This Oak Wood Slide Box is also known of as the Stickman No. 1 Puzzle. It was the first puzzle designed by artist Robert Yarger. These were limited in edition to just 100 puzzles, but the last 15 copies were not produced until now.

As the first Stickman design, this box is relatively simple to solve, requiring a minimum of only 7 steps to open its 3 hidden compartments. The puzzle was crafted as close as possible (from memory) to the original 85 boxes that preceded it long ago. As such, it is bulky, rustic, and crafted from ordinary white oak. This might not appeal to those collectors more used to the modernly complex and ornate Stickman designs. Still, it is highly collectable, which is why a formal impartial online random drawing for them was implemented.

If your name was selected from the list below, and you desire to purchase one of these boxes for your collection, please submit payment of $325 to the Paypal account under my e-mail address (Stickmanbox@aol.com). Domestic shipping is included, but please add an additional $30 to cover expenses if you live outside of the U.S.

If you already have one of these puzzles, or decide to pass on getting one, please reply so another name can be randomly selected. It will be assumed that any person who does not respond within a week has an e-mail address on file that is no longer valid, and a new recipient will be selected.

(Note: The very last puzzle #100/100 will be finished in yosegi and made available later.)
