CHAIR'S CORNER

by David McGan

Last month's technical presentation was well-attended. Rex Burdette, of Kimball Electronics, discussed a problem-solving methodology, "Root Cause Mapping," that he has found particularly useful when dealing with problem-solving from a remote location.

February's meeting, coming up on Tuesday, February 9th, will be our yearly joint meeting with APICS, the local Purchasing professional organization, who is in charge of this month's program. It should be a value-added presentation, as Paul Dowler, Supplier Quality Manager for Kimball Electronics, will be speaking on the topic of "Supplier Development."

So plan now to join us, beginning at 5:30pm, to enjoy a delicious meal at the Haub Steak House, in Haubstadt, IN. As always, feel free to invite any of your co-workers, especially those who might work with your company's supplier community. And remember, non-ASQ members, including spouses or other guests, are always welcomed to attend our meetings.

Reservations should be made by noon on Friday, February 5th by emailing tom.watson@kimballelectronics.com. We'll be looking forward to seeing you there.

You may want to review the November ASQ Member gift as a refresher to this month's meeting with the purchasing managers: ASQ Supply Chain Management Primer.

The ASQ Supply Chain Management Primer (128 pp)

This primer was written to promote the application of basic and sound supply chain management principles. Supply chain management is a system composed of many connected processes, all working in harmony to achieve organizational objectives. There are five basic activities we must implement for superior achievement of those objectives.

The processes in typical sequential order are:

1. Define your requirements
2. Select a supplier
3. Award the business
4. Build and strengthen relationships
5. Monitor the performance

Learn more about these five critical activities and how they combine to create an enterprise system.
