

The Bounce Exchange buildout brought a downtown vibe to The New York Times Building. After having built out their first office space, Pass Construction was called back to do it again. The high density benching system meshed with open spaces, fun activity areas and a pantry to rival your favorite downtown bodega this space is a great example of our work. Small renovations to large scale buildouts, we've done it.