STUDY & DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Questions for consideration:

Consider the average person, are they more likely to see their need for God when times are prosperous or when difficult? Explain:

When you think of yourself, knowing of your love for God, how likely are you to be judgmental of other's immoral or illegal behavior? What might change about your perspective if God told you He is allowing that person to work thru their philosophy to the end, then He will be there for them?

What would you prayerfully meditate about to really seek God's heart and see what He is doing in the situation or with that person?

Describe a time or event when you know God was at work and allowed you to glimpse what He was doing. How did the intimacy grow between you and God?

If God impressed upon you to forgive someone, whom would that be? Write their name down (no need to share), ask God for the ability to really forgive them and describe the freedom as you see it now, and again after you have obeyed.

If God places someone on your heart, would you be obedient to disciple them? How would you get the truths you want to pass on to them? Would you start an outline in a notebook and begin “saving” passages and principles to share in the future?

What area of your life (no need to share) do you need to use the wisdom God has already given you. (Faith is doing what God commands leaving the results to Him.) This often means someone will go unpunished for something they did to hurt others (you). Can you move ahead with the wisdom and obey in the “do as He commanded” part? Even when delayed by years, obedience will be rewarded. You know what you need to do.
