

Opposition - by Peter Green

Seven clue answers need to be changed before they are entered into the grid. These 7 changes all comply with the same simple rule as suggested by the title.

Eight of the answers are capitalized and one is foreign. Punctuation in the clues is included for grammatical correctness only and may or may not help the solver.

When the grid is filled in correctly, the letters in the shaded squares, reading from top to bottom and left to right, will provide a word (in keeping with the theme of this puzzle) describing how one should solve a puzzle such as this.
