

THE ARCHON QUESTION

We must always begin with etymology.

Archon means among other things: governor.

Government = govern mente. To steer like with a ship's rudder, the mind.

Mind control.

The concept behind a rudder is that a very small device under the control of sometimes just a single person could move and incredibly large ship.

This is our first template.

Bacteriophages are viruses that infect bacteria and can kill them by splitting them open (lysogenic) or turn them into poison factories (toxigenic).

Mycophages were renamed to mycoviruses but it is my contention that the same process that makes bacteria like tetanus, botulism, strep throat and a host of other organisms into disease-causing killers will also turn fungus into toxic killers.

Keep in mind that words fungus/mold typically refer to the hyphae form that lays out a mycelial mat in its growth medium while the 'perfect form' of a fungus is called a mushroom. The Fly Agaric, Amanita muscaria is the well-known mushroom of the shaman for 'communicating with the other side', through the use of its toxins. Mushroom poisoning is called intoxication. If the mushroom was not infected by a virus, would it still produce the substance that alters the states of consciousness of the consumers?

This is our second template.

Mankind is a conflicted passive/aggressive creature capable of the most heinous acts. Jose Delgado the father of mind control said that primates including humans when confronted by a threat will ALWAYS try to run away if possible. He said categorically that aggression is not an inherited trait in humans!

If pure evil is not normal to the human condition then where did it come from?

IF a phage can turn a bacteria into a toxic killer
IF a phage can turn a fungus into a toxic killer
THEN why couldn't a virus turn a Hu-Man into a toxic killer?

Hu is the primordial god of Egypt represented by the Sphinx.
Man in legal dictionaries is the feudal servant of a Lord.

Hu-Man is the feudal servant of the Demon Lord Hu.

When we read the ancient Babylonian liturgies we see that they give Demons the names of Diseases and Diseases the names of Demons.

This is our third template.

This was the single breakthrough that let me harmonize the clinical science of phages with the supposed mythology of 5000 years ago, that by all accounts reads like a sci-fi horror novel. I will not consider the Gnostic texts from Nag Hammadi since Harry Hubbard suggests that they were planted by the CIA. When we limit ourselves to what can be confirmed and demonstrated by science not speculation or myth then we have the ability to control and remedy the situation. Anything outside of that is dialectical masturbation.

It is our responsibility to find out, if we can, who (what?) they are using to sequence Hu-Man DNA when many authorities state categorically that the human being has about 33,000 functional genes while something like a worm has 100,000 genes. They go on to say that those human functional genes represent about 8% of the total genome with another 12% being known RETROVIRUSES and the last 80% being junk that includes broken sequences and retroviral leftovers.

Determining who (what) they are sequencing is essential so that we do not make an assumption that everyone on the planet is this polluted if it is just a single person or a small minority like the Illuminati fucks doing a family tree on themselves. The disturbing possibility that it does represent the human race in general is made easy by the mass polio vaccinations that are known to have ingrafted extreme numbers of retroviruses into the human genome. Should that be the case then we must consider that the vaccination program is akin to building a ship inside a bottle where the components for the completed work have been delivered surgically and methodically in a serial fashion so that the end result happened below the threshold of perception, detection, and emergence.

I say emergence because if you see what these Demons with the names of Diseases can do then you will NEVER look at any alternative to my evaluation of the world as possibly being valid. Tree Man is what they are shooting inside of little girls as cervical warts.

<http://abcnews.go.com/Health/MedicalMysteries/story?id=5535375&page=1>

That is JUST HPV. That is only one virus. An oncovirus.

Onco means cancer.

Julian Huxley in 1956 and Peter Duesberg in 2011 said that cancer was a parasite exerting itself as a new species over the host. Chimeras and Mosaics are discrete DNA that exist independently of the host DNA whether in separate tissues or in the blood. Whichever DNA has control over the central nervous system dictates which of the two entities 'exist'.

It is demonstrated that organ transplants that have nervous tissue bring memories of the donor with them into the recipient.

It is demonstrated that viruses, like all other microbes, exhibit Quorum Sensing.

Viral phages infecting bacteria cause the bacteria to employ strategies that allow the bacteria to fight the invasion. This is called CRISPR. It was discovered by DuPont by their phage library system when they were troubleshooting fucking yoghurt for godssake.

When I was a young bud, viruses were said to be non-living, intercellular, obligate parasites. Now that I am an old withered branch, viruses are said to be small or giant and can infect each other, mount immune responses, AND CONTROL BEHAVIOR!!!

<http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/books/NBK49500/>

This is our fourth template.

...and if that doesn't scare the fucking shit out of everybody, I've got nothing left...

Butt, we're not done.

A virus by definition is RNA or DNA. Nucleic acid material that either codes for proteins or not. GOMAFU is non-protein-coding RNA found in Yeast that creates NEURAL NETWORKS! The Borg of StarTrek is not fantasy but documentary masquerading as entertainment. It's not entertainment --- it's entrainment. Yeast is known to harbor viruses, thus it acts as a coyote to get the migrant viruses from place to place within the host thus allowing the virus to evade detection by the immune system.

www.H-clr.com

If we were to accept the old view that viri were non-living chemicals, then we might re-classify them as molecular machines. This, then, brings us into the world of Morgellons and Transhumanism with the cybernetic hybridization found in science fiction to be demystified fact. DARPA has already welded mouse brain to integrated circuits to run wheelie carts. Never Born Proteins are as simple as coding genetic sequences to use known or novel amino acids to play Leggos with Life itself.

Within parasite lifecycles there are intermediate stages with pleomorphic changes that occur within primary or intermediary hosts. Body jumpers. Shape shifters. One form like the bladderworm inside the brain of a sheep has nothing whatsoever in common with the large tapeworm that it becomes in the guts of a dog, but they are the same monster --- different form.

It is my considered opinion, doing meta-analysis on all of the available data that the melding of organic and inorganic structures in what is called the Trans Human Agenda is nothing short of the virus or viruses that make up the Archon Entity seeking to replace the human host because these serviceable Thumb Puppets are no longer needed or desired because although they have brought the Archons the ability to manipulate the physical world the human frame is susceptible to damage and death. In the manner of a parasite insuring that it is transmitted from one host to another then undergoing metamorphosis, the final stage of Archon manifestation seems to be a cybernetic battle chassis that can resist everything that humans could not.

This is our fifth template.

Five is the number of Death.

If this is so, then what do we do?

Myths or even scientific data without a foundation or a plan is just useless carnival rides that serve no purpose.

IF it is a biological entity, then its susceptibilities can be discovered and exploited to render it extinct.

Viri come as encapsulated or not. Lipid shell or protein shell or both. The lipid shells are fat-soluble so that is why coconut oil, etc. is promoted like used cars. But if you melt the fatty coating then the protein or nucleic acids are liberated. That means that either the people telling you to eat fat are ignorant or working for the other side. We also need proteolytic enzymes to break up the protein shells and nucleic acid enzymes to destroy the viral payloads.

CRISPR is all the rage not because it will be a boon to mankind but because it was Nature's only defense against viral invasion so the likes of DuPont et. al. are looking on how to prevent CRISPR from interfering with the insertion of the ARCHON ENTITY into nearly every living thing.

Viruses, even retroviruses, cannot infect a cell unless there are cell surface adhesion molecules that allow it to attach. This is why some people are immune to HIV.

Viruses have pseudospecies, but these minor variations, although problematic and infectious are NOT critical to the survival of the entity. There has to be a Survival Cassette of genes with which the Archon virus or viruses CANNOT EXIST WITHOUT. Therefore, it is essential to find that sequence and destroy it. The survival of mankind depends on it.