The 2020 Nebraska Hand Cornhusking Contest will be held at the Nebraska Prairie Museum in Holdrege, Nebraska, on Saturday, October 3rd in conjunction with the Museum's Fall Festival featuring living history exhibits. Participants and spectators alike are invited to come and enjoy the contest and see history in action as the two horse teams pull the bangboard corn wagons through the corn rows as contestants hand husk the corn. In conjunction with the Hand Cornhusking event, the Museum is planning to hold their Fall Festival featuring food vendors (lunch on your own) and all kinds of living history exhibits. Demonstrators invited to participate include woodcarvers, rope makers, weavers, quilters, 2-man saw and a variety of live farm animals.
