PRO SERIES COOLERS

The all-new PRO series coolers take everything that makes a Canyon great to the next level. We made the straight walls even thicker, with up to 2.5" of insulation to keep your beer cold as can be, for as long as can be. Redsigned latches hold the lid air-tight even during the chaos of a fall or tumble, all while being simple to use.

The PRO series come with all the bells that'll have you whistling, including a dry-goods food tray and an innovative space divider than doubles as a cutting table that attaches to any number of the PRO's integrated accessory pockets.

Available in either a weekend ready 45-quart, weeklong capable 65 quart, or extended trip 150-quart size, there's sure to be a PRO well suited for your next adventure.

A white Canyon PRO150 cooler is the central focus, sitting on a boat deck. The cooler has the word "CANYON" printed vertically on its side and "PRO150" on the front. It is surrounded by fishing equipment, including rods and reels, and several white boxes. The background is a blurred view of the boat's interior and the water.

PRO150

"THE NAVIGATOR"

The Arizona made PRO150 cooler is the ultimate chest for keeping large amounts of ice solid for as long as possible. It is purpose built for large groups and long adventures, whether that's a week's long journey down the river, in the elk woods, or overlanding away from it all. It provides ample space for food and drinks, with room to spare to return home with your harvested game meat.

Pitted head to head against a Yeti 160 by Rokslide, the "Navigator" came out victorious as the undisputed king of the elk-quarter sized coolers.

NOMAD

SOFTCOOLERS

Sometimes the adventure is only found far from both the crowds and a nearby road. Sometimes the immobility of a heavy, hard sided cooler preclude its usefulness. These were the adventures we had in mind when we built the Nomad series softcoolers. Expect to be pleasantly surprised by both how long it'll keep your drinks cold and how easy it is to pack along the trail with you.

Nomad is available in both 20 and 30 quart sizes.

OUTFITTER

SERIES

Canyon's Outfitter Series premium coolers are an all-purpose solution to flimsy, cheap ice chests that don't keep ice cold.

Rich in user-friendly features such as flush, square walls for packability, easy to use latches, and a fast acting drain plug, the Outfitters come in a variety of sizes to match any adventure. And get all of this at retail prices that average 30% less than other premium cooler brands.

ADVENTURE

SERIES

Building on the popularity of the Outfitters, the Adventure Series maintains Canyon's design ethos of usability first and adds activity-specific functionality making each product designed to move with you. An Adventure series cooler is perfect as both an all-purpose cooler, and as a well-suited companion on an adventure of a lifetime, whether that's a 15 day run down the Grand Canyon or a 2-week remote elk hunt.
