How It Works

Weigh Price Labeling is a web-based program that can be standalone, or networked into an exisiting system. Within the program, the label for the product can be characterized with a product ID, description, barcode, unit price, serial number, date offset, unit tare weight, weight unit, and more.

The program uses Bar Tender, a separate third-party software, in the background. The software is an interface that brings Bar Tender together in a more easily configured view.

Within the system, you are able to access the label print history. This tab can be organized by print date, shift, product, serial number, price per weight, gross weight, tare weight, net weight and more.

For the configuration fields, you can access the label template, printer choice, different products and different scales.
