

Construction Notes 2

December 18, 2019

The Expanded Calico Rock Museum & Visitor Center

Drywall has been installed. This is a view from the front doors looking into the new visitor center. The double door on the left side leads into the boardroom. The door on the right side leads into the foundation and magazine offices. The entry on the right leads into the art center and public restrooms. The tin ceiling in this room will be 10 feet tall and the columns will be wrapped.

This is a view of the new galleries in the Tomlinson Art & Science Center. The expansion doubles the number and capacity of the galleries in the art center. Over the next few weeks, we will put the art and science center back together and ready it for reopening in March.

The R.C. Matthews Archives & Records has been completed. The archives and collections will be moved into the new space over the holidays. The Matthews Archives, Barbara Farris Loft, and Gwen Murphy Media Center make up the Gene and Reva Lockie Learning Center.

Give securely online to the expansion project at www.calicorockmuseum.com or send your check to: 104 Main Street, Calico Rock, Arkansas 72519

Next Steps in the Expansion:

Finish drywall, cut entries between visitor center and heritage center, paint, install tin ceiling, and install flooring.

Funding Update:

We are halfway toward the immediate goal of raising $50,000 to receive the matching grant from the Windgate Foundation. We appreciate your gift now to receive the Windgate grant.

