

2021-2022 Indemnified Bindings

DANGER! Severe injury/Permanent disability if gear selection and setting not done by professional. Data and suggestions provided here are for informational purposes only. By reading this page, user agrees that Ski Bum USA is not liable for any subsequent use of this information. Skiing is a dangerous sport, you can die. Even new equipment can fail inexplicably due to unforeseen hazards or issues,

Why We Provide This List

We believe that educated, active, informed and involved enthusiasts are the way to grow the sport.

We believe that a healthy market for used equipment will engage millions of people who otherwise can't afford to ski.

We believe the volunteer at the municipal rope tow should be able to find out immediately if the bindings on the donated skis are indemnified.

Apparently most manufacturers and retailers disagree. So, they refuse to make this information available to the public. I call foul. Shame on the ski manufacturing and ski retailing community for this. I can't think of any healthy, growing sport for which the supply chain so actively tries to make that sport unapproachable for the common man. Alpine skiing participation, on the other hand, is flat. In fact the number of participants has fallen dramatically over the past half century. I say the manufacturers and retailers are helping to kill the very sport from which they earn their livelihood, the sport that we love.

So despite their efforts to keep you in the dark, here's the most up to date information we have....Keep in mind that any data older than 2021-22 is likely to be inaccurate, use this only as a guide. We will update each manufacturer as we receive the information.

Remember that the ultimate determination of whether or not a shop will work on a binding is the opinion of the technician. This list is provided ONLY to show which bindings the manufacturers are still supporting through liability indemnification.

IMPORTANT NOTE: This list of Marker bindings is VIRTUALLY COMPLETE for Marker branded only. At this time we are still collecting model names for Marker bindings with Volkl, Nordica, Blizzard etc. branding and will update when complete. Marker's indemnification program usually covers an entire series of bindings for approximately ten years. Marker also uses other identifiers, such as C1 and C2, these are simply color identifiers and may or may not be found on the bindings and/or packaging. Low Ride is another current Marker binding that may not be common in North America. This list also does not include all current AT bindings.

Note about “Final Season”: Salomon has been known to list bindings as “final season,” then prolong the indemnification for yet another season. The last dozen or so in both of the final season lists above were listed the same way last year, so they are likely indeed in the final “final season.”

More about Salomon: According to their website, Salomon says: “Older models of Salomon bindings no longer on the Schedule of Indemnified Bindings may still be serviced, however Liability Indemnification will not be offered by Salomon for these models of bindings. Dealers wishing to service these models of bindings can reduce their liability risk by requiring an additional waiver and release agreement and attaching it to the Workshop Form. Such waivers should be reviewed by a dealer’s own legal counsel to ensure compliance with applicable laws.

Salomon bindings are not designed or tested for use with Mono Boards, therefore bindings mounted on Monoboards will not be indemnified.

IMPORTANT NOTE: This list of Volkl/Marker bindings is INCOMPLETE. Marker's indemnification program usually covers an entire series of bindings for approximately ten years. So it is probably safe to conclude that late model bindings with the X-Cell, Duke, Baron, Jester, Squire, Griffon, Kingpin, Free and X-Comp names are still current. Likewise, bindings with numbers 4.5, 7.0, 10.0, 11.0, 12.0 are most likely current, regardless of further identifiers. Marker also uses identifiers such as C1 and C2, these are simply color identifiers and may or may not be found on the bindings and/or packaging. Low Ride is another current Marker binding that may not be common in North America. We will publish additional information when available.

That's all we have so far.

Binding FAQs — Read this BEFORE you use the list.

Q: And what is indemnification?

A: In short, it means the manufacturer will “support” the certified technician in the event of legal action. That’s all.

Q: Does indemnification mean that a binding is definitely usable?

A: No. See question #1 immediately above.

Q: Does non-indemnified mean that the binding is no longer usable?

A: Not necessarily. It just means you do so completely and totally at your own risk.

Q: Why should I care if a binding is still indemnified?

A: Because if you buy skis with non-indemnified bindings, you probably won’t find a shop willing to adjust them for you. If you do find a shop that will work on old bindings, they will make you sign a hold harmless form. Aside from that, non-indemnified bindings tend to be older. Moisture, freezing, thawing...a lot of things going on inside the bindings, and it all relies on spring performance. Even if the skis were stored in a humidity controlled environment, do you want to trust your knee to a spring that has been compressed for 15 years?

Q: What if a binding is listed but the shop won’t work on it?

A: That’s their right. If a binding appears to be damaged, corroded, or otherwise hinky, the technician may still refuse to work on it.

Q: What if a binding is on this list but turns out NOT to be indemnified?

A: We made a mistake, or something changed. Again, you use this at your own risk, as a general guide. Check with your a professional ski technician before you do anything.

Q: What if a binding is indemnified but I still tear my knee apart?

A: Fate can be a fickle friend. You ski, and you use this information at your own risk. Sorry about the knee.

Also remember that the “indemnification” is only that of the manufacturer willing to back the certified retailer, not when you or I install our own bindings or screw around with settings.
