

Director Barry J. Wicklow, Ph.D. is a Professor of Biology at Saint Anselm College where he teaches Aquatic Ecology and Conservation Biology and is the director of the Environmental Science Program. He has also received the college's Distinguished Faculty Award. Early in his career he served on the board of directors of the Piscataquog Land Conservancy, later as vice president. In 2007 he was awarded the statewide "Conservationist of the Year" by the Audubon Society of NH. He chairs the conservation committee for the Francestown Land Trust.