

Private Bar Attorneys Interested in Disability-Related Cases

The following is a list of attorneys who have expressed an interest in working with individuals who have disabilities or disability-related cases. These attorneys are in private practices. It will be very important for you to discuss fees with any private attorney you contact. If your case seems strong, some attorneys will agree to accept your case on a contingency basis. That means that the attorney will take your case without you paying attorney fees. If your case is strong and the attorney thinks it is winnable, the attorney may expect to be paid by the other party. Remember, discuss fees with any attorney you contact.

This list is provided as a service to persons with disabilities. This is not an endorsement of any particular attorney listed. By providing this list P&A has NOT agreed to represent you in any fashion. However, we will treat our conversations with you as seeking legal advice and, therefore, confidential. For additional information, contact the individual attorney.
