

ENGL 212: Topics in Critical Writing: Techno-Futures
Winter 2021 – Online

Professor: Dr. Kim Lacey (please, call me Kim!)

Online office hours: M/W 10:00-11:30

and by appointment

Office: B 358

E-mail: krlacey@svsu.edu

Considerations before we begin this course:

- ENGL 212 is a Category 10 course, meaning you will be writing a lot.
- This is an asynchronous course, meaning we will not be “meeting” for a virtual lecture nor will be meeting in person. You are responsible for completing each week’s module on time.
- Please read the course calendar, which is at the end of the syllabus, carefully. Note that some assignments are due at different times throughout the week, but all are due by 11:59 p.m. EST. If you are living in a different time zone, please make sure you take careful note of this requirement. No late assignments will be accepted. If you know there’s a conflict, submit your work early.

Very important: Ask yourself this question: “What will happen to my participation in this course if my computer goes down?” If the answer is “I am doomed,” then you should withdraw and register for a face-to-face section another time. You need to have backup technology plans, because a “down” computer will not excuse you from the work in this course. Please use a cloud-based storage system (such as Dropbox, Google Docs, or OneDrive) to save your work and have access to it in multiple locations.

Class procedures

This course is divided into modules. You are expected to complete the activities in each module by the due dates. While all of the modules are available “on demand,” the modules are NOT self-paced—that is, each week has different activities that must be completed in that week (i.e., discussion posts). You must complete all the activities in each module to earn credit. Please be aware that some modules will require you to comment on others’ discussion posts. Just as you would in a face to face class, you are expected to be active and participate in discussion with your classmates. Failure to do so will result in a lower grade.

Participation in this course is asynchronous. You are not expected to be online at the same time as the professor or as your peers, as long as you complete the assignments. Each week, all instructions and assignments, along with a description of the week's activities, are made available to you in the “Modules” tab.

Canvas is not a new tool at SVSU, and I do expect you to be well versed in using Canvas. However, if you need help, please refer to the extensive library of Canvas how-to videos and help pages:
<http://guides.instructure.com/>

Participation

For this class, I strongly suggest you log on at least once a day, if for no other reason than just to keep up with what is going on in the course. I also want to reinforce that you should try to check the course at least one weekend day, even if you have completed the requirements for the week.

As in a face-to-face class, attendance does not equal participation. Merely logging in does not mean that you are participating in class.

I recommend that you treat this like a face-to-face class, meaning you set aside some time each week for you to “have class.” Even though we aren’t meeting, you should carve out specific time that you can devote to this course. That might mean two hours every Tuesday and Thursday, or it might mean three hours in the middle of the night. Whatever works for you, find a schedule and stick with it all semester. It will make keeping up with the course load much easier.

Tone

The objective of the discussions we will have is to be collaborative rather than combative. Remember that even an innocent remark in the online environment can be easily misconstrued. Some suggestions to combat this are to carefully proofread your responses and to remember that humor online is sometimes difficult to carry off. Sarcasm is particularly difficult to get across in written form, so be careful.

Our classroom

We will spend most of our time in class in following places:

- Modules (direct access via “Modules” tab): The entire semester is built around 16 weekly modules. In each module, you’ll find all the work to be completed that week. You should follow these in order.
- Assignments (direct access via the “Assignments” tab): Paper descriptions are available in the “Assignments” tab. You can also find these under the “Files” tab.
- Discussion posts (direct access via the “Discussions” tab): This is where you will be participating in the Current Events discussions, Questions and Answers, and some other activities. The “Modules” link right to where you need to go for each activity.
- Weekly updates (direct access via each weekly “Module”): At the start of each week I will post a short video discussing some of the issues of the week. These include, but are not limited to: reviewing assignments, tricky ideas, points of interest and confusion, answers to questions, etc. I will post the weekly update at the beginning of each weekly module.
- Watch, Read (direct access via each weekly “Module” tab): Most weeks, you will be required to watch videos, read articles, or peruse a website. All of these are noted on the syllabus and are linked in the “Modules.” These assignments are self-explanatory.
- Pages (direct access via the “Pages” tab): This tab is a collection of smaller pages containing items we’ll be using this semester. These include your “Groups” (see note below), where you will sign-up for Current Events, and other actions. All of this will be linked in the “Modules.”
- Office Hours: My office hours are a time that I set aside to help you. If you have questions about course work, grades, or other concerns, you are welcome to “stop by.” I’ll login to the “Chat” function on Canvas, but please note that anything written in the chat remains there all semester. If you’d prefer to meet confidentially in Teams, just let me know! Alternatively, you can email me anytime with questions.

A note about “groups”: Each student will be assigned into one of four groups: A, B, C, or D. Most weeks, these groups will have some task to accomplish. Sometimes, this task will involve creating questions and facilitating a discussion while other weeks you will have to answer questions and respond to others. More specific instructions will be in the actual module itself. The groups are listed under “Pages” → “Group Assignments.”

Textbooks

You might notice that we do not have any textbooks. All our texts (this includes readings and viewings) are weblinks. This course was developed as part of an Open Education Resources grant, which supports the development of courses without requiring students to purchase textbooks. If you prefer to print out your materials, you should factor in that cost for the semester. However, you are not required to print anything if you don't want to.

Technology requirements

To have success in this class, you are expected to access and use Canvas regularly. You should also have access to a cloud-based storage system (as noted above). For your papers, you must use some sort of word processing software. Office 365 is available to all SVSU students for free, which I encourage you to use. Additionally, you must have access to a means of creating and posting a video. This could simply be taking a video on your phone, tablet, or computer.

Assignments

Please see the Course Calendar below for due dates.

Questions and Answers and Discussion post Week 1: 26% (2% each)

Synthesis Essays: 24% (6% each)

Interview Essay: 10%

Current Events Summary Report: 5%

Current Events Video Presentation: 4%

Current Events Participation (on the week you're not "presenting"): 4%

Evaluation Essay: 12%

Play Assignments: 15% (5% each)

All assignments will use the ENGL 212 rubric, which can be found at the end of this syllabus (following the course calendar).

Grading Scale

↑95%: A

↑90%: A-

↑87%: B+

↑83%: B

↑80%: B-

↑77%: C+

↑73%: C

↑60%: D

0%: F

All grades will be posted on Canvas. I will not share grades on social media.

A note on the grading scale: SVSU does not assign C-, D+, D- grades. Anything below a 73% will result in a D. Anything below a 60% will result in a F.

A note about extra credit and extensions: I do not give extra credit or extensions. Please complete all assignments to the best of your capabilities on time.

Late work is unacceptable. Please ensure that your work is submitted on time. The deadlines are clearly marked on all assignments and on the syllabus. If you know a due date conflicts with something outside of class, plan ahead and submit your assignment early. I will send a confirmation e-mail by 9 a.m. the next morning. If you do not receive a confirmation e-mail, I did not receive your paper. If Canvas isn't working, please email me your work.

Accessibility and Non-Discrimination Clause

Students who need accommodations are encouraged to meet with the instructor or contact the SVSU Office of Accessibility Resources and Accommodations (phone: 989-964-4168). SVSU does not discriminate based on race, religion, color, gender, sexual orientation, national origin, age, physical impairment, disability, or veteran status in the provision of education, employment, and other services.

Academic Integrity Policy

According to the SVSU Student Handbook, "Academic integrity is undermined whenever one is dishonest in the pursuit of knowledge. Dishonesty takes many forms, including cheating, plagiarism, and other activities for undermining the educational process and will be reported to the Academic Conduct Board for further sanctions."

Forms of plagiarism include directly transcribing (copying) without quotation and attribution, summarizing without attribution, paraphrasing or patchwork paraphrasing without attribution, patching electronic materials (including pictures, graphs, and/or charts) without attribution. In ENGL 212 deliberate plagiarism or cheating in any form will result in the grade of zero (0) for the entire assignment. I reserve the right to use Turn It In if necessary.

The full Academic Integrity Policy can be found here:

<http://www.svsu.edu/studentconductprograms/policies/academicintegritypolicy/>

Writing Center Information

The Writing Center is operating virtually this semester beginning January 25. You can book appointments here: <https://www.svsu.edu/writingcenter/tutoring/>

Course Calendar

Important notes:

- This schedule is subject to changes. If changes are made, you will be notified in writing via e-mail.
- Make sure you read through and complete the entire module for each week. The "Module work" listed below is simply a checklist of weekly requirements. Each part of the modules has very specific directions.
- Only major papers are listed in the "Major Assignment Due" column. There is other work that needs to be completed during each week.
- Please note: our final assignment of the semester is due on a Saturday, not Sunday like most other major assignments.

- Please note: There are four “phases” shaded in light gray. I will be referring to these groupings throughout the semester. Please be aware of them.
