Asian American Lead	AALEAD Community Center 1323 Girard Street, NW Washington, DC 20009 202-884-0322 11141 Georgia Avenue, Suite 215, Wheaton MD 20902 301-942-9333 info@aalead.org	AALEAD's overarching goal is to increase the opportunities and ability of low-income Asian American children to move out of poverty and become successful, self-sufficient adults. AALEAD firmly believes that education is the key to meeting this goal. However, AALEAD understands that children need additional family, school, and personal supports, not just academic assistance, to succeed. Consequently, AALEAD uses a five pronged approach to youth development, offering each child after school intervention in a safe space, mentoring, family support and educational advocacy.
Ethnic Harvest: Cross Cultural Church Connection :	info@ethnicharvest.org	EH seeks to serve and equip the Church in North America for ministry in our multi-ethnic society, by providing resources, stories and practical information on our web site and by helping build partnerships between ethnic and anglo churches, between ethnic churches in North America with those overseas, and among individuals and churches ministering to specific people groups
