Sceptre 41

Design - Hein Driehuyzen

A unique blend of SAIL & POWER with a low-profile pilot house that offers great visibility from either cockpit or inside helm.

Her spacious interior is bright and airy, with 6'-5" headroom throughout. The feeling of uncramped space is enhanced by more open floor area than you'll find on even much larger yachts. With windows and ports all around, you can enjoy the comfort of climate control without losing touch with the outside - it all adds up to superb livability.

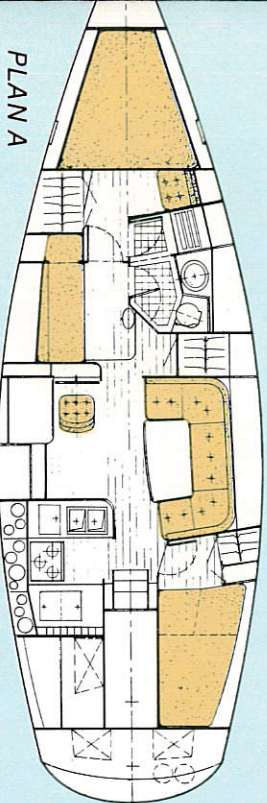

Under sail or power she's nimble and responsive. Rigged for maximum ease of handling, you can take her anywhere confidently, without the need for crew.

While she's exciting and fun to sail, when wind and weather decide to play tricks, you know your quiet powerful diesel will get you back to port, at over 8 knots.

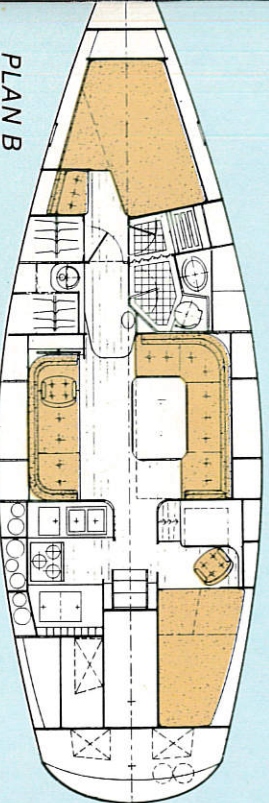

Finally, the ultimate design of a fast sailboat with dual helm stations and superb cruising features.... May we build one for you?
