Fire Findings provides methodical, thorough, science-based forensic engineering and consulting services. We're dedicated to determining how appliances, devices and systems work and fail—and how they cause fires, explosions, floods, freezing or other types of incidents. It is our passion to deduce how circumstances, conditions or agencies caused an event. Our constant focus is to provide useful, accurate answers that assist clients in making reliable decisions.

Our presenter, Jack Sanderson, is an expert in fire origin and cause and will be providing an abbreviated classroom training regarding gas and electrical appliance fires. He and others created this investigation course 28 years ago to satisfy the need for technical experience that may be obtained in a classroom setting. Jack L. Sanderson, Fire Findings' founder and CFI, is a nationally recognized speaker, author, and expert with more than 30 years of in-the-field experience. He specializes in appliance failures and product testing / analysis and has completed Honeywell, Whirlpool, Maycor and National Propane Association factory training.
