A Note from Rick: The markets at TLA were all steady (unchanged) this week with the exception of butcher cattle, which were weaker. Mixed and Holstein Fats continued their recent downward trend and have fallen between $15 and $25 in the last month or so. Meanwhile, butcher cows have remained strong and steady over the same time period. We had a big run of Springers on Thursday and I felt the quality of the cattle from top to bottom was as good as we've had in a while. Prices were unchanged for the most part. The Dairy market just seems to be struggling along and will continue to until we see a better milk market. The rain has sure been making the crops look great, but it's made our construction project a little muddy. I'm not complaining though, we'll take it. The Fourth of July Festivities in Topeka brought lots of people to town. It was fun to be able to be a part of the town parade and to get to see so many happy faces. The Firecracker Frenzy went well for our first community sale. We weren't sure what to expect and we've got lots to build on for our next Buggy Horse & Pony Sale on September 21st. We've got lots of work going on here and things will be changing fast. See you at TLA!
