SHAPE America’s National Convention was held this past March in Nashville, Tennessee. I had the opportunity to attend the convention and represent MNSHAPE. We were also lucky enough to have a number of other current and past MNSHAPE board members attend as well as some MNSHAPE members, including some future professionals! Our past president, Mike Doyle, was fortunate enough to bring Minnesota’s Education Commissioner, Brenda Cassellius, to the national convention and they spoke during one of the general sessions. There were a number of great sessions at the national convention from people all over the world. One of the great general sessions was from Stephen Ritz, an educator in South Bronx. Stephen was able to get his school’s daily attendance to go from 40% to 93%. Stephen works with students in his district to help them learn how to grow their own food, build sustainable gardens, and learn skills that they can use to gain employment after they graduate. If you have not heard of Stephen Ritz, I highly recommend you check out his website at https://stephenritz.com/, watch his Ted Talk and other videos on YouTube, and look at his project called Green Bronx Machine at https://greenbronxmachine.org/. Stephen was very motivating and has been doing amazing work throughout the world to help students and communities who might otherwise be struggling.

The Minnesota Department of Education (MDE) continues to work with MNSHAPE through a Physical Education Standards Leadership Team. The team has been working hard to set up Minnesota’s physical education teachers for success in the implementation of the new state standards. Trainings, sample assessments, and supportive materials are being created to help schools transition to using the new state physical education standards. Be sure to keep an eye out for updates from MDE and MNSHAPE through the MNSHAPE listserv. To join the listserv, text MNSHAPE to 228-28 or email us at minnesotashape@gmail.com.

MNSHAPE board members participated in the Twin Cities Heart Walk for the second year in a row. As a board, we raised $1,280 for the American Heart Association. Thank you to everyone who donated money to our group and to everyone who represented MNSHAPE at the walk.

If you are interested in presenting at the next MNSHAPE conference, go to our website and submit a proposal form by May 31, 2018 through the following (Continued on page 2)

The Minnesota Department of Education (MDE) has released the 2018 Academic Standards in Physical Education and Grade-Level Benchmarks. The standards are to be fully implemented in all Minnesota school districts by the 2021-2022 school year. Full implementation means that by the 2021-2022 school year, instruction in physical education in grades K–8 must include all the 2018 Minnesota physical education standards and grade-level benchmarks and instruction at the high school level must include all the 2018 Minnesota physical education standards and grade-level benchmarks for grades 9–12 beginning with the 2021-22 freshman (9th grade) class.

Since the release of the standards, we have received multiple requests to assist districts in their review process RIGHT NOW. I would remind you that accompanying the standards document, MDE also released recommended transition timeline that identifies a 4 different phases towards implementation that can be found on the MDE HPE webpage. The current phase, the development stage, runs through December 30, 2018. This is a time period that MDE is working with MNSHAPE and MNDAPE through a Leadership Committee to develop supportive materials and training designs to assist districts in their curriculum reviews.

It’s important for you to know the Leadership Committee, guided by a standard needs assessment survey, has identified a list of supports that will be available to help at the end of the developmental stage. There include things like creating and posting a basic introductory webinar; creating additional formats for the standards and benchmarks; developing a curriculum analysis tool that has step by step procedures to help guide districts through the review process; developing a Minnesota scope and sequence; developing both web-based and regional standards trainings; developing sample assessments; and creating a more in-depth physical education standards website.

I would highly encourage you to follow the steps outlined on the MDE Recommended Transition Timeline. Use these months to work with your administration to develop a plan that identifies curriculum development supports including timelines, budgets, training, coaching, and evaluation. As teachers, you simply need this time to take a deeper dive into the new grade-level benchmarks. Some of the benchmarks are easier to unpack than others. A clear understanding on your part is essential before your review process can move forward. I would remind you that all students will be required to meet all grade-level benchmarks. There are NO POWER STANDARDS OR BENCHMARKS.

We have worked very hard at the state level to get you the time you need to conduct your analysis thoroughly at the district level; and now we are working hard to create tools to assist you in your process. I highly encourage you to take this time now, as a district, to create a transition plan that identifies a realistic implementation timeline and a budget to support all the staff development needs that accompany it.
NASHVILLE REFLECTIONS
Lisa Rahkola

It has been 6 weeks since the SHAPE America National Convention in Nashville, TN, and I’m still feeling the energy, motivation and passion, even back at work amongst others who are counting down the days to summer. My experience at SHAPE America in Nashville is comparable to no other conference, convention, or professional development opportunity that I have participated in so far in my career. There is nothing like connecting with other like-minded individuals whom share your passion and drive to develop confident and competent movers.

One of the highlights for me was listening to Keynote Speaker, Stephen Ritz, founder of the Green Bronx Machine talk about the importance of encouraging our youth to grow and eat fruits and vegetables. This was a highlight for me not only because he was incredibly entertaining, but the message hits home as part of my job at New Discoveries Montessori Academy, besides teaching Physical Education, is coordinating and teaching Environmental Education. We absolutely need to teach these students how to become physically literate, but their health for their lifetime starts with what they are putting in their bodies. It starts with food. “We do not need more food, we need better food for more people.” –Stephen Ritz

One of my favorite sessions from SHAPE Nashville was the Emerging Leaders meeting, in which we connected personally and on social media, as a way to ensure positive support and continued learning from each other, even while living across the country. It was because of that session that I have been motivated to do many more things for my career, including the opportunity to speak on a SHAPE America podcast about the importance of self-care. We have to take care of ourselves in order to take care of our students and others in our life! There are so many great leaders out there, and connecting with those who are doing great things in the PE and Health world not only sparks more ideas and creativity for the everyday work we do, but gives us the “nudge” we need to grow ourselves and our profession. Our jobs are truly the most important thing our children experience in their education, because if you don’t have your health, you don’t have anything.

Lastly, my favorite memory of SHAPE Nashville was during the general session on Friday, when Brenda Cassellius and Mike Doyle shared what Minnesota has done regarding advocacy for ESSA and Physical Education in our state. The take home message was, “Just ASK.” We need to continue to ask. We need to ask that the funding under ESSA can support our Health and Physical Education programs; we need to ask for more access to quality Physical Education; we need to ask for more advocacy and support from legislature and stakeholders; and we need to ask for better access to professional development opportunities to ensure teachers have what they need to implement our newly revised PE Standards in the state of Minnesota. How do we show that it’s worth it? One way is getting the right people into our classrooms and gyms. I’m really looking forward to Brenda’s visit to my school in a couple weeks, because that’s one way we can advocate for more support. We need to put our quality PE programs on display. However, the best part of Friday was when Minnesota and MNSHAPE was recognized for their work in revising our PE Standards, and for all of the great things we are doing here. I was truly proud to wear my MNSHAPE jacket that day, and I think we should all be proud of our hard work. There is still more to do, but I feel lucky to work with the great professionals we have in our state and nationally, and I’m confident that we will continue to do great work to better serve our students.

One more thing. If you haven’t checked out how Minnesota kicked off the next MNSHAPE Board of Directors meeting post-Nashville, please check it out:

Well, another school year is coming to an end. I hope you all had a great school year and are looking forward to summer. As the year comes to an end it is always good to reflect on all the positive lessons you had during the school year and ways to improve those activities that did not go well. It is also an exciting time as we look forward to start to implement the new MN Physical Education standards and benchmarks. Mary Thissen-Milder (MDE) and the state standards leadership team is working hard to provide assistance to you as we go through this process.

I had a wonderful time at SHAPE America in Nashville, TN. I attended many great sessions and had endless discussions with other physical education specialists. It is always fun to be around thousands of other physical education teachers that think like we do. Highlights for me were great sessions on small sided games, #Phy. Ed, sessions presented by the recent Districts Teachers of the Year, including Minnesota’s CJ Johnson and having our MN Commissioner of Education speaking with Mike Doyle about advocacy.

As a MN SHAPE board we have been busy providing opportunities for our members. I hope some of you got to attend our Region workshop in Byron.

Our MN SHAPE board participated in the Heart Walk before our last board meeting. For those of you nominated for one of our awards, I hope you will complete your paperwork and get it turned in. The conference committee is now taking proposals for our 2018 fall conference and as usual, it will have great sessions.

I will be attending a couple of leadership development workshops this summer that I am looking forward to. Enjoy your summer and we look forward to seeing you at our fall MN SHAPE conference at Wayzata High School.

Changes in Partnership with American Heart Association

Dear SHAPE America Member,

In the late 1970s, physical education teacher and SHAPE America member Jean Barkow of Milwaukee’s Riverside High School held the first “Jump-Rope-a-Thon” to build community spirit and get students excited about physical activity, all while raising money for her local American Heart Association Chapter.

Jean’s event was a big success and other schools soon held events of their own. Shortly thereafter, the Jump Rope For Heart program was launched nationwide, co-sponsored by SHAPE America and the American Heart Association.

Now, 39 years later, Jean’s vision and passion have impacted millions of children, teachers and families who know more about heart health and the importance of physical activity because of their participation in the Jump Rope For Heart — and Hoops For Heart — programs.

In schools across the country, these programs have instilled students with a sense of pride and altruism through their fundraising efforts for heart-health research. Students have also experienced moments of pure joy by accomplishing their goals and celebrating alongside their peers and teachers.

These programs have had a significant impact on schools and communities nationwide and we are truly grateful for the tireless dedication of our members and the countless volunteers who have ensured the success of JRFH/HFH.

Over the decades, the partnership between SHAPE America and the American Heart Association has evolved, and the needs of our members have changed. After nearly 40 years, it’s now time for SHAPE America and our state affiliates to head in a new direction with Jump Rope For Heart. On July 1, 2018, the Joint Project partnership between SHAPE America, its 51 state affiliate organizations, and the American Heart Association will conclude.

Although the time has come for this partnership to end, we remain committed to providing you with the tools and resources you need to help students live their best life through effective health and physical education.

We are also excited about new opportunities and partnerships on the horizon that will give you more choices for school-wide programs that get students and families excited about health, physical education and physical activity — all while raising much-needed funds for your school and community.

As the school year comes to a close, I wish you an active and healthy summer and look forward to an exciting year ahead. If you have any questions or comments, please don’t hesitate to contact me directly at smorris@shapeamerica.org.

Best,

Stephanie Morris
