

Dear Agency Friends, Associates, Colleagues and Supporters:

VetCor is proud to announce our Tampa Bay area kickoff breakfast at Tampa's Centre Club at 123 South Westshore Boulevard on February 28th from 8:30 - 10:30 am. VetCor's five offices throughout Florida will have a mission to support former military veterans and provide them with private sector employment opportunities. In working with military organizations which specialize in giving our heroes a hand up when they come home, we have found that, while there are outstanding training programs to provide our returning military skills in the marketplace, the missing piece is opportunities for these servicemen and women to put those skills to work. These individuals have the character, integrity and drive that have made America strong and, as such, VetCor's technical and administrative staffing will only be employees who are United States military veterans.

I was proud to issue a press release on November 11th, 2013, Veterans Day, to announce the formation of VetCor, which was established to provide water mitigation services and other insurance services to agents, carriers, and consumers. I am continuing to reach out to my former appointed agents, friends, and colleagues so that you attend this breakfast and meet the team of veterans who are pioneering this venture. In addition, I would like to catch up with all of you to discuss other initiatives that I am involved with to support your agencies with homeowners, commercial, and flood insurance. Please RSVP to: rsvp@vetcorservices.com.

Below is a message from VetCor's new President, LTC(R) Paul Huszar, P.E. and Director of Operations, SGM(R) Scott Walden:

"VetCor will be the spark that will help many returning veterans continue their commitment to service. As we searched for second career opportunities after having served our nation for over 40 (combined) years in uniform, we could not have imagined a more promising one than VetCor. The business opportunity makes sense in a service related industry where veterans can truly make a difference in the lives of our customers, in their hour of need. Most importantly, we believe this new "mission" for the veterans who will join our team presents tremendous opportunities to reconnect with their communities with that same sense of spirit and service that they held so dear while in uniform. They will continue to wear a uniform of a different style, but with all the same values and characteristics embedded in their ethos. We look forward to sharing our plan and vision for VetCor and soliciting your feedback on our way ahead to supporting you in Florida."

Thank you in advance for responding to our invitation. We look forward to seeing you.

David Howard, CEO
