A Note from Rick: Markets were steady to stronger at TLA this week. Dairy cattle prices were unchanged with very little test. The calf market was stronger and continues to bounce around in the $90-$130 range. Slaughter cows were a little stronger as well with Breakers from $58-$69. Boner cows from $52-$67, and Lean cows from $35-$50. Feeders were unchanged with very little test. The Hay market is starting to have a little more activity and that will continue to increase as we head into fall and winter. Prices have remained fairly steady throughout the summer and I don't see that changing. I'd say overall in the local area we had an above average year for quality of hay that was made, but the quantity of hay made is probably below average. That is something that my Dad taught me growing up, "You either have quantity or quality and very rarely do you get both when it comes to feed". Obviously it's possible to have both, but he was talking about primo quality or record breaking yields. Like many things that I learned from my Dad, it has been proven over and over to me. Fall is officially here and this week is supposed to feel like it. Be sure and visit TLA in October, it's going to be an exciting place to be. See you at TLA!
