The art and essence of Free Improvisation is far more than just creating variations on a theme. It is the core action of life itself, from the simplest concept of choosing another path when an obstacle arises, to the profound pursuits of existence at its most transcendent. For drummer Jack Mouse, multi-instrumentalist Scott Robinson and vocalist Janice Borla, Improvisation is the life force of their pursuit of brilliant artistry and the spinal cord of their message. Together they have created a stunning new album on Tall Grass Records, Three Story Sandbox.

The album title references Tall Grass Studios, where Jack and Janice live and record. It is a three-story structure, each level having its own particular purpose/function and atmosphere, which contributed greatly to the overall vibe of the music. And Janice, Scott and Jack each have their own stories to tell. A Sandbox is a “PlaySpace,” devoted to the unfettered creativity of child play... a state of mind that is intuitive, exploratory, creative, improvisatory.

While Three Story Sandbox has a total sense of continuity in the “suite-like” sensibility that is the essence of all great albums (as opposed to a collection of tracks), the 7-part Sandbox Suite and the following nine pieces are all uniquely crafted to convey a mood, ambience and compelling atmosphere that makes each item a story unto itself, while playing its own part in the telling of the overall tale. Despite the total spontaneity and absolute freedom involved in making this music, it is powerfully structured, totally cohesive, richly musical, vividly virtuosic, and absolutely enjoyable on every level. Three Story Sandbox is a masterpiece.
