National Panhellenic Conference Recognizes Outstanding Alumnae Associations Phoenix Association Earns Top Honors

INDIANAPOLIS – The National Panhellenic Conference (NPC), one of the largest advocacy organizations for women, has recognized the Phoenix Alumnae Panhellenic as the Harriett Macht Outstanding Alumnae Panhellenic Award recipient. The award established by Delta Phi Epsilon in honor of former NPC Chairman Harriett Macht in 1993, recognizes excellence in communication, programming, scholarship and service.

The 95-year-old Phoenix Alumnae Panhellenic Association is one of NPC's most active community-based groups, awarding more than $41,000 in scholarships to 23 women during the biennium, donating more than 1,000 teddy bears to the Phoenix Fire Department for their charitable efforts, connecting with collegiate sorority women at Arizona State University and Northern Arizona University and educating high school women about sorority life.

The group has membership from 20 of NPC's 26 member sororities, representing 1,000 active alumnae.

"Phoenix truly demonstrates the meaning of lifetime sorority membership and all the good that Panhellenic women can achieve working together," said Julie Johnson, NPC Panhellenics chairman. "They have truly survived the test of time, and continue to embrace new avenues of connecting through both online and face-to-face communication."

According to NPC's most current data, there are 193 Alumnae Panhellenics. In the past year, community-based alumnae groups have collectively:

- Donated 65,552 hours to community service;
- Raised $593,330 for undergraduate and graduate scholarships;
- Awarded 457 scholarships;
- And contributed $136,585 to community causes.

Other alumnae groups receiving honorable mention for outstanding service are the Atlanta Alumnae Panhellenic, Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Panhellenic and Northern Virginia Alumnae Panhellenic.
