LO: to write a time travelling story

The Timetraveller

Have you ever heard of a real time traveller?

No?

Well, one terrible, <sup>comma</sup> stormy, hectic and disastrous, even October evening, time travelling mysteriously became possible. . . . <sup>ellipsis</sup>

Ayesha was stroking her cat Mittens on her comfy, cozy and colourful bedroom. Ayesha was a congenial and clever 15yrs old girl. Her cat mittens is as cute as a hamster <sup>simile</sup> and her fur is a pillow! <sup>metaphor</sup> In a blink of an eye, the bed rumbling, she felt so scared that she got ~~off~~ and found an old and dusty box then she opened the box and soon saw a blinding light. Instantly, the box se swallowed Ayesha with her pet mittens. So they went time travelling to any place on the world!

Without a sound, Ayesha landed on a dune with a splash. <sup>2</sup> SK When she woke up she was drowsy however she was so confused! So she decided to explore and ask people where she was. On the way, she smelt scrumptious, mouth watering and ripe fruit and vegetables. She could <sup>and tiny triangular buildings</sup> hear <sup>noise</sup> ear hurting sounds such as intense crashes and bangs coming from everywhere she could feel sand hotter than the hottest thing on earth! It was so hot that she ran down the hill although the hill was scaming, <sup>sub. clause</sup> it helped her anyway. Finally she found an extremely old man with a <sup>long</sup> walking stick. She said to the man "Excuse me

"Portals," said the girl delighted.

All of a sudden, the lamp started to get warmer, it glowed and it started to shake rapidly as quick as a flash, Aysha arrived home with a bang and landed on her bed with <sup>M</sup>mittens. After a while Aysha ran to her parents and told them the story.

"What big imagination you <sup>have</sup> Aysha!" they said joyfully. Aysha did nothing but smiled.

Do you think Aysha was just dreaming? ✓
