

"Delhi/Price Hill & Press"

Westwood partners with Miami

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Miami University sponsored the Teens for Literacy program at Westwood School last year. Under this program, Westwood seventh- and eighth-graders tutored younger students in reading and visited Miami University's campus to shadow students. Shown, Miami University's Dr. Alan Berger, director of the Teens for Literacy program, gives an award of recognition to Eileen Diamond, program adviser at Westwood School, during a luncheon at the university.

Teens for Literacy

SUBMITTED PHOTO

Under the Teens for Literacy program, sponsored by Miami University, Westwood School seventh- and eighth-graders tutored younger students in reading once a week. In addition, Miami invited the young tutors to visit the university three times throughout the year. Students were able to shadow Miami students and see what the college experience is all about. Shown are Teens for Literacy participants Tim Kennedy, Cardaryo Roberson, Corey Heiskell, Erin Carter, Cassie McCray, Erica Teal, Brittany Pickering, Amber Lapsley, Heather Memory, Kali Gravett, Shannon Stringer, Lisa Martin, Tyla Davis, Reva Holmes, Christina Harp, Chris Hein, Talisha Simpson, Cherrelle Lowe, Erica Watkins and Sarah Anderson.