..... DIRECTOR'S NOTE

The Drowsy Chaperone was unknown to most of the actors in this show yet I have seen them dive in with a passion and talent that rises to the challenge of this musical. Over the past several months they have dedicated themselves and worked hard to produce this show. They have researched the 1920s and developed a broader vocabulary. They have practiced various types of humor and challenged themselves to understand the perspective of characters with which they may have little in common. I am so proud of the hard work they have poured into this show and could not ask for better actors to bring it to life.

The Drowsy Chaperone has been deemed a “love letter to musical theater” and is filled with moments that incite an actor’s joy and reflect the best parts of being involved in theater. It has been an honor to work with your children and help them discover those moments and remember that ultimately theater is about play. We will always work hard in and out of rehearsal to create meaningful art on the stage but we also get to engage in the play of theater. This age is so full of energy and sincerity. On the stage they are allowed to be dramatic, silly, loud, or serious and this show gives them ample opportunities to be all of the above! I have loved watching your children channel their energy into their characters and grow as actors. I hope tonight you enjoy watching them show off their incredible abilities. Feel free to engage with your own sense of play as we enjoy all the pleasures musical theater has to offer.
