

Programmer Analyst - I (Full Time - Permanent role)

Job Code # 007

JOB DESCRIPTION

The Programmer Analyst will part of iPurple Lab's innovative product development group working on support efforts for Mobile Information Device Profile Projects. The Programmer Analyst is expected to take initiative and provide innovative solutions to technical problems on an interactive basis.

- Reviewing and understanding the source code of VXML, Java/J2EE, IVR software and make appropriate code changes.
- Understanding of application architecture and java programming.
- Writing source code, preparing test data, tests and debugs programs, revising and refining programs as directed;
- Will participate as a team member with other employees and will support configuration management and other programmatic activities (updates to procedures, logging of activities, and use of Subversion configuration control software) as required.
- Involved in production support activities and bug fixes.
- Participates in special projects such as acquisition conversions or technology initiatives.
- Travel for up to 50 % may be necessary at times depending on the project needs.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Bachelor's degree in Information Technology or Computer Science or any other related field.
- Previous experience in the development of innovative and creative database driven, web-based applications.
- Knowledgeable of relational and non-relational databases including Oracle and MySQL.
- Experience with modern web technology
- Experience programming in Linux/Unix and Windows environments
- Quality workmanship with an eye for detail.
- Excellent communication skills (both verbal and written) and superior human relation skills.

Send your copy of resume with subject line Job Code # 007 to hr@ipurplelabs.com