

Allergy/Allergic Reaction Policy

ALLERGIES: Allergens, including but not limited to natural and man-made origin, are included as inherent risks assumed while participating in any activity on the property, including but not limited to horse riding, grooming, or observing activities.

Wildwind does not and cannot control the food items brought onto the premises during any and all activities, including during camps and clinics. Wildwind, its employees and its volunteers are not trained to respond to any medical emergency including those caused by an allergic reaction. Wildwind, its employees and its volunteers cannot administer medication, including inhalers or Epi-Pens, for those riders who may need them. Should an emergency situation arise, 911 will be called and the rider will be made as comfortable as possible while waiting for first responders to arrive.

I understand that Wildwind is not responsible or liable for any allergic reaction that may occur while the rider is on the property.
