils Revue, you have missed one of the pleasantest experiences available to English speaking Montrealers. We love their salute to Montreal. It comes out practically the same every year with variations, but it catches our non-Toronto spirit better than any we have yet heard. We regret that our deadline did not permit us to have this review in print last week but let us say now: Plan to attend next year!
P.S. All proceeds go to youth work in Montreal!

POPULAR TV AND RADIO STAR TO FEATURE L.V.P. REVIEW

by M.E.

Mr. Bob Gillies, known to millions as Montreal's "Mr. Goodmorning" on radio station CFCF will be featured in The Lakeshore Variety Players' original musical comedy "Great-Grannie's Caper" which will be presented at the Dorval Recreation Center on the evenings of May 25th, 26th and 27th.

Besides his morning and afternoon radio shows over radio station CFCF, Mr. Gillies MC's his own television show "Four to Go" on channel 12 every Saturday evening at 9:30 p.m.

This will be Mr. Gillies' second appearance with The Lakeshore Variety Players. Displaying his wonderful singing voice in "Great-Granny-Wore-Tights" Mr. Gillies won great praise, and his charm and personality hit home both to young and old in the audiences.

VARIETY

In glancing through The Concise Oxford Dictionary, the writer notes that the word

"variety" is defined as: being various, diversity, absence of monotony or uniformity, many sidedness. That is exactly what The Lakeshore Variety Players are trying to be when they present their musical comedy "Great-Grannie's Caper" next May 25th, 26th and 27th at The Dorval Recreation Centre.

To present such a variety musical as The Lakeshore Variety Players are planning for May; their main aim is to please every person in their three nights audiences. As the reader knows, some like the classics; good, we have classical singers, a wonderful young lady at the piano to play the favourites. For those who like classical drama; Miss Gail Allard and Mr. Ralph England will perform the "Death Scene" from Edmond Rostand's great play "Cyrano de Bergerac." For light classics such as operetta we will feature Mr. Bill Walker and his great tenor voice and Mr. John Cornish supplying the vocals from a Gilbert and Sullivan comedy. For the younger set we have the ever-popular Don. Bader and his guitar. Don incidentally composed all the original songs which will be heard in this show. Comedy runs wild throughout the show, much of it through the clever talents of Messrs. John McFadyen and John Cornish. Mr. Phil. Pitre can sing a ballad that will tickle anyone's fancy, and Miss Helen Manels puts a popular song across the footlights with such ease and charm that it is a pleasure to watch and hear her. Miss Gwen 'Agnes' Hopkins is now completing wonderful new steps for her chorus-line, featuring beatnik steps and dances from "the good ol' days". Maria-Helena Scott, the young lady who performed for Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II at The Royal Festival Hall in England will display her great talent as a ballerina by performing a modern and classical ballet. Young Miss Gerda Clausen will again portray Great-Grannie with Miss Patricia Cornish as Great Grannie's old friend and dancing partner. Many of the old friends from The Lakeshore Variety Players' first musical variety comedy will be seen in this "Caper".

So if anyone should say that this type of music or this playette or song does not fit in with "Great-Grannie's Caper" we invite them to The Dorval Recreation for one of the three performances (May 25th, 26th and 27th) to be surprised how wonderfully all these musical numbers, skits, playettes etc. fit into place in "Great-Grannie's Caper" the musical variety comedy performed mostly by teenagers living in Lachine and the Town of Mount Royal.

the chairman of the Refugee Committee, has been giving him extra tutoring and is confident that he can cover the Grade 3 work during the summer. Vinko's latest acquisition is a pair of Canadian eyeglasses.

Antonia is a shy little girl who rarely speaks to anyone except her family. So it was with some amazement that the interpreter, Mrs. Mason, visiting Mrs. Bebar recently for a session of the woman-talk sorely missed by foreign-language newcomers, overheard Antonia reading fluently from her first grade reader and carrying on a conversation in very good English with Mrs. Mason's little daughter.

Asked about this, Mrs. Bebar told Mrs. Mason that Antonia has been most persistent in her efforts to improve their English. Members of the church have been giving the Bebars English lessons several times a week and, after each lesson is over and the teacher of the evening gone, Antonia always takes over and prods them on to further practice. In her enthusiasm, she has made the most progress, but Vinko runs her a close second and Franjo and Ivanka are now able to make themselves understood whenever necessary. The English teachers now come only once a week and have begun to vary the monotony of the government-supplied manual by introducing children's stories written in simple English. Tales such as "Ferdinand the Bull" and "Morris the Moose" are the delight of the whole family. Radio and television are also playing their part in increasing their ability to communicate with Canadians.

Life in Europe was not easy for the Bebars. Franjo, fighting against the invasion of Yugoslavia by the Germans, was taken prisoner and drafted into a German labour battalion. When the Germans retreated, the Russians repatriated him, but the hardships he had endured had left him with tuberculosis and he spent the next two years in a sanatorium. Cured, he returned to his native village and married Ivanka. After the government of Yugoslavia turned Communist, the Bebars fled to Italy. There they went from one overcrowded camp to another, hoping against hope that one of their many applications to a variety of countries would bring them permission to emigrate. All were refused because of Franjo's history of TB until the easing of the Canadian Government's restrictions made them eligible for entry here.

The Refugee Committee of the Unitarian Church was formed last March after a sermon by Charles Eddis, criticizing the lack of interest in World Refugee Year. Within hours, the 100-member church had pledged sufficient funds to apply as a sponsor for a family. As soon as the arrival date was known, the Lachine apartment was rented, furnished with donated furniture, and stocked with food and supplies. The Bebars arrived on June 19th.

Now they are financing their day to day expenses, the next goal that the Bebars have set for themselves is the repayment of their passage money. This desire is another source of satisfaction for the Unitarian Refugee Committee, as is the knowledge that their initiative in sponsoring the
