

When?

Manufacturers recommend your machine be checked and lubed, with all bolts tightened every six months or 150 miles. While many machines will remind you of this on the display console, we can help you choose the correct service intervals for your specific usage and needs. We will set up a regular service cycle and send you reminders for your next scheduled service date. Call 980-439-2959 or log on to www.AssemblyMatters.com to request a quote.

Our Promise

For the past ten years our goal has been to maximize the life of our clients' equipment. Our trained technicians bring you a decade of experience and knowledge working with commercial and residential fitness products. This knowledge is something we find that our competitors lack in this ever-changing industry. Choosing Assembly Matters means you will never search for another service provider again.

What's Included

Maintenance service of your machine is preformed when your schedule permits and is often completed in an hour. The service includes but is not limited to:

- Lube all joints
- 36 Point Inspections
- Tighten All Hardware
- Test All Electronics
- Calibrate Machine
- Balance Rollers
- Lube Belt
- Other Services depending on the machine

Why?

Performing the recommended maintenance on your machine helps protect your manufacturer or extended warranty. The most important reason is to prolong the life of your machine. Our service tech can also pinpoint problems and notify the manufacturer or extended warranty company prior to your machine breaking. This saves you downtime. We also perform maintenance on gym equipment too. Don't forget about your strength machines. Workout gyms, both free weight and stack weight units need regular maintenance and service for proper cable tensioning, lubrication and tightening of all components.

Need new cables for your gym? We make custom cables.
