CONVERSATIONS AROUND DEATH & DYING (MAiD) One theme arising from previous sessions on MAiD was that many of us are uncomfortable discussing our own death as well as the death of a loved one. However, honest conversations (about values, good palliative care, or advanced care planning) can help to improve the care we receive at the end of our lives. In response to this, the Committee Looking at Medical Assistance in Dying (MAiD) is planning a session for Monday, November 21st at Holy Family (Falkland Street, Moncton) from 7:00 pm – 8:30 pm. The session will be led by Pam Driedger, member of the Adult Faith Commission and a Director of Spiritual Care at the Moncton Hospital with Horizon Health Network. The aim of this session will be to help families start conversations about death and dying before circumstances force them to. How can families and loved ones accompany those who find themselves struggling with illness, pain and difficult medical circumstances? Register with Karen LeBlanc at 387-4198, karen.diocese@gmail.com or online at www.diomoncton.ca → Pastoral Offices → Adult Faith → Formation Opportunities.

FAITH EXPERIMENTS EXPRESS Children in grades 1 through 6 are invited back to Faith Experiments Express where we use science experiments to teach about God and Scripture. Sessions are conducted via Zoom and our first session will take place on Monday, October 24th at 6:00 PM. For more information, Contact Karen at 387-4198 or karen.diocese@gmail.com

MONDAYS @ THE MOVIES Mondays @ The Movies is a group that meets regularly to discuss faith connections in popular films. Our next discussion will take place on Zoom on Monday, October 31st at 10:30 am when we will talk about the (2001) psychological thriller, The Others, starring Nicole Kidman. For more information or to register, contact Karen.

Exploring our Faith:* There's Good, And Then There's Better

Jesus says, “if you know these things, then blessed are you who do them” (Jn. 13:17). In other words, if you know better, you must do better. Once you know, you cannot pretend you don't know. When I consider the deplorable state of presiding and preaching that we find in most of our churches-- not just here in our diocese, but almost everywhere I go—I wonder if these priests actually do know better. They should know better, but apparently, they don't. Did they not receive proper liturgical formation at the seminary? And after ordination, did their development get arrested by neglect or, worse still, arrogance? (Being a priest for over 25 years, I think I have earned the right to hold priests' feet to the fire, including my own). We will never develop leaders if we only ordain followers. We will never develop shepherds if we only ordain sheep.

I was raised, not with a lot of brains, but with a lot of common sense. Common sense, in everyday life, should spill over into the world of liturgical prayer but, unfortunately, that's not always the case. One day, immediately after Mass was finished, an elderly religious Sister approached me. She said (I'm paraphrasing our conversation), "Thank you." I said, "For what?" She said, "You know the part of the Eucharistic Prayer where the priest says Jesus' words, 'Take this all of you and eat...take this all of you and drink', you looked right at me. For a moment, you were gone, and I felt Jesus was looking right at me offering me his body and blood." Isn't that what good liturgy is supposed to do--help us make connections? Isn't the role of Mass to make present the Last Supper, the saving mystery of our salvation? Good for you, Sister, you got it! And you got it all because somebody used common sense. Someone followed the Spirit of the Law instead of the Letter of the Law.

The Roman Missal (big, red book on the altar containing the prayers for Eucharist) speaks about the priest at the consecration. It says that after the consecration (the invoking of the Spirit to transform the bread into the Body of Christ), the priest takes the blessed bread, holds it slightly raised above the altar, bows, and says, "Take this all of you..." It then says the priest shows the consecrated host to the people. This is where much common sense goes out the window. This is where we close the door on people making connections like that Sister did.

The instructions says that the priest "shows" the consecrated host. It does not say that the priest is to elevate the host, which is what almost all priests and bishops do. What we end up with, completely through ignorance, are three elevations! There is only supposed to be one elevation, and that one takes place at the end of the Eucharistic Prayer at the doxology. Here the priest elevates both the bread and the wine accompanied by the words, "Through him, with him, and in him..." This is supposed to be the climax of the Eucharistic Prayer, but it's anticlimactic. Why? Because rather than showing the bread (This is my body) and then showing the wine (This is my blood), most priests have used these opportunities to do two, separate "elevations." By the time you get to the real and only elevation (Through him, with him, in him...) the whole this is cheapened by redundancy. Whenever you multiply symbols, you cheapen them. Some churches have crosses carved onto the end of every pew. It cheapens and makes redundant the one Cross of Christ. The Roman Missal says the priest shows (not elevates) the consecrated host to the people. Again, we can do better than that. Most priests take the one big host and elevate it alone. What about the other hosts? Are they not the Body of Christ also? Why is the "priest's" host signalled out? To me it shouldn't be. All the bread in the plate is the Body of Christ. When the priest elevates one host only, he is giving a subtle message that the host he is about to eat is somehow more important than the hosts the congregation are about to consume? Has Christ been divided? (1 Cor. 1:13).

This one-host business is a throwback to the Middle Ages when the laity were no longer receiving Communion during Mass. For hundreds of years, the laity were reduced to spectators. The Cup was withheld from them and still is, to this very day, in many of our churches. The Communion plate, meant to hold real bread, was reduced to a small paten just large enough to hold one host—the priest's host! He alone consumed even though Jesus said, "Take this all of you." I guess we weren't meant to take Jesus at his word. We had a better plan—the priest alone was to consume on the Body of Christ on behalf of us all. The laity's role was not to eat the Body of Christ, only to stare upon it. They called this the "gaze that saves." How sad!

Have we evolved for the better after all these centuries? Hardly. Priest still do not look at the people. We are instructed to look up (into heaven), look down at the Bread, but nowhere are we to look at the people for whom Jesus gave his life. A three-year old has enough common sense to know they are being ignored when you give them something while looking above them, below them, but never at them. Young children and old Sisters have much to teach us. There's good and then there's better. If you know these things, blessed are you who do them.

At the initiative of Pope Pius XI in 1926, the second last Sunday during October became known as World Mission Sunday. Catholics throughout the world are invited to pray for and give to the missions. The collection this Sunday is organized by the Pontifical Missions Society. The funds collected assist some 1, 250 mission dioceses under the responsibility of the Congregation for the Evangelization of Peoples. As agreed by the Holy See and the Bishops of Canada, a portion of the Canadian contributions to this collection will continue to be used until 2020 to assist six diocese in Northern Canada which for many years had also been under the jurisdiction of the Congregation. Pastors and pastoral workers are invited to encourage among all the people of God a missionary spirit, to promote missionary vocations, and to collaborate spiritually and materially in the Church's mission work, including support for all the dioceses in our country's northern regions.
