

MY APPROACH TO A BETTER WORLD

Juan Carlos Martino

My Approach to a Better World

According to Mr. Rafael Reif, President of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in his announcement of the Campaign for a Better World, “Humanity faces urgent challenges - challenges whose solutions depend on marrying advanced technical and scientific capabilities with a deep understanding of the world’s political, cultural, and economic complexities”.

Also he has said,

“At MIT, we make new ways of seeing, we deliver new knowledge, new tools, new seekers, and new solutions—and we open wild new frontiers”.

Now, in front of this initiative, Campaign for a Better World, through which this prestigious institute is looking to amplify its strength in education, research and innovation,

How do I, Juan, see myself?

My approach to a better world begins with an education program about the close energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING (Note 1).

Why?

Because we will not be able to identify the true root of the global problems of our civilization and the mechanisms by which its effects in human association take place without first solving, really solving and understanding, this primordial, eternal relationship.

Solving and understanding this relationship is mandatory, since the process HUMAN BEING is the result of the UNIVERSE process, and this is part of an eternal process that has already been acknowledged and plenty confirmed by the scientific community (Note 2). Therefore, since the absolute existential process is an eternal self-conscious process, it is naturally perfect, so only it has the absolute orientations by which it is eternally sustained through all its recreations, all its temporal manifestations which follow or obey the Principle of Harmony which is one of the Three Absolute Principles that govern it (Note 2). The Principle of Harmony has been mathematically described and fully, thoroughly confirmed by the scientific community.

While we persist in fighting our present global problems as they were the real ones and not its mere symptoms, no approach will truly solve them.

To solve the energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING we needed to marry science and theology in harmony with the absolute origin (Note 2) of EVERYTHING THAT EXIST, EVERYTHING THAT IS, AND EVERYTHING THAT WE EXPERIENCE. The short version, practical result of this marriage (Note 3), is the Unified Scientific and Theological Cosmological Model whose basis are ready for revision (Note 4).

In reference to our planet, the most urgent of the global problems we face is the energy distortion of its resonant structure through which the energy conditions that permits life is sustained; this distortion is caused by our present model of human beings association and development.

The symptom of the energy distortion in the resonant structure of the planet is what we now define as global warming.

The reason to put this distortion in first place is obvious: "Without our planet there will be no other problem to worry about".

The resonant structure of our planet is part of the new findings. The introduction to the mechanism of the planet energy distortion is at our reach. [See REFERENCES: Antes del Big Bang (Before the Big Bang); Gravitación y Energía Oscura (Gravitation and Dark Energy); La Teoría de Todo (The Theory of Everything)].

We have to pay attention to the resonant energy structure of our planet and to review the effects on it of all our activities we carry out to sustain our current model of civilization or model of association and development. Once we know the energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING we will acknowledge the natural model of human association; then, having the natural model, the revision of our present model of civilization and the energy structure of the planet that allows and sustains life will take us to all the aspects that we must take into account to begin to work effectively towards the better world we imagine for the whole humanity. However, educating ourselves on the energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING will take time.

Then, as we educate ourselves about the energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING we can deal with what is already obvious; we can correct our actions as we become more aware of the Three Principles that govern the Existential Process (Note 2), of the natural reference for a better world, and of the right steps to take with regard to our main challenge: the growing distortion of the planet's energy structure which is referred to as global warming.

With the briefly outlined approach is that I will become part of the needed efforts to face and solve the challenges of our civilization, through the Paths Toward a Better World

Movement that I already started on this page, Unification of Natural, Social and Political Sciences, and Theology, for a Better World.

Education to support a Campaign for a Better World.

In spite of having not acknowledged face front, our scientific community has plenty, exhaustively confirmed that we, and all the universal manifestations of life, are, indeed, the result of an eternal intelligent self-conscious process (Note 2). The confirmation has been described in several books that are part of the work Unification of Science and Theology (Note 4).

So, the algorithm governing our eternal origin process is also in the structure in three energy dimensions that establishes, defines and sustains the HUMAN BEING process. The HUMAN BEING process is an absolutely open, infinite series of temporal intelligent self-conscious manifestations of life that are the components of the eternal process. The scientific community has developed a plenty, exhaustively confirmed local version of the description of the eternal process in our energy dominion of the existence process, of the origin of EVERYTHING THAT EXISTS, EVERYTHING THAT IS, EVERYTHING THAT WE EXPERIENCE.

The relationship between the energy and information structures sustaining the intelligent self-conscious process is perfect since its result is the eternal Universal Consciousness. Once we understand the energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING, relationship acknowledged and described in the books that are parts of the extensive work for Unification of Science and Theology, we will have the primordial, immutable basis to re-orientate our current civilization, that is, our present model of human species association and development.

The Unification of Science and Theology covers aspects from the absolute origin of the total energy of the universe; the mechanisms through which parts of the universe are energized; the origin of the two primordial forces; an introduction to energy; the energy and functional structure of the Primordial Thermodynamic System of binary nature (of which our universe is one of its components) that sustains the complex interactions that give rise to the Universal Consciousness, God, and its immutable component that is now recognized as Spirit of Life; and more, many more aspects.

Now, the following question arises.

Once we have the Unification of Science and Theology, and all the aspects of the energy and functional relationship between the processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING,

Will the information provided by the Unification of Science and Theology be sufficient to make us fully aware and conscious of the energy and functional relationship between the processes HUMAN and UNIVERSE and to decide and begin a reorientation of our civilization?

No. That will not be enough.

To make us fully aware of the energy and functional relationship between the processes HUMAN BEING and UNIVERSE we need more than information.

It is one thing to have only the information; it is another thing to make it part of our conscious identity, our structure of relationships of cause and effect through which we define and experience ourselves.

In order for information to be part of our conscious identity, we need to make it our absolute reference, and initiate a particular process of awareness that starts from the acceptance of that information as a new reference. This acceptance comes naturally when it makes us feel better, as it is revised through a proper educational process to consciously interact with the primordial process of which we are part and from which that information comes.

In addition, to create the best world we would like to experience requires not only primordial knowledge but primordial attitudes to guide our will through the much needed changes. Such attitudes are required by virtue of our strong current dependence on our model of partnership and development. We also have, now, those primordial attitudes (Ref.: El Celular Biológico, Ciencia y espiritualidad de la interacción efectiva consciente con Dios / The Biological Cellular, Science and spirituality of the effective conscious interaction with God).

Why are primary attitudes required?

First of all, let us notice that the process HUMAN BEING is a particular version of the UNIVERSO process, and therefore has a Process Control Structure (Note 5).

The primordial attitudes are for the structure of human reasoning control what in Universal Process Control Theory are defined as PID Control Feedback Loop (Proportional-Integral-Derivative). Our emotions are really phenomena of resonance of the energy structure of the process HUMAN BEING that takes place in an arrangement in three energy dimensions. Emotions are phenomena that take place in the feedback loop of the control system of the structure of human identity, of the arrangement of cause and effect relationships that define the identity of the process HUMAN BEING.

This structure, which is absolutely analogous to that governing the process UNIVERSE, is part of the Unified Scientific-Theological Cosmology Model (Ref.: El Celular Biológico, Ciencia y espiritualidad de la interacción efectiva consciente con Dios / The Biological Cellular, Science and spirituality of the effective conscious interaction with God).

Finally, as Dr. Reif said: "At MIT, we focus on inventing the future. We push past the edges of human understanding".

This is all what I have exposed here. Something different and beyond current human understanding.

NOTES.

Processes UNIVERSE and HUMAN BEING.

We use capitals to start seeing both processes in a different way we have until now. Both processes are temporal components of the eternal absolute process that takes place in the Absolute Universe or Absolute Existence Unit; both are energy structures sustaining different functional dimensions of energy, and intelligence structures and information arrangements interactions through which the Universal Consciousness is sustained.

Existence Principles.

Scientific community has plenty, exhaustively confirmed the three absolute principles (although they have not been necessarily acknowledged as such) establishing, defining and sustaining the self-conscious existence process in the Existence Unit) and its components.

These principles are:

- (I) The eternity of the energy.

Energy is a property of the primordial substance of binary nature from which presence everything takes place);

- (II) The Primordial Form of Life.

This intelligent, self-conscious energy structure, sustains the Primordial Thermodynamic System of which our universe is part and explaining the mechanism of the Big Bang; and on this structure take place the interactions establishing and sustaining the Universal Consciousness;

- (III) Harmony of the Self-Conscious Existence Process.

Harmony is the energy and functional relationship between all the temporal components of the eternal existence process, or the process UNIVERSE (if we only acknowledge it).

Scientific community has described and confirmed eternity as an absolute open series of temporal components. The energy and functional relationship between the temporal components of the series is the Primordial Harmony.

Eternal Presence, Eternal Intelligent Self-Conscious Process is the Absolute Origin of all the existence manifestations; is the Absolute Origin of EVERYTHING THAT EXIST, EVERYTHING THAT IS, AND EVERYTHING THAT WE EXPERIENCE (we noted in capital to include God Who is the Identity of the Universal Consciousness, of the self-consciousness of the absolute process sustained in the Existence Unit).

Consciousness, awareness and understanding, is the result of energy, intelligence and information structures interactions taking place in different space and time dimensions of the primordial substance distribution inside the Existence Unit that comprises, energetically, the Primordial Thermodynamic System, and functionally, the Primordial

Form of Life whose reference is an immutable component (that we call Spirit of Life) to which we can access now through primordial reasoning.

Why was necessary, first of all, to unify science and theology?

Believe in God or not, there is an absolute origin of everything, as we already noted.

Theology is the study of the nature of God as creator, or the study of the Origin of everything (in which case there is a lot in common between theology and philosophy).

So, if God created everything, including universe and human being, He also created all the laws that govern the universe; then, we should not separate theology, the study of God, the origin of everything including our ability to reason and achieve consciousness, from science, the rational discipline to establish cause and effects relationships through systematic, methodic observation and study (reasoning) of the universal energy and life manifestations.

Science and theology are the two reasoning disciplines about existence manifestations taking place in the two energy dominions of the existence process of binary nature.

God, or the Absolute Origin, is experienced without reasoning, but to understand Him/Her we need reasoning in harmony with the eternal process we come from and are inseparable part of.

The binary nature of the existence process, and of its reality, is implicit in our space-time model of our universe. In simple words, the binary nature of the existence is expressed as “existence is about substance and movement, inseparably”. The primordial or absolute particles are binary units of existence, manifestations of the primordial substance. They are primordial units of charge; they have mass and rotation.

The Work of Unification of Science and Theology.

(Includes Basis to Unification of Social and Political Sciences with Natural Science and Theology).

The books, for everybody (Section I of REFERENCES, below) and for those who would like to review their scientific basis (Section II), are available at Amazon, in regular printed version and Kindle (except La Señal, which is only available in printed version and in format PDF through my website www.juancarlosmartino.com).

All the books are written in Spanish.

Main titles indicated (*) are registered in the Library of Congress.

The process HUMAN BEING is the result of an intelligent process, according to one of the three fundamental principles that govern the existential process and its self-consciousness. As mentioned above, the three fundamental principles (Note 2) have already been fully confirmed by our scientific community (although not all three have necessarily been recognized as such). Moreover, these principles have been mathematically described and these descriptions are the basis of all our technological developments in communication, data processing systems, and in universal process control systems. In other words, our applications are simple versions of components of the process UNIVERSE that have been brought into our dimension of existence by the process HUMAN BEING, which is another version of the process UNIVERSE governed by a universal configuration with obviously much more complexity than ours.
