

AMANDA FRANCISCO

Instructor

Amanda has been dancing since the age of four and dancing competitively since the age of eight. She began her dance journey at Miller Street Dance Academy in North Carolina and after moving to California, found her home at Aspire Dance Studio in 2013. She competed as part of the Westlake High School Dance Team and Charlotte Catholic High School Dance Team. She has been a competitive soloist in the genres of tap and contemporary.

In college, Amanda's love for creating choreography blossomed. She was a lead choreographer for the Cal Poly Spring Dance Showcase in 2017 and 2018, where she choreographed and performed in advanced tap dance pieces. She also served as the dance chair for her sorority from 2017-2019, which involved choreographing pieces for Cal Poly's annual dance crew competition for three consecutive years.

Amanda graduated from Cal Poly San Luis Obispo with 2019 with a bachelor's degree in Political Science and a minor in dance. She is starting at Southwestern Law School this Fall and couldn't be more excited to be back with her Aspire family!
