

New Sunday School Classes

Sometimes you have to make things up as you go along. As the famous chiropractor once said, "Life is just one adjustment after another."

We are making adjustments as we go, launching new Sunday morning Bible classes.

Back on September 7, we launched a new ministry with a "Kick-off for Kids Sunday." Here was our intent: to have something in place for children who were middle school aged and under on a Sunday morning. Our original design was to have these opportunities for kids during the Sunday morning sermon. But we still had nothing in place for older teens. When some older teens did arrive, we wanted a time for them to be together. And so we have begun a Sunday morning class which starts at 10:00a.m to coincide with an existing adult class. Where would we put them? That was the prayer.

The answer came from our neighbors next door who are allowing us to use a couple of rooms for Sunday school on Sunday mornings. With the additional space, we have also moved the middle school class to the ten o'clock hour. And now we will look to start another adult class geared for those who might bring their own children to the Sunday school hour.

We ask that you pray for these young teens and their leaders to build a vital ministry here at Oconee River. It's tough getting new classes going. It requires a great commitment to work through the highs and lows of launching a new ministry. Pray for these folks with all your might.
