Digital Meeting

Topic	Notes
Please review the attached draft of the letter we would send to nominees for the Bright Spots award.	One correction - We meet with a group of Austin and Pacelli High School students each month to gather feedback about student needs and issues in our community. Looks good Like the letter
Should we send this letter to all nominees? If yes, how do we notify if they are selected (or not)?	I think it would be nice to share the nomination and only send a notification to those who are selected. From the sounds of the letter all nominees will get an letter to say they've been nominated. Even if they don't win they have the pleasure of hearing what a student has said about them. To notify: I would email the ones who did not win to thank them for the impact on the community and encourage them in what they are doing etc. Maybe a phone call or in person visit to let the person who wins know they were chosen (have it videotaped????) could be a good future PR of initiative? I think only the ones who are selected. I think you should send it to nominees and can you say "follow us on Facebook/ website" to see if you are selected? That way you get more followers.
APAC (Austin Positive Action Coalition) has made an offer of collaboration. They host a spring event with a positive speaker and would like to acknowledge our nominees at this event. What are your thoughts?	I love the idea of APAC recognizing the nominees. Yes this would be a great "raise awareness "of the good stuff opportunity. Make sure you get to award vs someone from APAC so it clearly is an Austin Aspires initiative:) I love the extra publicity so I say "yes" to #3 Yes to APAC.
