

Existing Conditions

Salt Lake City's range of parks create a robust and varied system. The 689.8 acres of existing park land are distributed throughout the residential areas of the city. The 1,693.7 acres of city owned natural lands are predominantly concentrated in the foothills and along Jordan River.

